RECOGNITION FOR MEXICO SOON

Formal Ceremony Probably Early in October—Washington Embassy Retransferred.

REGRET FOR CARDEN TALK

British Ambassador Repudiates Criticism of Wilson—Transports Ordered to Vera Cruz.

MEXICAN TROOPS ON WAY

Force of 3,000 Ready to Take Possession—Carranza Grateful for Evacuation Order.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Early in October the American Government formally will be asked to extend recognition to the new Government in Mexico. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that the question of recognition will be raised when the new Provisional Government is set up in Mexico City.

It is expected that the plans for the Provisional Government will be arranged by the Constitutionalist Convention to be held in Mexico City on Oct. 1. This convention is to be primarily a military gathering. It will be attended by Carranza, Obregon, Villa, and the other military leaders of the recent revolution. Emiliano Zapata, leader of the revolt in Southern Mexico, has been invited by Gen. Carranza to attend.

It is expected that the convention will name a Provisional President to take the reins of executive control from Carranza and carry along the Government until elections have been held. Carranza is to be a candidate for President in the elections. As soon as the Provisional President is named and takes control the United States Government will be asked to extend recognition. If the new Provisional Government is recognized, diplomatic relations between the two countries will be resumed.

A step in the direction of the restoration of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico was taken this afternoon when the affairs of the Mexican Embassy formally were turned over to Juan F. Urquidi, representative of the Mexican Government in Washington, who has been associated with Señor Zubaran in the conduct of the Mexican confidential agency. The headquarters of the Constitutionalist agency now will be transferred from the apartment house in which they have been established since the early days of the Carranza revolution to the spacious quarters of the Mexican Embassy on I Street, which have been guarded, day and night, by policemen detailed on that duty by request of the State Department since the crisis of last April.

During the final days of the Huerta régime, following the severance of diplomatic relations between this country and Mexico, Señor Juan Riano, the Ambassador from Spain to the United States, has been representing Mexico in this country. This afternoon Ambassador Riano, in the presence of the attachés of the Mexican Embassy, formally turned over to Señor Urquidi the archives and actual possession of the Mexican Embassy.

Transports Ordered to Vera Cruz.

Plans for the return of the American troops and marines from Vera Cruz are being formulated by the War Department. Secretary Garrison today ordered six transports to proceed to the Mexican port to transport the expeditionary force back to this country. The transports ordered to sail were the Buford and Kilpatrick, from Colon; the City of Macon and the City of Denver, from Newport News; the Kansan, from Galveston, and the Cristobal, from New York.

Secretary Garrison said he thought it would take about ten days for the transports to assemble at Vera Cruz. The present plan is to land all the troops at Galveston. No orders have been given yet for the movement of the returning Vera Cruz troops, or of those on the Texas frontier to their garrisons throughout the United States.

Many members of Congress are urging the War Department to send the troops to their regular posts as soon as possible. The politicians are anxious to have the soldiers back at their forts and garrisons, because it will mean prosperity for the merchants near these forts, and this is considered desirable by Congressmen now that the elections are coming on.

Most of the marines now at Vera Cruz will be sent to Philadelphia, and none of the marine contingent will be stationed outside the continental boundaries of the United States.

Secretary Garrison said that the conditions at Vera Cruz were unchanged and that he had no advices indicating any fear of danger due to removal of the American forces from the Mexican port. The Custom House at Vera Cruz is to be surrendered as soon as some person, mutually agreed upon between the United States and the Carranza Government, has been selected to take charge of the funds. The customs funds have been held separate from the municipal collections. The municipal government has been paid for partially out of the municipal tax and other local collections, but these were not sufficient, and there will be a deficit. The only money spent out of the customs funds collected in Vera Cruz has been for the expense of maintaining the Custom House.

Americans who have claims against Mexico for damages during the recent revolutions are making inquiries of the State Department as to when these claims will be taken up. Such inquirers are being informed that none of the claims will be considered until after a Government has been recognized in Mexico.

President Wilson declared today that he had ordered the American troops withdrawn from Vera Cruz because he believed the Mexicans now in control were able to manage the affairs of their country.

Spring-Rice Expresses Regret.

Coincidentally with the President's remarks on Mexico to his callers, the British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, expressed to the State Department his own regret that Sir Lionel Carden, British Minister to Mexico, should have been quoted in criticism of the President's policy. He said that British diplomats never were permitted to criticise the heads of foreign countries, and that whatever the statement that may have been made it did not represent the view of the British Government.

Officials accepted the Ambassador's

J. P. MORGAN'S HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

Blaze in Library Causes $3,000 Loss—Costly Tapestries Recently Removed—Family Away.

Fire in a small library on the Thirty-seventh Street side of J. P. Morgan's house at Madison Avenue, which was discovered shortly after midnight this morning did about $3,000 damage. Quick work on the part of a policeman who discovered the blaze got the firemen there before the flames had gained much headway, and the blaze was confined to the one room.

Patrolman Seebach of the West Thirtieth Street Station was patrolling Thirty-seventh Street when he noticed a glare in a bay window toward the rear of the house. Seebach looked in the window and saw flames leaping up in a large patch in the centre of the floor. He ran to Park Avenue and turned in an alarm.

Soon afterward Michael Johnson, who is a caretaker in the Morgan house during the absence of the family, discovered the fire and was about to turn in another alarm when he saw the fire apparatus approaching. Four engines, two hook and ladders, and a water-tower, under the command of Battalion Chief McKiernan, were sent to fight the blaze.

A hose line was put in through the front door and another from the rear, and in a few minutes the blaze was under control. By this time the smoke had filled the house. All of the valuable tapestries which had hung in the room were removed several weeks ago, when painters came to redecorate the room.

All that remained were a few pieces of furniture, several cases of books, and some ordinary hangings. The prize books in the Morgan collection are in a larger library in another part of the house.

After the flames were extinguished the firemen learned from Johnson that another manservant and three maids were in the house when the blaze started. The house was searched, but no trace could be found of them for some time, until the basement was reached, where all four were discovered.

The fire destroyed what books were in the library and the furniture there. Considerable damage additional was done by water and some by smoke. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

The house has been closed for some months. Mr. Morgan is now at Glen Cove, it was said last night.

SAYS AUSTRIA SEEKS PEACE WITH RUSSIA

Preliminary Steps Taken, Milan Paper Hears—Britain and France Might Not Object.

NEW YORK TIMES-London Daily Chronicle War Service.

MILAN, Sept. 17.—The Corriere della Sera learns that preliminary steps are being taken toward a possible arrangement for peace between Austria-Hungary and Russia.

It is asserted that Emperor Francis Joseph cherishes the hope that Great Britain would offer no serious opposition, since, apart from the cordial traditional friendship that has marked Anglo-Austrian relations, there is strong ground for believing that England really desires the preservation of Austria-Hungary.

The motives constraining to such an initiative are to be found in the remarkable revulsion of public feeling in Vienna, where there are grave symptoms of popular revolt, and in other parts of the empire, particularly Bohemia.

The negotiators, moreover, urge that France, too, has always showed special regard for Austria. Indeed, Vienna diplomats would fain discern a token of Anglo-French benevolence toward their country in the comparative inactivity of the allied fleets in the Adriatic, as though Great Britain and France, being mainly concerned in humbling the pride of the Prussian roundheads, were both loth to deal Austria a death blow.

SAYS GERMAN FLEETS FIRED ON EACH OTHER

Petrograd's Explanation of the Cannonading Heard in The Baltic.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 18.—Telegraphing to The Times, its Petrograd correspondent says:

"Reports of disaster to the German fleet in the Baltic have been confirmed by dispatches received here, which declare that German warships fired upon each other. All rumors of engagements with the Russian fleet in the Baltic, however, are untrue.

"The information reaching Petrograd is that a numerous flotilla, attended by cruisers, while engaged in hunting down passenger steamers, mistook their own for the enemy's ships and engaged in a lively battle. The number of vessels crippled is unknown, but several cruisers entered Kiel badly mauled and riddled and carrying many wounded."

The Times appends the following note to the message:

"This telegram from our Petrograd correspondent was delayed by censors and now is released by the Press Bureau, who are, however, unable to confirm the news contained in it. On Sept. 4 the Press Bureau issued the following statement:

"'According to information delivered from trustworthy sources seven German destroyers and torpedo boats have arrived at Kiel in a damaged condition, and it is understood that others have sunk in the vicinity of the canal.'"

DROVE GERMANS OVER FOUR RIVERS

Who Fell Back with Constant Losses Until They Reached the Aisne.

SOISSONS FIGHT SEVERE

French's Aid Quotes German Threats to Burn Rheims and Hang Citizens.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—An account of the operations of the British Army in France during the period from Sept. 10 to 13, and of the French armies in immediate touch with it, written by an officer attached to Field Marshal Sir John French's staff, was issued tonight by the Official Press Bureau. The account follows:

"Since Thursday, Sept. 10, the British Army made steady progress in its endeavor to drive back the enemy in co-operation with the French. The country across which it had to force its way and will have to continue to do so is undulating and covered with patches of thick wood.

"Within the area which faced the British before the advance commenced, right up to Laon, the chief feature of tactical importance is the fact that there are six rivers running right across the direction of the advance, at all of which it was possible that the Germans might make resistance. These are, in order, from the south, the Marne, Ourcq, Vesle, Aisne, Allette, and Oise.

"The enemy held the line of the Marne, which was crossed by our forces on Sept. 9, as a purely rear-guard operation. Our passage of the Ourcq, which here runs almost due east and west, was not contested. The Vesle was only lightly held, while resistance along the Aisne, both against the French and the British, has been and still is of a determined character.

"On Friday, Sept. 11, but little opposition was met with along any part of our front, and the direction of the advance was, for the purpose of co-operating with our allies, turned slightly to the northeast. The day was spent in rushing forward and gathering in various hostile detachments. By nightfall our forces had reached a line north of the Ourcq, extending from Ouchy-le-Chateau to Longpont.

French Win Substantial Victory.

"On this day there was also a general advance of the French along their whole line, which ended in a substantial success in one portion of the field, Grand Duke Albrecht of Württemburg's army being driven back across the Saulx, and elsewhere the whole of the artillery of a German corps being captured. Several German colors also were taken.

"It was only on this day that the full extent of the victory gained by the Allies on Sept. 8 was appreciated by them, and the moral effect of this success has been enormous.

"An order dated Sept. 6 and 7, issued by the commander of the German Seventh Corps was picked up. It stated that the great object of the war was about to be attained, since the French were going to accept battle, and that upon the result of this battle would depend the issue of the war and the honor of the German armies.

"It seems probable that the Germans not only expected to find that the British Army was beyond the power of assuming the offensive for some time, but counted on the French having been driven back on to the line of the Seine, and that, though surprised to find the latter moving forward against them after they had crossed the Marne, they were in no wise deterred from making a great effort.

Savage Fight at Soissons.

"On Saturday the 12th the enemy were found to be occupying a very formidable position opposite us on the north of the line at Soissons. They held both sides of the river and an intrenched line on the hills to the north of eight road bridges and two railway bridges crossing the Aisne within our section of the front. Seven of the former and both of the latter had been demolished.

"Working from the west to the east, our Third Army Corps gained some high ground south of the Aisne, overlooking the Aisne Valley, to the east of Soissons. Here a long-range artillery duel between our guns and those of the French on our left and the enemy's artillery on the hills continued during the greater part of the day, and did not cease until nearly midnight. The enemy had a very

PEACE TALK IN BERLIN

Gerard Sends Report of Conversation With Chancellor.

LET ALLIES STATE TERMS

WASHINGTON SEES HOPE

But President Regards Answer to Our Cautious Inquiry as Non-Committal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Germany has suggested informally that the United States should undertake to elicit from Great Britain, France, and Russia a statement of the terms under which the Allies would make peace.

The suggestion was made by the Imperial Chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg, to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin as a result of an inquiry sent by the American Government to learn whether Emperor William was desirous of discussing peace, as recently had been reported.

No reply was made by Emperor William himself, nor did the Imperial Chancellor indicate whether or not he spoke on behalf of the Emperor. Ambassador Gerard, in a cable dispatch to President Wilson, repeated the Chancellor's remarks from recollection, substantially as follows:

"Germany was appreciative of the American Government's interest and offer of services in trying to make peace. Germany did not want war, but had it forced on her. Even if she defeats France, she must likewise vanquish both Great Britain and Russia, as all three have made an agreement not to make peace except by common consent. Similarly, England has announced through Premier Asquith and her diplomatists and the newspapers that she intends to fight to the limit of her endurance. In view of that determination on the part of Great Britain, the United States ought to get proposals of peace from the Allies. Germany could accept only a lasting peace, one that would make her people secure against future attacks. To accept mediation now would be interpreted by the Allies as a sign of weakness on the part of Germany and would be misunderstood by the German people, who, having made great sacrifices, had the right to demand guarantees of security."

President Thinks It Non-Committal

The above is all that Ambassador Gerard communicated as to his conversation. He added only the brief comment that he, himself, thought the way might possibly be opened to mediation. President Wilson did not regard the message, however, as bringing anything tangible. He referred to the Chancellor's conversation as non-committal and incidental to the acknowledgment of the American Government's inquiry. The President indicated that he rather expected a reply to the inquiry to be sent eventually from the Emperor himself, although he realizes that the Imperial Chancellor may have consulted the Kaiser by telegraph before talking informally with the American Ambassador.

President Wilson took no action as a result of the message, waiting to hear from Ambassador Gerard whether anything of a more formal character could be obtained by him which the United States might communicate to Great Britain, France, and Russia. It was understood tonight that the British and French Ambassadors who are in Washington were not informed officially or unofficially by Secretary Bryan of the conversation between the Imperial German Chancellor and Ambassador Gerard.

Germany's position is that she will give her opinion on terms of peace when she has received a definite statement from the Allies of their proposals. The statement that Germany did not want war, but had it forced upon her, as well as the declaration that she wanted a lasting peace, is almost identical with the remarks which Sir Edward Grey made to Ambassador Page in London last week. The British Foreign Secretary said England wanted no temporary truce, but a permanent peace, and one that would safeguard her against sudden attacks such as Germany had made.

President's Future Course.

The general belief in well-informed circles tonight was that the President, after waiting a few days for more information from Berlin, probably would instruct the American Ambassadors at London, Paris, and Petrograd to communicate what the Imperial German Chancellor had said to Ambassador Gerard. It was believed the Ambassadors would be asked to reiterate the wish of the American Government to be of service in bringing about peace and to point out the readiness of the United States to communicate to Germany and Austria any statement of terms which the Allies might care to make.

Diplomatists are disposed to believe that through such informal conversations something definite in the way of peace terms may yet be obtained as a working basis. If a concord of opinion for the discussion of peace terms were reached President Wilson then would endeavor to obtain an acceptance by all the belligerents of the original tender of good offices. This would not mean a cessation of hostilities, unless the mediating power specifically made it a condition of mediation and all the belligerents agreed to it. An armistice would not hinder military movements or preparations serving merely as a truce while peace was discussed.

President Wilson already has indicated that he believes that the final reckoning of the war should be made in a conference of the European powers, and it would be the function of the United States to preside at such a conference if its services as a mediator were accepted.

Various reports were current today that Germany had named several conditions under which she would make peace, that she had refused proposals to alter the territorial status of her empire and possessions, and would cede no territory or dismantle her fleet, but it was said authoritatively that nothing of this character was contained in any of the messages from Berlin to the American Government.

A statement made at the White House today was the first authoritative acknowledgement that any inquiry on the subject of Germany's attitude concerning peace had been made by the United States. Officials heretofore have maintained silence in regard to the effort made by the Government to get at the bottom of the expression in favor of peace reported to have been made by the German Emperor to the Imperial Chancellor and mentioned in a private conversation in New York by Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States.

What was said by Count von Bernstorff in that conversation brought Oscar S. Straus post-haste to Washington, and as a result of what he told Secretary Bryan instructions were sent to Ambassador Gerard to ascertain whether the remarks attributed to the Emperor were to be taken as an indication that the German Government would not be averse to the exercise of the good offices of the United States in an effort to end the hostilities in Europe.

The conversation at which the German Ambassador made the statement occurred at the house of James Speyer, the banker, in New York. Oscar S. Straus, a member of the Permanent Tribunal of Arbitration at The Hague, was present. In the course of a discussion of the war in Europe and the prospects of peace Count von Bernstorff, it is understood, said that while he had no advices from the Imperial Government since he had left Berlin, he recalled that the Imperial Chancellor had told him that he believed Emperor William would be willing to discuss a proposal of peace through mediation.

With the permission of Count von Bernstorff, Mr. Straus came to Washington and told Secretary Bryan of what the German Ambassador had said. On the following day Count von Bernstorff made a trip from New York to Washington and had an interview with Secretary Bryan.

It has been understood that Mr Bryan, in an excess of caution, desired to ask Count von Bernstorff personally if he would consent to having Ambassador Gerard instructed to make inquiry of the German Government as to whether the conversation between the Emperor and the Imperial Chancellor might be regarded as indicating that an offer of mediation of the United States would not be unwelcome to Germany. Count von Bernstorff is understood to have assented to Mr. Bryan's suggestion, and the instructions to Mr. Gerard followed.

RUSSIA'S PEACE VIEWS.

Will Insist on Destruction of Militarism, Says Petrograd Report.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 16, (Dispatch to The London Daily Telegraph.)—The Exchange News says in an apparently inspired paragraph that Russian diplomacy in agreement with the Allies has refused to hear any direct or indirect negotiations for peace until the nest of militarism in Germany is completely destroyed and until Prussia ceases to play a predominant rôle among the German States.

England and France also must first be satisfied, Poland united, and Russia's aims as well as those of Slavdom in general must be fully attained.

Summary of War News.

The French War Office announces that the resistance of the German forces on the right wing of the Allies continues, although they have yielded more ground. In the centre, the German Army has strengthened its position between Berry-au-Bac and Argonne. The French forces have made further advances in the Woevre district. On the right flank, in Lorraine and the Vosges, there has been no change.

German Army Headquarters, via Berlin and wireless, reports that the situation in France is unchanged, adding that French attacks on Tuesday night and Wednesday against points in the German line were successfully repulsed by the Germans, who made victorious counter attacks. Several changes in the commands of German corps are announced, and French and English reports of victories in France are again denied.

Petrograd asserts that Gen. Rennenkampff has frustrated the attempt to outflank him in East Prussia, and that the Russian forces have taken up positions in line with the fortresses on the Russian side of the border.

In Austria, the German-Austrian Army has been driven further back, according to news dispatches from Petrograd as well as from Rome and Bucharest, and the Russian Army is nearing Przemysl. Austria is calling to the colors all men available for military duty, including those previously rejected as unfit.

It is announced in Washington that Germany, through her Imperial Chancellor, Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, has suggested to President Wilson, in reply to his inquiry as to the possibility of making peace, that the United States elicit from Great Britain, France, and Russia the terms under which the Allies would be willing to discuss peace.

A dispatch from The Hague reports "feverish military activity" in Holland and speculation there as to whether the Dutch intend to abandon their neutrality and attack Germany.

Italian reserves in Paris have been ordered to report to their colors on Sept. 28. Italian demonstrations in favor of the Allies have been suppressed by the military authorities. Meanwhile Italian troops have been landed in Albania to deal with the serious situation created by the insurgents since the abdication of the Prince of Wied.

The Turkish Army is reported from Petrograd to be concentrating on the Bulgarian frontier.

Tokio hears that the German cruiser Emden has sunk five British steamers off the coast of India, but there is no confirmation of this report.

BERLIN'S REPORT OF THE FIGHTING

German Successes at Several Points in the Extended Line Asserted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The German Embassy received this wireless message from Berlin today:

"All the French-English reports of victories in battles in France are untrue.

"The German retreat of the western wing was a practical manoeuvre not affecting the strategical position.

"The French attempt to break through the centre of the German position was victoriously repulsed.

"There is confirmation of German successes at several points of the extended battle field.

"The Temps reports that the losses of the British Army in the recent fighting amount to 15,000 dead and wounded."

The embassy also received this wireless message from Berlin:

"The London report that the German moratorium has been extended until the end of September is a shameless English lie. Germany never ordered nor wanted a moratorium, therefore there is no basis for a prolongation. All banks are doing business as usual."

Reports French Attacks Repulsed.

BERLIN, Sept. 17, (via Wireless Telegraphy by way of Sayville, L. I.)—An official report, given out at Army Headquarters at midnight, says that the French front remains unchanged.

The French attacks on a number of points, Tuesday night and Wednesday, were successfully repulsed by the Germans, who made a number of victorious counter-attacks.

Owing to illness Gen. von Hausen, former commander of the Second or Saxon Army, has been displaced by Gen. von Einem, former Minister of War. Gen. von Hausen is 68 years old.

Another change in leadership has taken place in the Fourteenth Reserve Corps, where Gen. von Schubert has been displaced by Quartermaster General von Stein, the well-known editor of the official war reports and the author of the laconic war bulletins.

It is reported from Vienna that 1,800 Galician traitors have been brought into Gras, Austria, where they are awaiting sentence. They are said to have been paid by Russia to signal the positions of Austrian troops to the Russian Army.

Lieut. Tiedemann of the Fifth Prussian Cuirassiers found twenty-one German recruits lying helpless on a highway in East Prussia. Cossacks had surprised them the day before and had severed their hands or legs and had cut their ears and noses.

Accompanying gendarmes captured a Russian officer who had a woman's finger with a ring on it in his pocket.

The commander of the German Eleventh Army Corps reports that the Russians cut the fingers from the hands of the German landwehr, (reservists.) He found twenty killed women with their breasts cut off.

An order issued by the commander of the First French Army and found by the German troops regrets the plundering of the French town of Rambervillers.

Heavy Subscriptions to Loans.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—This official statement was received tonight from Berlin by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company:

"Subscriptions to the German war loan, which began at the savings banks, have surpassed all expectations.

"Servian forces which crossed the River Save have been repulsed everywhere. The enemy has now been cleared out of the districts of Syrmia and Banat.

"Rifles in the form of sticks have been taken from Belgian francs-tireurs, (irregular troops.) The rifles were 87 centimeters long and could be fired by merely pressing a button. Our troops have been warned of the danger of these apparently harmless instruments in the hands of fanatical Belgians.

"It is reported from East Africa that German colonial troops have successfully attacked the Uganda Railway at different points.

"Information has been received from Cape Town that a German division on the Orange River has been surprised and made prisoners by the South African forces.

"All Germans between 19 and 45 years of age resident in States of the South African Union are being accommodated in the concentration camp at Roberts Heights."

HUGE GERMAN LOSSES.

Average of 3,200 a Day in Fortnight—Prince and Generals Slain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Daily News.)—I learn from a private but absolutely reliable source that during the last fortnight the Germans have been losing in killed, wounded, and missing an average of 3.200 men per day.

This represents a loss of roughly 45,000 men, of whom it is estimated 14,000 were killed.

BERLIN, Sept. 17, (via London.)—The official casualty list published today shows 4,563 names.

The total of the published casualties to date are 35,786 killed, wounded, or missing

Among the killed on Sept. 14 was Prince Otto Victor of Schoenburg-Waldenburg, a First Lieutenant of the Hussar Guards and a brother of the Princess of Wied.

Major Gen. Nieland was killed while leading his brigade in a street fight in a French city on Aug. 27.

Gen. Count Kirchbach, commander of the Tenth Reserve Corps, died on Sept. 3. Upon being mortally wounded, he gave up his command to Gen. von Eben.

PRINCE OF HESSE HIT.

Kaiser's Brother-in-Law Reported to be Badly Wounded.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 17.—German reports say Prince Frederick Charles of Hesse, brother-in-law of the Kaiser, has been badly wounded in the thigh.

Prince Joachim's injuries have not been followed by any complications, and he is progressing normally, but will have to keep in the hospital for many weeks.

KAISERIN VISITS WOUNDED.

University Degree for Hindenberg for His Military Services.

BERLIN, Sept. 17, (via Amsterdam.)—Empress Augusta Victoria today visited the hospital named for her and conversed with the wounded officers and men.

Prince Joachim, youngest son of the Emperor, who is at Bellevue Castle, is said to be recovering from his wounds, but it will be several weeks before he is well again.

All four Faculties of the University of Königsberg have conferred honorary degrees upon Gen. von Hindenberg in recognition of his services in repulsing the Russian invaders of East Prusia.

HOLDS KEY TO SITUATION

Troops Are Being Hurried to His Support While Allies Also Rush Up Men.

GERMAN GUNS EFFECTIVE

Cleverly Hidden Howitzers Big Factor in Defense—Crown Prince's Army Intrenches.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Stiff resistance to the Allies' advance is being made by the Germans at many points along their front in northeastern France, according to a bulletin issued by the War Office today. Tonight it was announced that there was no change in the situation.

The afternoon statement was as follows:

"First—On our left wing the resistance of the enemy on the heights to the north of the River Aisne has continued, in spite of the fact that the enemy gave back slightly at certain points.

"Second—On the centre, between Berry-au-Bac, on the River Aisne, and the Argonne, the situation shows no change. The enemy continues to fortify himself along the line previously indicated. Between the Argonne and the Meuse the Germans are intrenching themselves in the vicinity of Montfaucon. In the Woevre district we have come in contact with several detachments of the enemy between Etain and Thiaucourt.

"Third—On our right wing, in Lorraine and the Vosges, there has been no change.

"Summing up, the battle is being continued along the entire front between the River Oise and the River Meuse. The Germans occupy positions organized for defense and armed with heavy artillery.

"Our progress is of necessity slow, but our troops are animated by a spirit of offensive action, and they are giving evidence of vigor and enthusiasm. They have repulsed with success the counter-attacks undertaken by the enemy, both during the day and at night. The morale of the French soldiers is excellent.

"The Austrian armies evacuating Galicia are in full rout. Their losses in killed, wounded, and prisoners are estimated at several hundred thousand men. The German army corps which went to their succor are retreating."

WAR'S GREATEST BATTLE.

Immense Forces Now at Grips May Fight for Days.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—This evening's official bulletin confirms the impression that the battle that has been proceeding on and to the north of the Marne is the greatest and the most desperately contested of the war, at least in the western field. The Germans have given way slightly at certain points but they are fighting every foot of ground. Where they are they have strongly fortified positions.

The forces engaged on either hand are so immense that it may be several days before there is any decisive result.

On the east the enemy have entrenched themselves on the heights of Montfaucon, between the Argonne and the Meuse. The French are in contact with them between Etain and Thiaucourt. The commanders of the Allies speak confidently of the prospect. Heavy rains which are falling today will not be welcomed by the retreating German hosts for now they have to drag their heavy artillery over the hilly roads of Northern France.

Leon Bourgeois, who has just returned from a visit to the battlefields of the Marne, has been giving his impressions of what he saw. M. Bourgeois was acting as Almoner of the Comité National des Secours and he brings back a terrible story of the ruin and devastation which has been wrought. At the same time he was impressed by the excellent spirit which animated the French Army, the skill with which it was handled by its commanders, and the splendid organization of its supplies. The field of battle extended over a tract of country about sixty miles long and twelve to twenty miles wide. The wounded that M. Bourgeois met were in splendid spirits, greedy for news, and impatient to be back at the front.

He found many of the inhabitants of the region returning to their ruined homes, which they at once set about repairing, rejoicing over the news of the continued triumphs of the allied armies. Altogether M. Bourgeois expressed himself as being delighted at the spirit which had been shown by all elements of the population and by the army. So terrible were the losses that at one time it seemed possible that pestilence would be added to the other horrors of this terrible conflict. That danger has been removed by the prompt action of the authorities.

M. Briand has returned to Bordeaux after visiting Paris and the headquarters of the French armies.

He has reported to the Ministry that he found the state of the army excellent in every way, its health good and its morale of the best. With such men commanded by such leaders Briand looks forward with confidence to the end of the struggle. One of the things which struck Briand most was the measures which had been taken for the defense of Paris and the spirit of the people of the capital.

THREE MILLION MEN TO FIGHT.

Fiercest Conflict Likely to Take Place on Western Flank.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—In the fighting in northern France, where according to one estimate 8,000,000 men will engage in conflict along a 150-mile front, the western wings of the two armies, the German right and the Allies' left, will again bear a heavy part in the fighting. Upon the armies of Gen. von Kluck and Gen. von Bülow depends the safety of the rest of the German Army should retreat be decided upon or forced upon them. Besides holding the front they have to be prepared to withstand another attempt by the Allies to outflank them.

These German forces hold a position from a point near Noyon on the Oise through the district north of the Aisne to the junction of the latter river with the Suippes. Behind them are lines of railway, running in all directions, which facilitate the movement of troops from St. Quentin, Guise, and Mézières.

The Allies on their side can and, it is believed are, bringing in new troops through Rouen and Amiens to threaten the German flank. In fact, nearly the whole of northwest France is now open to the Allies, the Germans having withdrawn most of their scattered troops eastward toward the Oise.

The little British army that has fought so long and hard is looking forward to support from the Indian troops, which should soon be at the side of the Englishmen, if not for the present battle, then for the one which must soon follow it.

The French troops, who occupy an important point at Soissons, (the engineers having closely followed the army and repaired the railways,) are being reinforced, and on the whole, both as to positions and strength of forces, the opposing armies should be evenly matched except for the advantage of the Allies in having an army to threaten von Kluck's flank.

The situation along the rest of the line is much the same. In the centre between Rheims and the Argonne the Germans continue to fortify, while between Argonne and the Meuse the army of the Crown Prince is intrenching at Montfaucon. The French army which barred the eastward exit of the Crown Prince by Toul is still pressing him.

The battle front is somewhat shorter than was that in the battle of the Marne, but apparently the Germans are in a stronger position than they were in that conflict. They have been strongly reinforced with fresh troops from the north and east, and have assembled their heavy artillery.

Heavy Rain Hampers Operations.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Cold and heavy rains are falling today throughout the fighting zone in Northern and Eastern France. Military observers are of the opinion that this inclement weather will increase the difficulties of the Germans in greater degree than the French.

It will interfere with the progress of German supply trains, encumbered with men made ill through exposure.

The undetermined element in this contest is the Allies' right, which is in pursuit of the Crown Prince's army. All reports indicate that the latter is demoralized as was von Kluck's army and is suffering from lack of provisions and ammunition. While von Kluck has doubtless received what he needs in this respect, it is thought doubtful whether the Crown Prince has.

SEEK TO CORNER THREE CORPS

French Troops with Heavy Guns Trying to Outflank German Right.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 18.—Describing the battle along the Aisne, a Soissons dispatch to The Express says:

"French troops with heavy guns are endeavoring to outflank the German position. A French officer said that the position of the Allies was exceedingly good and that the enemy, consisting of three army corps, were in a practically hopeless position unless they found a way to escape to the northeast. But he admitted that the German position was a strong defensive one.

"The effect of Gen. French's address to his troops recently, when he rode along the whole front, was excellent. Words from a silent General have a double value. The troops appreciated deeply his praise and encouragement.

"It was a striking spectacle—thousands of men careless of danger standing at attention before their trusted leader—then at the Germans again."

RUSH ARMY BACK TO FRANCE?

Germans Said to be Withdrawing Eight Corps from East Prussia.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A Petrograd special dispatch to The Times says:

"According to the latest information available here, the Germans, realizing the futility of the withdrawal of eight army corps from their western front, are returning their first line of troops from East Prussia westward.

"Military writers here are still puzzling over the problem why Germany should have made the blunder of sending such an enormous army to East Prussia, where it was bound to remain either inactive or make an attempt to invade Russia, with the almost complete certainty of sharing the fate of the Austrian forces in Galicia.

"The real explanation seems to be that when half the population of East Prussia stampeded before Gen. Rennenkampff, carrying the panic to Berlin, Germany felt compelled to tranquillize the population by sending a great army to the area occupied by the Russians."

ROME (via London), Sept. 17.—The Tribuna states that the German headquarter staff has adopted a new plan of campaign, which consists of maintaining the defensive against the allies in the West while undertaking an offensive movement against the Russians, in which twelve German army corps will be employed.

Correspondent Says Conditions of Battle Favor the Allies.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 18.—The Paris correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company sends the following dispatch:

"Despite the gravity of recent communications no uneasiness is felt here regarding the result of the battle of the Aisne. It is realized that, as in the case of the battle of the Marne, news necessarily will be scarce for some days.

"The struggle of the last three days has not been less severe than that of the Marne, but the conditions favor the Allies. Certainly the enemy's right occupies a very strong position, but even that quarter has been obliged to give way slightly at certain points. The chief difficulty heretofore has been to locate the position of the enemy's guns.

"Along the rest of the line the Germans are favorably placed, but the evacuation of Varennes indicates that the German left is beginning to yield.

"The German Army is fighting at an enormous distance from its base, with extremely inadequate lines of communication. On its left the way is barred by the strongly fortified and intact French frontier. In the rear it is threatened by the Belgian Army. Finally, the persistent rain aggravates the difficulties attending the commissariat and the construction of intrenchments."

GERMAN GUNS HIT HARD.

Cleverly Concealed, They Cause Much Trouble to the Allies.

NEAR BRAISNE, France, Sept. 16, via Paris, Sept. 17.—There is an incessant roar of artillery along the entire line of battle in the vicinity of Braisne, where for the last four days the great forces of the Allies and the Germans have been in very close grips.

The field itself over which the armies are fighting is of a broken nature; consequently little evidence is visible of the terrific struggle in progress, although hundreds of thousands of men are engaged in this vicinity.

Detachments of artillery from the allied front fire shells with great rapidity at the German positions. Overhead French and British aeroplanes are flying hither and thither, trying to locate the positions of the big German guns. These, however, are so well masked that their emplacement has not yet been discovered, and they continue incessantly to launch their great projectiles in the direction of the allied forces.

German aeroplanes appear to have vanished from the scene of action. For about a week none has been observed, and British sharpshooters declare that they have accounted for so many that the others now hesitate to take the air.

Many incidents are being told of the reckless bravery of the French troops.

The Germans apparently are very adept at digging themselves in, and the ground favors them, so that they have made their positions extremely strong. Therefore the Allies, who are delivering the attack, will have a very hard task to advance.

It appears, however, that the French and British have gained some little ground at the western end of the battle, but slowly. Nowhere have the Allies receded an inch, while on the eastern end, owing to the nature of the country, they occupy an excellent position, permitting them, with the favor of fortune, to drive back the Germans on to the centre.

Both armies in the centre and at the eastern end hold their ground with marvelous tenacity, and the fighting is so severe everywhere that the casualties are very great. Many detachments of German stragglers have been cut off.

The military authorities decline to make known anything regarding the number of prisoners, but there are many of them. No doubt appears to exist in the minds of the allied commanders concerning the final result of the present stage of the operations. They seem to be aware that the fighting means a terrible cost of life, which, however, their troops evidently show readiness to pay in order to insure success.

FORTIFYING MUELHAUSEN.

Germans Said to be Preparing to Defend the Town.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERNE, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The Germans are strongly fortifying Mülhausen.

The International Red Cross Association at Geneva has fifty volunteer sorting clerks working day and night dispatching letters to prisoners of war sent by relatives and friends. Letters from prisoners of war received today from both France and Germany testify to their being well treated.

MORE FIGHTING IN ALSACE.

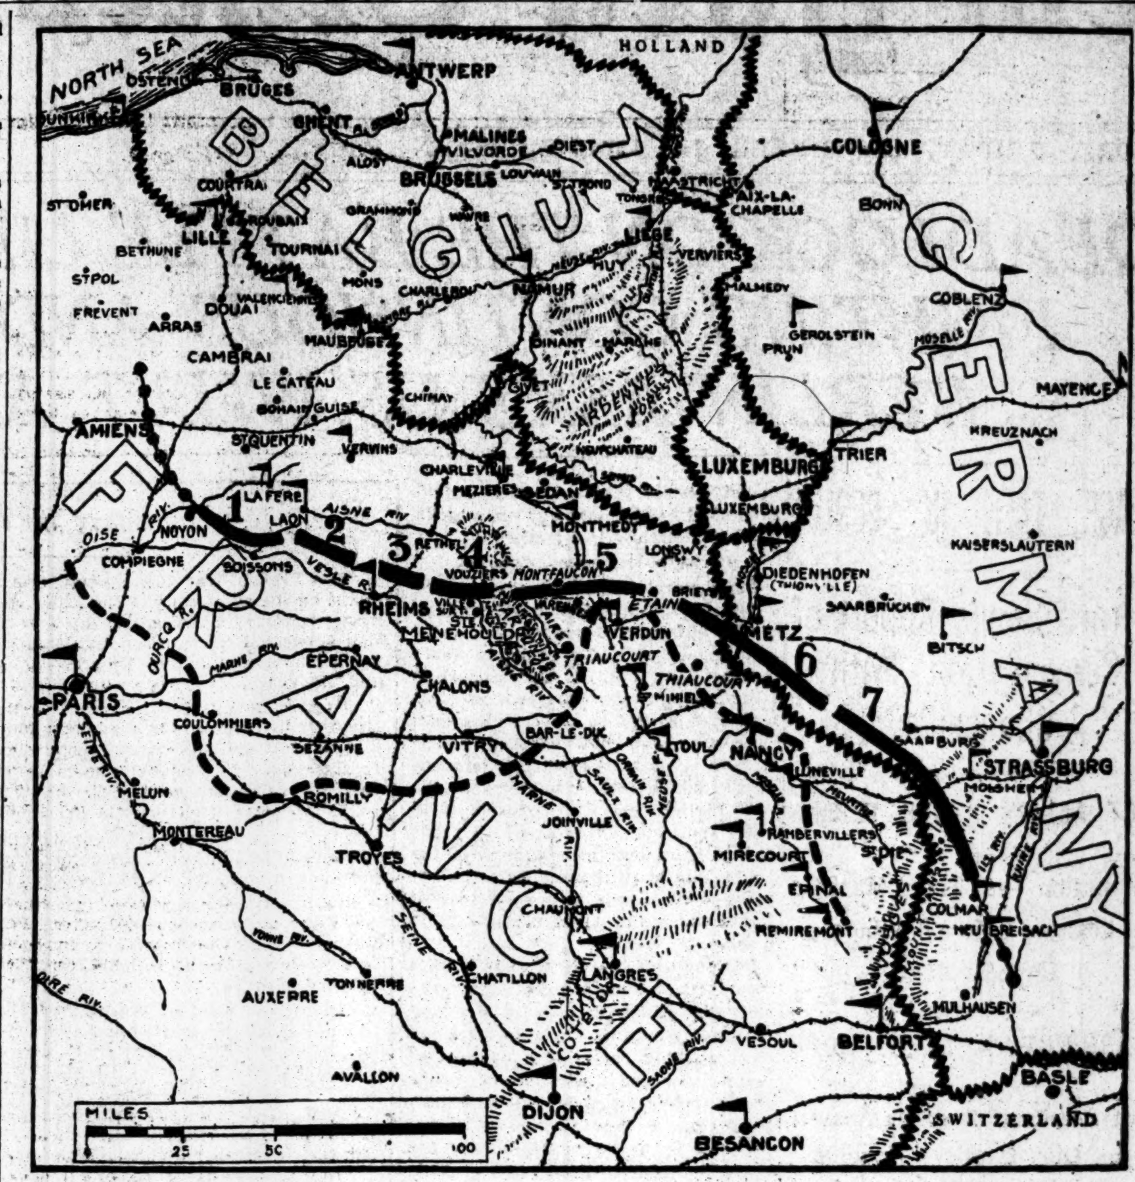
French Forces Are Reported to be Gaining Ground There.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Bordeaux says:

"A telegram received from Delemont, Switzerland, reports that violent fighting is taking place in Alsace, where the French are gaining ground."



Where 3,000,000 Men Are Gathering for Battle.

Chief interest in the present struggle attaches to the combat on the right wing of the German army, where the armies of Gens. von Kluck and von Bülow (Nos. 1 and 2 on the map) are resisting, and apparently with success, the attempts of the Allies to crowd them eastward by means of an encircling movement.

Likewise on the German left centre, where the Crown Prince has command, the French are thrusting hard to force his army (No. 5) northward on the frontier.

The other armies of the Kaiser are: (3) Army of Gen. von Hausen, who has just been relieved; (4) army under Grand Duke Albrecht of Württemberg; (6) Prince Rupprecht's army; (7) Gen. von Heeringen's army.

FIGARO'S PROPHET FORESEES THE END

A JOAN OF ARC DISCOVERED

Fought in Zouave Uniform Until Wounded—Heroism of a French Red Cross Nurse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—The Figaro continues the prophecy regarding the downfall of the "antichrist" which closely parallels the present European situation. The notable points are:

"The Black Eagle hurls himself against the cock, who loses many feathers and would soon be vanquished without the aid of the leopard.

"The antichrist's cohorts contain many Christians; among his enemies are many Mohammedans and savages.

"The White Eagle will come to help the cock, whose country is half invaded by the Black Eagle. Finally, the cock will invade the Black Eagle's country on the west, while the White Eagle attacks on the east.

"The conclusive battle will occur in the Black Eagle's country at the spot where the antichrist forges his weapons."

M. Peledan, who signs an article explaining the prophecy, is a well-known Mysticist and head of the Rosicrucian Societies. He has independent means and is a frequent contributor to the Figaro.

The prophecy ends with this statement: "The antichrist will die mad and exiled, and the White Eagle will expel the Crescent from Europe and occupy Constantinople."

Ex-Foreign Minister Stephen Pichon, who as Senator from the Department of the Jura decided to leave Paris, for the purpose of "upholding personally his rural constituents in the hour of trial," comforts Parisians today with a letter from his seclusion which appears in the Petit Journal. He expresses surprise at the courage and confidence of the country people, who further seem extraordinarily well informed regarding world politics and the positions of the various nations in the European struggle.

The recent battle is not without its Joan of Arc, as is just shown by the discovery among the French wounded of a young laundress, Eugenie X., aged 26, from Bagnolet, who procured a Zouave uniform and rifle from a wounded man and fought throughout the battle. She was greatly distressed at being sent home when the doctors discovered the truth in treating her slight injury.

The Journal des Débats recounts seeing yesterday at Versailles Station a red wagon bearing the name of the station of its origin, München, in white letters. Underneath was scrawled in chalk: "Naturalized French, Sept. 2, at X, by Squadron Thirteenth Chasseurs."

The same newspaper describes the heroic conduct of young Mademoiselle de Seiligny, attached to the Red Cross, who refused to leave the village chateau on the arrival of the Germans because she was in charge of two badly wounded Englishmen. Unaided, she harnessed a donkey to a cart, which she filled with straw, then hoisted the men in and walked forty kilometers to safety, leading the donkey.

FIRED ALOST, AS THEY FLED.

Germans' Destruction of Town Was Apparently Needless.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGIAN ARMY HEADQURTERS, Sept. 17.—nother Belgian town is to be added to the list of those already laid in ashes by the Germans. This is lost, a manufacturing and Socialist centre, between Brussels and Hermonde. It is primarily a working-class town.

The burning of Alost appears to have been as needless as the destruction of the other towns blotted out in the present German campaign. The peaceful inhabitants, it is declared, offered no resistance and committed no breaches of the rules of war.

The regulars of the Belgian Army have for days been closing in on Alost, bent on driving out the Germans. While details are lacking at headquarters this evening, it is known that the Belgian force, advancing westward, made a clean sweep of the Germans holding Alost. After a brisk engagement the Germans were driven out, withdrawing to the main road in the direction of Brussels. The Belgian commander states that the Germans fired the town in several places as they withdrew. A number of German wounded were left behind.

The news of the burning has excited fresh indignation throughout the country. The Germans are being closely pressed at several points in the theatre of operations and are slowly retiring from the northwest on Brussels.

PARIS HEARS OF CALL TO ITALIAN RESERVES

Sept. 28 Said to Have Been Set—Press Continues to Agitate in Favor of Allies.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—In a dispatch from Paris the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that the Italian reservists in the French capital have been called for Sept. 28. They believe, the correspondent says, that this means Italy's entrance into the war.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 16, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The Messaggero, returning to the subject of a Grand Ministry comprising men of all parties under Signor Salandra, who enjoys universal confidence, openly accuses Berlin and Vienna of employing much gold in Rome to propagate their versions of the war.

"If Austria wins," says the democratic organ, "our Adriatic and Balkan equilibrium will disappear in smoke, for in that case the coming Congress will make her the mistress of the eastern shores, the Adriatic and Balkan Peninsula. Everyone admits that Italy can never oppose England, but will not the always difficult policy of maintaining good relations with England simultaneously with the Triple Alliance be absolutely impossible after the rancor caused by the war?

"Italy must, therefore, choose either to be with England's friends or with England's enemies. If the latter, then how can Italy manage Libya, Eritrea, and Somaliland?"

The Austrophile Popolo Romano which, however, has a small circulation, has taken the opposite view, advocating a scrupulous maintenance of neutrality and describing Italian participation in the war as the vilest and most ignominious action that could be taken.

The Giornale d'Italia says:

"Italy must immediately complete her military preparations, for the fleet is ready. Italy must then await events, for any surprise is possible. In this cyclone, neutrality cannot suffice to save Italy from the gravest perils. Owing to her geographical position neither promises of friendship nor diplomatic facts can resist the overwhelming pressure of events and inevitable exigencies of the combat. The only safeguard, therefore, is to be militarily prepared."

Signor Celli, a Radical Deputy, publishes a letter on Italian foreign policy, arguing that recently too little attention has been paid to friendship with England, which always has been a bulwark against all hegemonies that may threaten European equilibrium, and has always reconciled interests with ideals. Signor Celli hopes this factor will henceforth receive first place in determining Italy's policy.

large number of heavy howitzers in well-concealed positions.

"The movement of this army corps was effected in co-operation with the French Sixth Army on our left, which gained the southern half of the town during the night.

"The Second Army Corps did not cross the Aisne. The First Army Corps got over the River Vesle, to the south of the Aisne, after the crossing had been secured by the First Cavalry Division. It then reached a line south of the Aisne practically without fighting.

German Ammunition in the River.

"At Braisne the First Cavalry Division met with considerable opposition from infantry and machine guns holding the town and guarding the bridge. With the aid of some of our infantry it gained possession of the town about midday, driving the enemy to the north. Some hundred prisoners were captured around Braisne, where the Germans had thrown a large amount of field-gun ammunition into the river, where it was visible under two feet of water.

"On our right the French reached the line of the River Vesle. On this day began an action along the Aisne, which is not yet finished and which may be merely of a rear-guard nature on a large scale or may be the commencement of a battle of a more serious nature.

"It rained heavily on Saturday afternoon and all through the night, which severely handicapped transport.

"On Sunday, the 13th, extremely strong resistance was encountered along the whole of our front, which was some fifteen miles in length. The action still consisted for the most part of long-range gun fire, that of the Germans being to a great extent from their heavy howitzers, which were firing from cleverly concealed positions. Some of the actual crossings of the Aisne were guarded by strong detachments of infantry with machine guns.

"By nightfall portions of all three corps were across the river, the cavalry returning to the south side. By this night, or early next morning, three pontoon bridges had been built, and our troops also managed to get across the river by means of the bridge carrying the canal over the river.

Cross a Girder in Single File.

"On our left the French pressed on, but were prevented by artillery fire from building a pontoon bridge at Soissons. A large number of infantry, however, crossed in single file the top girder of the railway bridge left standing.

"During the last three or four days may isolated parties of Germans have been discovered hiding in the numerous woods a long way behind our line.

"As a rule, they seemed glad to surrender, and the condition of some of them may be gathered from the following incident: An officer proceeding along the road in charge of a number of led horses received information that there were some of the enemy in the neighborhood. He gave the order to charge, whereupon three German officers and 196 men surrendered.

"At Senlis, immediately on his arrival, a proclamation was issued by the commander of a German division. The main points were that all arms were to be handed in at the Town Hall at once; all civilians found with arms would be shot at once; no person was to be on the street after dark; no lights were to be maintained in the houses or streets; the doors of all houses were to be left open and the inhabitants were not to collect in groups. Any obstruction of the German troops or the threatening of them would be immediately punishable by death.

"At Villers-Cotterets the Mayor appears to have behaved very judiciously, and though supplies far in excess of the capabilities of the place were demanded, the town was not damaged. The Germans evacuated the place on Sept. 11 in such haste that they left behind a large amount of the bread requisitioned.

"It was stated by the inhabitants that the enemy had destroyed and abandoned fifteen motor lorries, seven guns, and ammunition wagons.

"Rheims was occupied by the enemy on Sept. 3. It was reoccupied by the French after considerable fighting on Sept. 13.

Germans Threatened Rheims.

"On the 12th a proclamation, a copy of which is in the possession of the British Army, was posted all over the town. A literal translation of this poster follows:

PROCLAMATION.

In the event of an action being fought early today or in the immediate future in the neighborhood of Rheims the inhabitants are warned that they must remain absolutely calm and must in no way try to take part in the fighting. They must not attempt to attack either isolated soldiers or detchments of the Germany Army. The erection of barricades, the taking up of paving stones in the streets in a way to hinder the movement of troops, in a word, any action that may embarrass the German Army, is formally forbidden.

With an idea to securing adequately the safety of the troops and to instill calm into the population of Rheims, the persons below have been seized as hostages by the commander in chief of the German Army. These hostages will be hanged at the slightest attempt at disorder. Also, the town will be totally or partly burned and the inhabitants will be hanged for any infraction of the above.

By order of the German authorities.
THE MAYOR.

"Here followed the names of eighty-one of the principal inhabitants of Rheims, with their addresses, including four priests, and ending with the words, 'and some others.'"

KITCHENER CERTAIN ENGLAND WILL WIN

Says the Country Has Now "Good Ground for Quiet Confidence" in the Result.

BUT EFFORTS MUST GO ON

Steady Flow of Reinforcements Needed—Praises Sir John French—Speech in House of Lords.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Speaking in the House of Lords today, Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the Secretary of State for War, revealed the strength of the British expeditionary force in France, and described what he believed must be done to assure a successful issue of the conflict. A steady flow of reinforcements was required, he said.

There were already in France, Lord Kitchener said, rather more than six divisions of British troops and two divisions of cavalry, which were being maintained at their full strength. Further regular divisions and additional cavalry were being organized from units drawn from overseas garrisons, which were now being occupied by territorials and volunteers. A division of territorials had already left England for Egypt, a brigade had gone to Malta, and a garrison force to Gibraltar.

Referring to the two new armies, the War Secretary said that new divisions were now being collected at the training quarters. The third army was being formed on the new camping ground, and the fourth army was being created. In the meantime Indian divisions were on their way.

In his dispatches from the front Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary force, had omitted, the War Secretary continued, one aspect of the situation—"the consummate skill and calm courage of the commander himself." The Government appreciated, however, the full value of Sir John's services.

Earl Kitchener also paid a tribute to the other Generals and the bravery and endurance of the officers and men of the expeditionary force.

The latest advices from Gen. French, said Lord Kitchener, did not materially change the situation as it was already known from published statements. The troops were reported to be in good heart and ready to move forward "when the moment arrived."

On the subject of recruiting Lord Kitchener said:

"A country which prides itself on outdoor sport, as does England, should have no difficulty in finding men capable of making officers. The territorials are making great strides in efficiency, and before long will be able to take their part in the campaign. In the meanwhile reserve units are being sent to augment the expeditionary force, and their places are being filled by territorials.

"While England has good ground for quiet confidence, it should be borne in mind that the struggle is bound to be a long one, and it behooves us to develop armed forces to carry on and bring the mighty conflict to a successful conclusion. It will be necessary in order to keep the army at its full strength to maintain a steady flow of reinforcements."

HOLLAND NEXT TO JOIN THE WAR?

Feverish Military Activity Noted There and Much Speculation Founded Thereon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Standard.)—The publication here of a report that the Germans are busy strengthening the fortifications of Cologne, Dusseldorf, Wesel, and Duisburg has given rise to much speculation.

While of course such a step is only a natural precaution against an invasion by the allied forces, yet Dutch opinion to a certain extent is inclined to credit it to fear on the part of the German authorities that Holland shortly will take a hand in the great war. The four towns mentioned are all due east of the Dutch frontier.

In spite of the fact that any violation of Dutch soil must be far from the thoughts of Germany, Dutch troops are still massed on the frontier, and feverish military activity is everywhere apparent.

The belief is generally prevalent that Holland will join the Allies once the German retreat to their own territory has begun. The majority of people to whom I have spoken would have much preferred had Holland sided with France and England from the beginning, but add, "Better late than never."

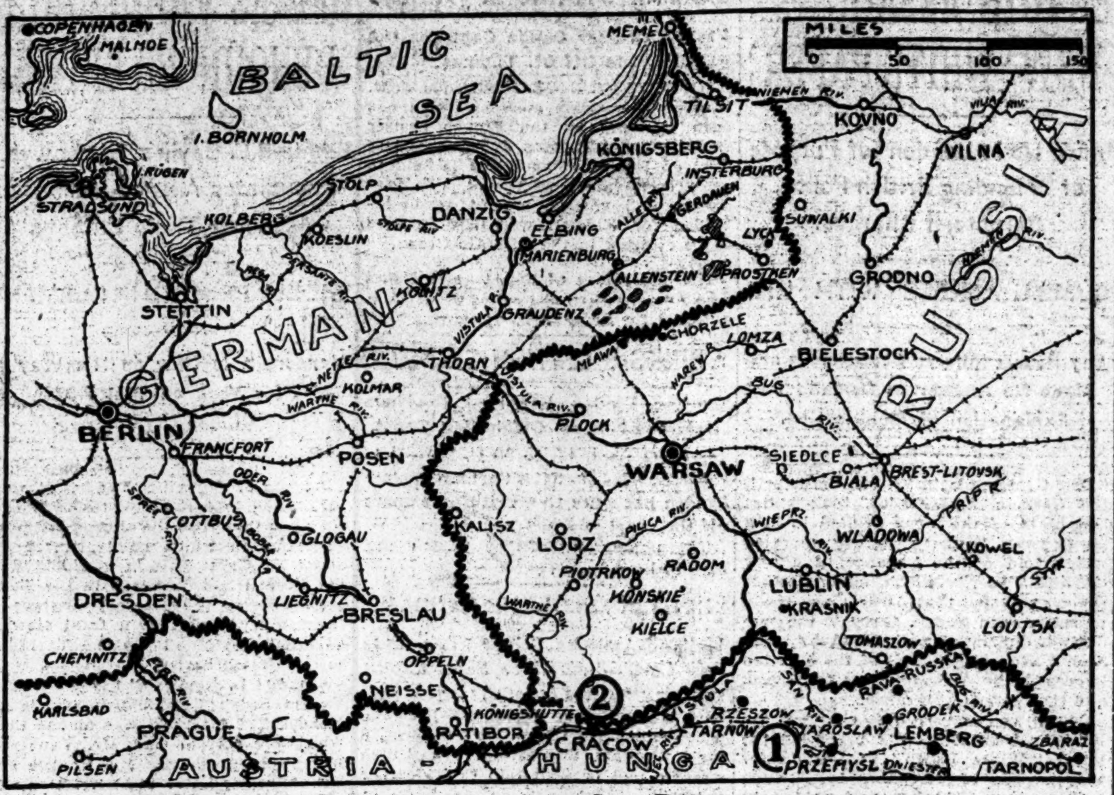
AUSTRIANS IN FLIGHT TO CRACOW—BRITISH AUTHORS CONDEMN GERMANY



Scene of Operations on the Russian Frontier.

While the Second Austrian Army is reported to have retreated to the Fortress of Przemysl, (1,) the armies of Gens. Dankl and von Auffenberg are said to be in full retreat to Cracow, where German reinforcements have been concentrated.

AUSTRIANS FLEE TOWARD CRACOW

Nearly 5,000 German Prisoners Taken to Lublin with Captured Stores and Ammunition.

FINAL SUMMONS TO ARMS

Even Austrians Previously Rejected as Unfit Now Ordered to Join the Colors.

GERMAN EFFORTS BALKED

Gen. Rennenkampff Has Blocked a Flanking Movement and Lined Up with Russian Fortresses.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 18.—All reports both from Petrograd and such independent sources as Rome and Bucharest tend to confirm, or paint in gloomier colors, the critical position of the Austrian armies in Galicia.

The first and third armies, under Gens. Dankl and von Auffenberg, which set out to arrest the advance of the main Russian Army in Germany, have had the tables turned on them by the Russian Generals Ruzsky and Brousslloff, and are threatened with envelopment. Having abandoned Lemberg, they are now leaving Przemysl behind them and retreating to Cracow.

It is said by Russian correspondents that the Austrians have lost all discipline, the aim of the men being to get across the Carpathians. If this is true, their commanders are likely to have difficulty in leading them more than 200 miles to Cracow, where they might find support from the newly formed German corps which has assembled there. Besides, they are in danger from the Russian Army coming from the north.

Austria is calling to the colors all men available for military service, including those previously rejected as unfit. But this can hardly help the army in Galicia, which has, according to Russian reports, suffered such terrible losses.

From East Prussia nothing new has come today except a report that the Russian Gen. Rennenkampff has frustrated the attempt to outflank him and that he has taken up positions in line with the fortresses on the Russian side of the border.

Reuter's correspondent at Petrograd gives this outline of the situation in Galicia:

"The position of Grodek, occupied by the Russians, is eighteen miles west of Lemberg, and is situated on the heights under which a chain of six almost connecting lakes stretch out toward the Russian frontier, forming a natural defense for fourteen miles running north and south. The Austrians abandoned this position after the capture of Lemberg.

"Mosciska, to which the Russians have advanced, is a little over forty miles west of Lemberg, on the main line between Przemysl and Lemberg. The shattered second Austrian army was evidently incapable of staying the Russian advance, and took refuge in Przemysl, from which the Russians, according to the latest official report, are only nineteen miles away.

"The Russians have reoccupied Sandomierz, Russian Poland, fifty-seven miles southeast of Radom, and continue their pursuit of the Austrians.

"The Minister of Finance has prohibited the exportation of manganese except to the allied nations.

"Newspaper dispatches assert that German troops have been interspersed with Austrian troops in the instrenchments, in order to raise the morale of the Austrians. One correspondent declares that, while the Austrians took flight, the Germans were ready, to the last man, to perish.

"Great enthusiasm prevails throughout Russia, and all classes are doing their utmost to help in the present emergency. At Moscow the barbers' guild have offered to shave and cut the hair of soldiers free of charge, while at Vilna fifteen cab drivers have offered their services for the transport of the wounded.

The Central News correspondent at Petrograd says the retreating Austrian Army in Galicia has lost all discipline and that the retirement has become a rout.

According to a report from Vienna, the correspondent says, Emperor Francis Joseph has left the Austrian capital for an unknown destination.

Noel Buckston, Chairman of the Balkan Committee, according to Petrograd advices, has arrived at Sofia. His visit is being much commented on in Bulgaria. It is believed there that he is charged with a political mission.

Seid-Mir-Alim, Emir of Bokhara, has donated $50,000 to the Russian Red Cross.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Rome dispatches from Vienna, says a telegram to the Havas Agency, state that the Neue Freie Presse announces the approaching call of all reservists en masse.

According to the Reichspost, Emperor Francis Joseph said to the Archduke Charles Francis when the latter was leaving to take his place in the army:

"Never in my life has anything cost me so much pain as the duty of taking such a grave decision."

CAPTURED 5,000 GERMANS.

Russians Also Got Supply Train—Cossacks Wonderful Horsemen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The Russian forces continue to follow up the retreating Austro-Germans. Rear guard actions everywhere have resulted favorably for the pursuers, without causing delays of any significance. The Russian armies already are across the San River.

On the East Prussian front no fighting has taken place for the last two days. Gen. Rennenkampff's brilliant manoeuvres totally upset the German encircling plan by which they hoped to cut off a considerable body of the Russian troops still remaining in that theatre of the war, and the Germans have been severely punished in the attempt.

Details of trophies taken on Russia's southern front continue to come in. Nearly 5,000 German prisoners have arrived at Lublin, and the greater part of the supply and ammunition train captured near Janoff also belonged to Germany.

The prowess of the Cossacks is especially remarkable. As scouts they are unequaled. At all times their horsemanship enables them to deal successfully with cavalry of the enemy four or five time superior in number. Their horses are skilled in every conceivable trick. A Cossack horse will drop dead under its rider at the word, springing up the next moment. The rider combines all the arts of the circus performer and red Indian with perfect command of his horse, and the horses are as handy as polo ponies.

The following, which has the appearance of high inspiration, appears in this evening's Bourse Gazette:

"Our Foreign Office, in full accord with the Governments of our Allies, declines to admit any form of negotiations, direct or otherwise, concerning the conclusion of peace until the nest of militarism in Germany has been destroyed, which means until Prussia ceases to play the predominant rôle among the German States, and until Great Britain and France are satisfied in full, Poland is unified, and we attain the full realization of our own Russian aims, and also the general aspirations of Slavdom. Until all this comes about the efforts of Germany's representatives are foredoomed to failure."

CAPTURE THIRTY GUNS.

Russians Also Get 5,000 Prisoners and Much Ammunition.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 17.—It is announced that the Russian troops in the pursuit of the enemy have met all along the battle front with important successes against the Austrians, and have occupied Sandomir. They also took by assault an important position near Krzeschoff and crossed the Saan River, pressing the routed Austrians hard.

In the Iavorovo district they captured convoys of ammunition of the Sixth and Fourteenth Austrian Army corps, taking more than thirty guns, 5,000 prisoners and an enormous quantity of munitions of war.

In East Prussia only insignificant fighting has occurred.

WHITE FLAG AT TOMASZOW.

Austrians Quick to Surrender When Russians Charged.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Standard.)—An officer wounded during the battle of Tomaszow, in Russian Poland, gives the following account of the fight:

"The battle lasted three whole days. The left Austrian wing attacked our right wing with artillery fire, which made it impossible for us to hear the commander's instructions, but our soldiers, thanks to previous preparations, found out the target and proved to be excellent marksmen. The fire of our infantry rendered the Austrian officers inactive and created indescribable havoc among the enemy's lines.

"Finally we took up the offensive, and the Austrians began to throw out white flags. When we approached we could see the Austrians throwing away their armaments and going willingly into captivity. We captured 2,000 men. There was not a single officer among them. They had all been more or less seriously wounded by our shots.

"The same thing was done in subsequent engagements. As soon as the Austrian troops lost their officers they threw out a white flag, abandoned their guns, and gave themselves up as captives.

"In the neighborhood of Zamost we advanced on the Austrian positions in a hail of bullets. When about 100 steps from the Austrians our soldiers could not resist, and with shouts of 'Hurrah!' flung themselves on the enemy, who immediately threw out the white flag. The remainder of the Austrian lines fled in panic, leaving behind prisoners, guns, provisions, money cases, and two trunks full of soldiers' letters."

WHEN LEMBERG FELL.

English Engineer Tells of Utter Demoralization of Austrians.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 18.—An account of the capture of Lemberg, Galicia, as given by an English engineer who had just arrived in Petrograd from Lemberg, is contained in a dispatch to the Central News from its Petrograd correspondent.

"Panic broke out in the city on the approach of the Russian Army," the engineer is quoted as saying. "The entire Austrian administration fled precipitately. No defense of the town was attempted. The Russians gave the demoralized Austrian military authorities three days in which to evacuate the city.

"On the third day, as the appointed time approached, Russian scout aeroplanes appeared over the city watching for the departure of the Austrians. When the Austrians failed to leave the Russians made a show of opening a bombardment. Although no shells actually fell in Lemberg, the cannonading terrified the citizens, of whom 35,000 bolted helter-skelter into the surrounding country.

"The large Jewish community was particularly alarmed owing to stories which had been circulated in Austrian newspapers. Bankers emptied their vaults and made their escape with the money. Nobody was allowed to leave for Vienna by train unless they deposited 5,000 kronen at the railway station to show their ability to meet the enormously increased expense of living in the capital. A deposit of 1,000 kronen was required for a trip to Budapest.

"Among the pitiful sights in Lemberg were numerous Austrian soldiers begging in the streets for bread. Many of them were seriously wounded. Other Austrian soldiers were seen carrying their uniforms under their arms in bundles, which they declared they were about to burn.

"The utter disorganization of the Austrian military administration is very evident. The army proved itself an unwilling mass of men, of which large numbers were delighted to throw down their arms to the Russians.

"The Russian Army entered Lemberg in splendid condition and attended by an enormous provision train. The inhabitants, especially the Slavs, met the Russian soldiers with demonstrations of delight, showering flowers on them.

"Exemplary order was immediately established under Russian control."

WOULDN'T WAIT FOR GUNS.

Croatian Regiments Mowed Down in Attack on Servians.

VENICE, Sept. 17.—Reports received here from trustworthy sources indicate that the situation of the Austrian troops in Galicia is most precarious.

During the fighting along the Servian frontier the Croatian regiments suffered enormous losses. Owing to their racial hatred of the Servians, they were chosen to lead the first attack, and, carried away with their enthusiasm, they did not wait for the support of their artillery, but rushed blindly against the Servians, running instead of crawling across the fields. As a consequence they fell in masses before the Servian fire.

Around Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, the Austrian infantry also suffered terrible losses because the artillery was caught in the marshes. The artillerymen stood for several hours in water and arrived at the scene of the fighting too late to afford the necessary support for the infantry.

It is also asserted here that the Austrian artillery decimated three of their own infantry regiments whom they mistook for Russians because of a similarity in the uniforms worn by both armies.

Wounded to the number of 2,900 arrived at Vienna Tuesday. As evidence of the gallantry of the Austrian soldiers it is declared that all the wounds are on the front of the body. Accordingly it is announced that the Government order forbidding physicians to give information regarding wounded soldiers has been canceled. The public is now freely admitted to the hospitals, indicating that the authorities do not fear to let the people know what has happened.

An army order just issued forbids Austrian troops to fire upon aeroplanes for the reason that it is impossible to distinguish between their own and the enemy's aviators.

An unexpected difficulty has arisen in connection with the feeding of the soldiers in the field. The smoke from the field kitchens betrays the situations of the troops, and it is probable that the system of food supply will be changed.

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—Messages from special correspondents in Galicia lay stress upon the numerical superiority of the Russians, whose army divisions are composed of sixteen battalions of infantry, with cavalry and artillery, and unlimited supplies of ammunition. The Russian divisions are considerably stronger than the Austrian, especially as regards artillery.

Austrian soldiers declare that for every ten Russians killed twenty came in their places. The Russian artillery fire, they said, was wonderfully good, but the infantry work was of an inferior kind.

It is expected here that there will be a temporary lull in the fighting, as both sides are apparently exhausted. The Viennese journals of Tuesday are entirely without news of any Austrian fighting.

The wounded continue to arrive in Vienna in great numbers. Eight thousand were brought in on Sunday alone. The hospitals and the various public buildings converted into temporary nursing homes are terribly crowded. Ten thousand wounded are being cared for in the rotunda of the exhibition building in the Prater, the Imperial park. Sunday afternoon 30,000 persons visited the soldiers in the General Hospital.

The bank statement shows that withdrawals during August aggregated over $8,000,000.

SCOUTS RUSSIAN REPORTS.

Austrian Foreign Secretary Calls Official News of Victories Fantastic.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 17.—The Austro-Hungarian Embassy, temporarily established here, announced tonight that it had received a wireless message from the Foreign Secretary of Austria-Hungary as follows:

"After battle Lemberg official Russian news agency published as usual fantastic news about alleged victory Russians, giving number prisoners taken as 30,000, number captured guns as 900. It is interesting compare with this story official communiqué of Russian General Staff dated Sept. 14 about the same battle. Here numbers have gone down to 8,000 prisoners, 30 guns. Communiqué admits that Gen. Broussiloff was in very critical position, escaped defeat only after hard fighting.

"It is not at all astonishing that Russians use purely strategic concentrating manoeuvres of our forces around Lemberg after several victorious engagements for spreading false reports, but cautious way in which this done does best prove that our own official war reports deserve fullest confidence."

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 17.—Reports that the Austrians attempted to cross the River Drina with 90,000 men, but were repulsed with great losses, are declared to be untrue from official Austro-Hungarian sources.

PRINCE CANTACUZENE BETTER

Husband of Julia Dent Grant Was Hurt in Galicia.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Prince Michael Cantacuzene, whose wife was Miss Julia Dent Grant, a granddaughter of President Grant, is recovering from a wound received in the firing line of the Russian advance in Galicia, according to a cablegram received here today by Mrs. Frederic D. Grant. Mrs. Grant, mother of the Princess, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Potter Palmer.

The Prince is well known here. He is Colonel of the Imperial Guards and an aid on the staff of Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian Commander in Chief. He was leading a charge when his horse was shot under him and he was wounded in the right side.

Prince Cantacuzene and Miss Grant were married fourteen years ago at Newport, the wedding being the social event of that season.

HORRORS OF BATTLEFIELDS.

Streams in Galicia Choked Full with Austrian Slain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Accounts are now beginning to appear of the scenes on the battlefields abandoned by the Austro-German forces last week. They paint pictures of unending horror.

The streams were choked full with slain trodden down in the headlong flight till the waters were dammed and overflowing the banks. Piles of slain were awaiting burial or burning. Hundreds of acres were sown with dead and littered with weapons and articles of equipment. Wounded and riderless horses were careering madly over the abandoned country.

THE WAR SITUATION.

New British Army Preparing for the Front—Germans Gain by Delay on Aisne—Austrians May Renew Resistance.

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES
(An Associate Editor of The Army and Navy Journal.)

The German line holds fast to its intrenchments following the Aisne River, from ten miles west of Soissons, to the mouth of the Suippe, and then curving southward to Montfaucon, northwest of Verdun. All along the lines the Allies are making assaults, but it cannot be made out from the reports whether they are pushed home with the idea of breaking down the German resistance or whether they are made merely to hold them in position while the turning movement to the west is taking form.

Now is the time when the arrival of a new British army might turn the tide of battle for the Allies. The 165,000 men of Great Britain's first effort are in the battle line, apparently in two separate bodies, one southeast of Soissons and one near the Oise River. With 300,000 regulars, 315,000 territorials, and 300,000 volunteers to draw on, Great Britain must, by now, be sending to the front forces that will soon double the present strength given in the reports

The German right has now occupied the line of the Aisne for six days, most valuable days for recovering its fighting strength. Whatever the plan by which the Allies' moves are guided it should now bring early results. As far as can be determined from the situation, the Allies are making two principal efforts to force the German right wing out of its position. One of these is a frontal attack down the valley of the Aire River in the effort to break through between the armies of Grand Duke Albrecht of Würtemberg and Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm. Owing to the obstacle of the Argonne hills the connection between these two armies may be weakened, giving the Allies a chance to break through. A move of this kind is the only one that would have hopes of producing decisive results.

There seems to be a strongly pushed effort to get behind the German right flank. This move would force the Germans back to a new position, but would not be likely to have other effect.

The long period of wet weather should be to the advantage of the Allies. They are closer to their base and should be much better provided with transport than the Germans. If the Allies can force the Germans out of their present position while the country is soft from rains, the latter may have to abandon many of their heavy guns and automobile trucks.

The Belgians now control all of their country north of the Scheldt River. Their activity in raids against the German detachments is producing important results in forcing the Germans to maintain a large garrison to protect the routes through the Meuse Valley on which they are now absolutely dependent for the supply of their army. By these tactics the Belgians are able to hold back from the battle line forces of Germans much greater in numbers than their own army.

There are no signs of an army of anything like 75,000 men at Ostend or Calais. Such a force would not be permitted to rest in camp and eat. So great would be their value for raiding the German line of communications and for harassing the German garrison of Belgium that they would surely by now have shown their presence by their activities.

It may very well be that a new British Army is advancing from Dieppe and Havre. This would bring them in on the left flank of the Allies' position, and would be a more natural move than that of launching against the Germans a small detached force.

The reports about the operations in East Prussia have been suppressed to such an extent that it is not possible to outline events definitely. The Berlin dispatches claim that their advance has reached Grodno; the Petrograd dispatches states that the Russians have fallen back to the line of their border forts. For once the dispatches agree, but this indicates a retreat of 140 miles by the Russians.

With their line pierced on the south and with the army opposite Königsberg threatened from the flank, it is improbable that this force has been able to hold its advanced position. While no reports confirm it, it seems probable that the Germans have driven the Russians entirely out of East Prussia except for a small strip north of the Memel River.

The German success in this region naturally brings to mind an advance against Petrograd. But the Russian capital is a long way from the Prussian border—more than 400 miles, and Winter is approaching. It is improbable that the Germans will run the risk of exposure to the disasters which destroyed the grand army of Napolean in 1812.

Though Napoleon crossed the Vistula with 400,000 men, less than 125,000 reached Moscow. In the disastrous retreat in the early Winter of 1812, the entire army was destroyed through straggling, surrenders, and death. Only the Emperor, his Marshals, and a guard of less than 15,000 recrossed the Niemen into Germany.

By selecting the southern route for their line of operations the Russians should obtain a more open season for their campaign. Their success on the San River bids fair to force the Austrians to fall back from this position, but this does not mean that the way lies open for the Russians to advance against Silesia in Germany.

The Austrians have their second line of reserves, which must be just arriving at the front, a reinforcement of more than 200,000 men. Also their railways are well distributed for delivering these troops along the front, and also facilitate the shifting of troops from place to place along their line. They can be expected to put up a stubborn resistance during their retreat. The 150-mile advance from the San River to the German border will not by any means be covered in a two weeks' march.

No information has been given out about the operations in Poland, west of the Vistula, except that the Russians have cleared away the German forces on the west bank of the river. If the Russians are aiming to cut off the Austrians from Cracow, and thus intervene between the Austrian and German armies, they must be pushing strong columns via Radom and Kielce. The various suggestions in the reports from Petrograd of an invasion of Silesia may arise from news of an advance in that direction by this route.

MYSTERY OF INDIAN TROOPS.

Name of Force That Routed Germans in Belgium Deleted by Censor.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—There is still no confirmation of the report that Indian cavalry have landed in France and are ready for action.

Paris is filled with rumors of the imminent co-operation of these troops, as well as of the Russians, but the reports are without definite foundation.

In a dispatch reporting the rout of 3,000 German cavalry between Hooglede and Poperinghe, Belgium, the name of the cavalry force operating against them is censored out. This combat was violent, and many motors with quick-firers, with much ammunition and provisions were captured, though the Germans were said to outnumber their opponents by three to one.

GERMAN OFFER TO BELGIUM

Sent by Von der Goltz, and Reply Was a Battle.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Telegraphing from Antwerp, the Exchange Telegraph Company's correspondent says:

"The report that Field Marshal Baron von der Goltz, Governor General of the territory in Belgium occupied by the Germans, had visited Antwerp arose from the fact that M. Woeste, leader of the Catholic Anti-Militarist Party, who remained in Brussels after the Belgians left, was sent to Antwerp by the Germans to ascertain whether it was possible to arrange an armistice by promising Belgium an extension of her country. Belgium's reply was a four days' battle near Louvain and Aerschot."

BRITISH AUTHORS CONDEMN GERMANY

Kipling, Caine, Barrie, Bridges, and Others Jointly Justify England's Course.

THEY SIGN A DECLARATION

Some Were Pro-German, but the "Ferocity" with Which Belgium Was Treated Has Changed That.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A number of leading British authors issued the following declaration on the war tonight:

The undersigned writers, comprising among them men and women of the most divergent political and social views, some of them having been for years ardent champions of good-will toward Germany and many extreme advocates of peace, nevertheless are agreed that Great Britain could not without dishonor have refused to take part in the present war.

No one can read the full diplomatic correspondence published in the "White Paper" without seeing that the British representatives were throughout laboring whole-heartedly to preserve peace in Europe, and that their conciliatory efforts were cordially received by both France and Russia. When these efforts failed Great Britain had still no direct quarrel with any power.

She was eventually compelled to take up arms because, together with France, Germany, and Austria, she had solemnly pledged herself to maintain the neutrality of Belgium. As soon as danger to that neutrality arose she questioned both France and Germany as to their intentions. France immediately renewed her pledge not to violate Belgian neutrality. Germany refused to answer, and soon made all answer needless by her actions. Without even a pretence of grievance against Belgium, she made war on a weak, unoffending country she had undertaken to protect and has since carried out her invasion with a calculated and ingenious ferocity which has raised other questions no less grave than that of the willful disregard of treaties.

Britain's Course Clear.

When Belgium in her dire need appealed to Great Britain to carry out her pledge, this country's course was clear. She had either to break faith, letting the sanctity of treaties and the rights of small nations count for nothing before the threat of naked force, or she had to fight.

She did not hesitate. We trust she will not lay down her arms till Belgium's integrity is restored and her wrongs are redressed.

The treaty with Belgium made our duty clear, but many of us feel that, even if Belgium had not been involved, it would have been impossible for Great Britain to stand aside while France was dragged into the war and destroyed. To permit the ruin of France would be a crime against liberty and civilization. Even those of us who question the wisdom of the policy of Continental ententes or alliances refuse to see France struck down by a foul blow dealt in violation of treaty.

We observe that various German apologists, official and semi-official, admit that their country has been false to its pledged word. They dwell almost with pride on the frightfulness of the example by which she has sought to spread terror in Belgium, but they excuse all these proceedings by a strange and novel plea. German culture and civilization are so superior to those of other nations that all steps taken to assert them are more than justified, and the destiny of Germany to be the dominating force in Europe and the world is so manifest that ordinary rules of morality do not hold in her case, but actions are good or bad, simply as they help or hinder the accomplishment of that destiny.

Present German Ideas "Insane."

These views, inculcated upon the present generation of Germans by many celebrated historians and teachers, seem to us both dangerous and insane. Many of us have dear friends in Germany. Many regard German culture with the highest respect and gratitude. But we cannot admit that any nation has a right by brute force to impose its culture upon other nations, nor that the iron military bureaucracy of Prussia represents a higher form of human society than the free Constitutions of Western Europe.

Whatever the world destiny of Germany may be, we in Great Britain are ourselves conscious of a destiny and a duty. That destiny and duty, alike for us and for all the English-speaking race, call upon us to uphold the rule of common justice between civilized peoples, to defend the rights of small nations and to maintain the free and law-abiding ideals of Western Europe against a rule of blood and iron and the domination of the whole Continent by a military caste.

For these reasons and others the undersigned feel bound to support the cause of the Allies with all their strength, with full conviction of its righteousness and a deep sense of its vital import to the future of the world.

KING ALBERT TO KING GEORGE

Sends Congratulations on British Success—Reply Extols Belgians.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—King George today received the following telegram from the King of the Belgians:

I desire to congratulate you most heartily on the splendid action of the British troops at the battle of the Marne. In the name of the whole Belgian nation, I express to you our deepest admiration for the stubborn courage of the officers and soldiers of your army.

God will surely help our armies to avenge the atrocities committed on peaceful citizens and against a country whose only crime has been that she refused to be false to her engagements.

King George, on receipt of the telegram, sent the following reply to King Albert:

I thank you most sincerely for your kind telegram and for your appreciation for the services of my troops. I earnestly trust that the combined operations of our allied forces, in combination with your brave army, whose heroic efforts are beyond all praise, will meet with continued successes and will free your much-tried country from the invader.

Autumn Has Come Back—With New Clothes

THE new Weber and Heilbroner styles show that Autumn has "come back," with her perennial freshness.

* *

The most enjoyable season of the year, with the greatest opportunity for the tailor to exercise his skill.

* *

Profuse as the changing leaves are the Fall woolens which make these suits and overcoats worthy comrades of exceedingly expensive custom-made clothes.

* *

More than ever do these clothes carry conviction that they are the thoroughly matured, up-to-the-moment product of New York City—made with the New York City man in view.

Prices, $20 to $45.

These same ideals have permeated Weber and Heilbroner hats—a collection of soft felts which keep well on the side of propriety without appearing too conservative.

Which is their real secret of smartness.

* *

The largest haberdashery business in America justifies its growth with Fall assortments essentially larger than ever before.

NEW AMERICAN EMBASSY IN LONDON—ATTACKS NEW WHITE PAPER

LONDON EMBASSY TAKES NEW OFFICES

Fine Large House at 4 Grosvenor Gardens for Secretaries and Clerks to Work In.

LEAVE HOME OF 29 YEARS

Present Quarters Will Be Taken Over by Relief Committee, Which Will Continue Its Services.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—After debating for twenty-nine years the advisability of moving into more commodious quarters, the American Embassy has finally been forced out of the small, dingy offices in Victoria Street by the landlord's demand for higher rent. Before the end of next week the embassy will be installed in the magnificent home at 4 Grosvenor Gardens, forming a part of the Duke of Westminster's estate, and the Ambassador and Secretaries at last will have room to do their work comfortably.

The rental is more than that paid for the last thirty years, but the accommodations are more than ample even for the small army of extra Secretaries, clerks, and other employes added to the regular staff for the transacting of the heavy business engendered by the war.

It has been known for some months that the embassy must leave Victoria Street, but the search for new offices was arduous, owing to the difficulty of making the State Department's idea of rent appropriation meet that of the London landlords. The Grosvenor Gardens house costs $4,500 a year, which realty experts say is quite reasonable. It has fifty rooms, many of palatial size, and until recently it was occupied by the Japanese Ambassador, both as a residence and chancellery. The Spanish Embassy is directly opposite, and the Japanese Embassy is now in Grosvenor Square, where Ambassador Page continues to reside. There is so much space in the new quarters that it is suggested that the bachelor secretary have living suites there as well as the huge offices.

The only restrictions specified by the Duke of Westminster is that the embassy shall not post notices outside the house, but he is willing to permit a small brass plate inscribed "American Embassy" to be affixed to the door. The Hodgson brothers, who have been employed by the embassy ever since it was first quartered in Victoria Street thirty years ago, appear to be the only officials regretting the change. Everybody else, including the American residents, are jubilant that "we have a proper establishment in London at last."

It is planned by the American resident committee to move to the old American Embassy quarters early next week, according to an announcement today by H. C. Hoover, Chairman of the committee. It is determined to abandon the rooms at the Savoy because it is believed that, while some Americans will come to London from the Continent periodically, there probably will be no more sudden influxes of great numbers. It was said that the Savoy had generously provided free the space which had been used, as well as the services of a number of employes. Mr. Hoover said:

"We are going to organize the committee permanently, for there are Americans working in England, as well as on the Continent, who probably will reach London some time during the war and may need assistance. As the Government funds will not last indefinitely, we have determined to issue an appeal to all Americans who have registered here, asking them to contribute something toward a permanent fund to look after their needy countrymen. This appeal will soon be sent out. We hope to have quarters established early next week at the embassy address."

Mr. Hoover estimated that in the last two weeks $110,000 of Government money had been expended for refugees, a large part going for passage home. Of the $15,200 benevolent fund which was raised during the crucial period here, $11,000 has been expended, while the resident committee lent $31,100 of its own money, which it is expected to get back shortly. Including guarantees made for more than $210,000, which Americans obtained by cable and other mediums, the committee has distributed to Americans up to date $377,000.

AMERICANS AWAIT NEWS.

Success on Either Side Will Bring More Refugees to London.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Henry S. Breckinridge, the American Assistant Secretary of War, is uncertain as to how long the American army officers will be held in London directing the relief work. He thinks the American tourists are now well out of Europe, excepting those in the remote sections of the Continent.

Herbert C. Hoover, Chairman of the American Residents' Relief Committee, and other workers in this field think that many German-American and American tourists, now in Germany, will leave the country when the actual war news reaches them.

Tourists coming from Germany say that virtually all the news printed there is favorable to the German Army, and that visitors have no knowledge of the Russians or Allies' successes.

Many Americans also are staying in France who contemplated leaving when the Germans were near Paris, and probably would rush to England if the Allies were repulsed.

The Relief Committee workers, the army officers and the diplomatic and Consular offices, however, feel that in view of the warning that had been given to Americans on the Continent, the American Government should not be expected to maintain a large relief body for tourists who disregarded the advice of the United States War and State Departments.

Assistant Secretary Breckinridge said today that the emergency relief work should not be regarded as an emigration bureau intended to take care of indigent naturalized Americans, who had settled in Europe with the idea of living there forever, but now want assistance back to America because the war interfered with their plans.

The work of the Relief Committee here will be gradually taken over by the Attachés of the Embassy. Only about 100 refugees are coming in daily now. Reports from Ostend and Flushing show that this number is not likely to increase. Virtually all the refugees arriving in London now are from Austria or Germany.

WE AWAIT TURKEY'S REPLY.

Trouble Over Capitulations an Old One—No Warships to be Sent Now.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Washington Government awaits the reply of the Turkish Government to its protest against the abrogation of the capitulations by the Porte.

Fearing that its action might be misunderstood, the Washington Government will postpone further discussion of the subject until the European war is ended. It is believed, however, that in the meanwhile the protest will cause Turkey to use extreme care in the treatment accorded to Americans if the Porte carries out its announced intention to do away with the extraterritorial rights of foreigners after Oct. 1.

The flat declaration that the United States did not recognize the right of Turkey to abrogate its capitulations is one which the other European powers also have made in their protests. The peculiar conditions under which foreigners have had special privileges in Turkey for more than 400 years and the numerous treaties under which the usage has been established will be the basis for the American Government's contention that certain rights inhere to foreign Governments until such conditions shall arise in the Ottoman Empire as will be a complete guarantee for the protection of foreigners and their interests.

The American Government and the European powers have successfully thwarted previous attempts by Turkey to free herself from what she regarded as a restriction of her sovereignty.

The Amecan Government has always been jealous of the maintenance of its extra-territorial rights in Turkey, for through their peculiar influence Americans established their missions, schools, and hospitals; foreign interests invested their money, and missionaries as well as other foreign residents felt safeguarded against religious opposition or native uprisings.

Turkey has contended through her Ambassador here that the United States enjoyed these privileges only through a most favored nation clause, and that when the capitulations with the other powers were abrogated the United States was merely deprived of an incidental privilege. In this view the Washington Government does not concur, for it claims that the Treaty of 1880 between the United States and Turkey specifically granted these rights to the United States.

It was stated today that President Wilson had no intention at present of sending American warships to Turkey to relieve the fears of missionaries.

SERVIANS IN MANY FIGHTS.

Repulse Austrian Ships That Shell Semlin and Belgrade.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NISH, Servia, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The Servian forces are continuing their forward movement on the north front, their immediate object being to gain possession of all commanding positions.

Fighting is still going on. Two Austrian warships managed to approach near Semlin and fired fifty rounds on both Semlin and Belgrade, but were driven away by artillery fire from Belgrade and infantry shooting from Semlin.

The railway approaching Belgrade and the station itself already have been repaired and are now fit for use.

The Austrian prisoners at Nish are being kindly treated by their captors. Many circulate freely in the town. Some are employed in useful public work in the park. Elsewhere all appear thoroughly content, smiling, chatting, and seemingly pleased with their various occupations.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—A Nish (Servia) dispatch to the Havas Agency says:

"Resuming the offensive, the Austrians passed the Drina River to the south and southwest and marched toward Kroupani and Valievo, (Servian towns about ten and thirty-five miles, respectively, from the Bosnian border.)

"On a front of more than sixty miles, comprising Liubovia, Svornik, Losnitza, and Lesnitza, along the Bosnian frontier, desperate battles have been fought for four days.

"The latest news declares that the situation for the Servians is favorable, in spite of desperate attacks."

ROME, Sept. 16, via Paris, Sept. 17.—A telegram from Nish says that the losses of the Servians are small compared with those of the Austrians, and besides, they are immediately replaced by fresh men of whom there is a plentiful supply. Provisions are abundant, and the health and hygienic condition of the Servians is excellent. Reports of the existence of cholera and typhoid, the dispatch says, are absolutely false.

Fierce guerrilla warfare, it is stated, is raging on the Bosnian frontier between the Servians and Montenegrins on one side and the Austrians on the other. Special mounted troops are attempting the prevent the advance of the Allies toward Sarajevo, while the Austrians defend themselves along the railway lines and the Drina River with block houses provided with quick firing guns. Some of these blockhouses have been taken by the Servians.

A dispatch to the Messagero from Trent, Austria-Hungary, says:

"The authorities encourage the peasants to participate in the war by spreading reports that Austria is victorious. Large numbers of wounded are returning to their homes daily."

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 18.—An Athens dispatch to The Times says that, according to the latest reports there, the Servians have been obliged to evacuate Semlin. The dispatch does not reveal the source of these reports.

TO REVEAL PRISONER LISTS.

Interchange Agreed To by Warring Powers, It Is Said.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 17.—A semi-official dispatch received here from Berlin says that the British, French, Russian, and German authorities have agreed to an interchange of lists of prisoners of war.

TO AID SOLDIERS' WIVES.

An English "Babies and Mothers League"—No Red Tape.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Prominent London women, under the leadership of the Countess of Shaftesbury, Lady Scott, widow of Capt. Scott, the antartic explorer; Lady Jellicoe, wife of the Vice Admiral commanding the home fleet; Lady Byron, and Mrs. Reginald McKenna, wife of the Home Secretary, today completed the organization of "The War Babies and Mothers League."

The league will give financial aid and other help and advice wherever needed to the wives of regular soldiers and territorials. The movement has the support of Earl Kitchener, the Secretary of War, and one of the first to donate to the cause was Mrs. Winston Churchill, who sent a box of infants' clothes to the headquarters of the league.

A novel feature of the new organization will be its determination to work unhampered by red tape. It will aid not only recognized wives, but any woman whose immediate future may have been dependent upon some man called to the colors.

A nursery will be provided where mothers may leave their little ones while they are seeking work for themselves. Agencies will be stationed at several centres in London and assistance will be rendered regardless of class and creed to the wife, baby, or dependent of any man serving his country in the Army or Navy.

SIR JAMES BARRIE LOOKS FOR LONG WAR

English Playwright Says Defeat May Bring Republic to Germany.

PEACE TALK USELESS NOW

Lusitania's 1,502 Passengers Devote Half of Ship Concert Fund to the Relief of Belgium.

The Lusitania of the Cunard Line arrived from Liverpool last night with 1,502 passengers, of whom 605 were first, 387 second, and 510 third class. She also brought 3,500 sacks of mail, the handling of which caused considerable delay at Quarantine.

In consequence of this it was 12:48 A. M. when she docked. She had made the voyage of 2,997 miles in 5 days 9 hours and 21 minutes, an average of 23.17 knots an hour. Last Sunday, the first day out from Liverpool, the ship ran into a heavy gale off the Irish coast, which for a time cut her speed down to 10 knots an hour.

Among her passengers was Sir James M. Barrie, the playwright, who, according to report, was coming to the United States to deliver a number of lectures upholding the British side of the war. He laughed at this report, however, and said that he had never delivered a lecture in his life. Indeed, he told the reporters who talked to him on the Lusitania's deck that he had never even been interviewed before.

He had hoped, he said, to escape this time, and to walk quietly into Charles Frohman's office. Sir James has never seen Maude Adams in his plays, and he gave the impression that the principal object of the trip was to see her playing the leading part in "The Legend of Leonora."

With regard to the war, Sir James said that it would settle the question of whether the soldier or the citizen would rule Europe in future. The whole thing, he said, was a revolt against militarism, and he did not think the German Emperor was wholly to blame. The war, he said, was not made by any one man.

"Aside from this military spirit," Sir James continued, "the Germans are a magnificent nation. I am inclined to think that there is a good deal of exaggeration in the stories of German atrocities; but the shocking state of affairs in Belgium seems to me the most horrible feature of the whole war.

"As far as the stories of dumdum bullets are concerned, there has been no modern war in which they were not used to some extent. It is so easy to make them that some soldiers cannot resist the temptation."

Sir James was of the opinion that the war would be a long one, and he said that talk of peace now was useless, for if the war should end at this time militarism would not have been crushed. He thought that possibly a German defeat might mean a republic in Germany, but added that it would take a long time to bring about the defeat.

The English people, he said, had been quite calm until the publication of the first casualty list, after which the men poured forward with wonderful enthusiasm and offered themselves for enlistment. In proportion to the population, he continued, the enlistments had been more numerous in Ireland than in Great Britain.

With Sir James were Thomas L. Gilmour, formerly secretary to Lord Rosebery, and A. E. W. Mason, the novelist.

Another passenger was Supreme Court Justice Joseph Newburger, who left home on July 8 for Marienbad. When the war broke out he went at once to Nürnberg, and was appointed Chairman of the 300 Americans marooned there. On Aug. 15 the German officials made up a special train to take those who wanted to leave the country to Holland. At all times, he said, they were treated with the greatest courtesy.

Sir James Barrie's comment on the rush to enlist in England after the first casualty lists appeared was confirmed by William Dudley Foulke, the publicist, who went to England just in time to see the mobilization early in August.

Percy Burton, manager of Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson, said that the actor, who arrives on the Mauretania next week, would start the last half of his farewell tour at Detroit on Sept. 28.

Andrew Carnegie, who arrived today with Mrs. Carnegie on the Baltic, had sent on the Mauretania about thirty servants from Skibo Castle.

Mme. Jomelli, the opera singer, who was on board, took part in the ship's concert. The proceeds, which amounted to about $500, were divided equally between the Seamen's Orphanage and the Belgian Relief Fund. This latter philanthropy was due to the fact that Mme. Jomelli is a Belgian.

Others who arrived were Mme. Alla Nazimova, Miss Betty Callish, Major and Mrs. Talbot Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge, Mrs. H. C. Adler and Julius Ochs Adler, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Burrill, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Coats, Chauncey M. Depew, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Loren G. du Bois, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fels, Mrs. George Vanderbilt and Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt, W. N. Rainsforth, the Marquise della Real Proclamacion, and Harry Rowe Shelley.

Major Talbot Aldrich of Boston, a distinguished cavalry officer, now retired, was in Belgium when the war began. He said that but for the German check at Liege the Kaiser's army would have been in Paris within two weeks after the war started. Had they reached the outer fortifications at that time, he said, the big siege guns could have reduced the city in forty-eight hours, but now they had lost their chance and would hardly be able to return.

Another of the passengers returning was L. Blumenberg, president of The Musical Courier.

A number of special agents were on the pier. It is said that many of the returning refugees have presumed on the leniency which they felt sure would be exercised toward those returning from the war zone, and have taken advantage of the opportunity to smuggle in dutiable goods.

BARBAROSSA SLIPS OUT.

North German Lloyd Liner Attempts to Dodge British Cruisers.

The North German Lloyd liner Barbarossa, which has lain at the pier at Hoboken for many weeks laden with 2,000 tons of coal, moved out from her berth last night and slipped down to the lower bay. She had procured clearance papers, but it could not be learned for what port. It is believed that she is lying somewhere in the neighborhood of Gravesend Bay waiting for a chance to elude the British cruisers now lying off this port.

The supposition is that she will follow the example of the Brandenburg, which slipped out of Philadelphia a few weeks ago and got away around the north of Scotland to Trondhjem, Norway. If the Barbarossa escapes the cruisers outside this port she will have none to fear until she reaches the other side of the ocean.

OXFORD TO HELP LOUVAIN.

Children of Professors Invited to England Through Van Dyke.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 17.—Through the American Legation at The Hague the professors of the University of Oxford have offered a home for the Winter to young children of professors of the ruined University of Louvain.

Mr. Van Dyke forwarded the message to Louvain by two messengers over different routes, hoping one or the other will carry it through.

AEROPLANE SWEEPS LOW OVER ANTWERP

Escapes Unscathed—Attack on Termonde Repulsed by Belgians After Heavy Fighting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ANTWERP, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Times.)—At 7 o'clock this morning a Taube aeroplane flew over Antwerp, coming from the west.

It circled, flying low until it was near the gas works. No bombs were dropped. The forts endeavored to bring it down without success, the aeroplane rising to great height. After passing the old fortifications Belgian aviators gave chase, but the Taube escaped in the direction of Wilryck.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 17, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—From a German source comes the news that Cologne, Duisburg, and Wesel are being prepared for attack.

Today a strong German force bombarded Termonde for hours, but little damage was done, for the simple reason that the old town has been a heap of ruins since the previous exhibition of German ferocity. The Germans were eventually driven back by the Belgians after a fierce fight, leaving a great number of dead.

The Buggenhouter woods, southwest of Malines, were found to be filled with encamped Germans. They were accordingly bombarded from the Liezèle fort, and a great part of the forest is now in flames.

All is quiet now at Malies, and trains are running and the people returning.

Two English aviators have arrived at Antwerp after an unbroken flight from Dunkirk.

That frantic German efforts are being made to prevent the truth becoming known regarding the war is illustrated by leaflets being showered over Holland today. A lad brought a packet to my hotel, but said he was not allowed to tell by whom they had been printed or sent.

The leaflet, which is headed "Official German News," says that five French divisions have been cut off northeast of Paris by the Germans and that the Anglo-French troops have been beaten back forever across the Marne. The first company of German Guards acted like heroes south of St. Quentin and took thirty-two guns. The position before Paris was very satisfactory. The German retreat was only a trick to entrap the enemy and completely surround them.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Ostend says:

"German troops after reoccupying Termonde, had to retire this morning. Yesterday and this morning fighting took place in the regions of Sottegem, Alost, and Haeltert, in East Flanders.

"Before the bombarding of Termonde on Wednesday night the Germans notified the few inhabitants remaining there. Several large factories were destroyed in the bombardment.

"The newspapers here announce the immediate call to the colors of the 1914 class of reserves."

A Rome dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that it is officially admitted in Berlin that the Germans have abandoned Liége.

In a dispatch from Maestricht, Holland, by way of Amsterdam, a correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says the Germans have not evacuated Liége, and that the situation there is calm. The inhabitants of the city are now allowed to remain on the streets until 9 o'clock in the evening. Numerous German regiments of infantry and artillery with forty guns, passed through Liége on Tuesday, going in the direction of Northern France.

FRENCH LOVES THE WAR GAME

Knows Country in Which He Is Fighting Through Study of Napoleon

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Despard, the well-known suffragist, in an interview about her brother, Field Marshal Sir John French, said:

"My brother will be one of the happiest men on the field. The war game is his one passion. He loved it when he was a boy. Battles and preaching were his only hobbies, and Napoleon was, and is still, his hero. Napoleon the soldier, not Napoleon the politician.

"Indeed, he holds very strongly that a soldier should stick by his sword. That is one of his first axioms in life. He believes the Corsican was the greatest tactician the world has ever known.

"In one curious way his Napoleon cult has been unexpectedly useful. In pursuing his hero-worship he has traced every hillock and hedgerow of the country over which he is now fighting. He knew the Belgian theatre of war by heart through the Waterloo campaign before he ever landed in the country.

"War is the game the General best loves, the game he has spent his life in learning, the greatest game of all. He is the happy warrior in being."

BRITISH OFFICERS KILLED.

Sir Evelyn Bradford, Col. Le Marchant, and Capt. Stewart.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Among the British officers killed in France, as made known in a casualty list issued tonight, was Capt. Bertram Stewart of the West Kent Yeomanry.

Capt. Stewart was one of two officers who were imprisoned in a German fortress for several months for espionage and were pardoned by Emperor William on the occasion of his last visit to England.

In the list of dead also appear the names of Col. Sir Evelyn Ridley Bradford of the Seaforth Highlanders, who was a well-known Londoner, and Lieut. Col. Louis St. Gratien Le Marchant of the East Lancashire Regiment.

ENVOYS ASSAIL NEW 'WHITE PAPER'

Made Up in London for Purpose of Defending British Policy, Bernstorff Charges.

DUMBA AGREES WITH HIM

Say Russia Ignored Concessions and Made No Answer to Demand for Explanation of Mobilization.

Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, took notice last night of the story printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday morning which told of the issuance of a new "White Paper," which, among other things, revealed that Austria was ready to settle with Servia through the medium of diplomacy when Germany made such a peaceful solution of the question impossible by declaring war on Russia and then attacking France.

Count von Bernstorff charged the British Government with preparing the latest "White Paper" in London for the purpose of defending the British policy, giving as his reason for this that the newly published dispatch credited to Sir Maurice de Bunsen, British Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, was openly announced as having been prepared on Sept. 1 last, which Count von Bernstorff pointed out was several weeks after Sir Maurice left his post in Vienna. This, said the German Ambassador, indicated that the dispatch was written in London for the purpose of defending the British policy.

"According to the 'White Paper' as published here," said Ambassador Bernstorff, "Sir Maurice de Bunsen is supposed to have written this report on Sept. 1, several weeks after he left his post as British Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, so that evidently the dispatch was written in London for the purpose of defending the British policy.

"Sir Maurice de Bunsen concedes what has always been asserted on the German side; that Austria made very great concessions which should have satisfied Russia. These concessions were transmitted to Russia on July 30. The only answer ever received to these concessions from Russia was not, as Sir Maurice de Bunsen claims, the partial mobilization of the Russian Army, but the mobilization of the whole army against Austria and Germany; and on July 31 Russian troops crossed the German frontier at various points.

"When Germany asked for an explanation of these facts we never received an answer at all; so naturally we had to regard ourselves as being in a state of war with Russia."

Dr. Constantin Theodore Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, who is also at the Ritz-Carlton, when told of Ambassador Bernstorff's statement, said that he indorsed everything that the German Ambassador had said.

Count von Bernstorff received a wireless message from the Foreign Office in Berlin last night which stated that "all French and English reports about victories in France are untrue," and that up to the present time Germany's strategical position had been unaffected. The message also stated that the Temps of Paris gave the British losses along the extended battlefield as 15,000 men, which, the message said, was confirmatory of German success.

VON BERNSTORFF'S DENIAL.

"Not One Word of Truth" in Belgian Statements to Our President.

When Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, was seen yesterday afternoon he was asked if he, as the representative of the German Government, would make any reply to the charges of atrocities made by the Belgian Government against the German soldiers who have invaded Belgium.

"All that I care to say about the Belgian charges," said the Ambassador, "is that I have officially informed the State Department in Washington that there is not one word of truth in the statements made to the President yesterday by the Belgian Commission."

The Ambassador said that he had received no news concerning military activities in Europe today.

Pierre Mali, Belgian Consul General at New York, said today that the offices of the Consulate General there the story of German atrocities in Belgium to be presented to President Wilson in Washington yesterday by King Albert's Royal Commission, was being printed in book form for universal distribution. The book is now in the press, the Consul General said, and gives full details.

Mrs. Lala Van De Velde, wife of Emil Van Der Velde, a member of King Albert's Royal Commission, is expected here tomorrow on the Cretic of the White Star Line. She will be officially received by the Consul General.

FAVORS DUM-DUM INQUIRY.

But Britain's Spokesman Has No Hope of Our Participation.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Francis Dyke Acland, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that the British Government would welcome an inquiry with regard to the alleged use of dum-dum bullets and to reported atrocities.

The Government would participate in such an inquiry, he said, but as to the suggestion that it should ask the United States to appoint a committee of inquiry, he thought that in view of the reply reported to have been given by President Wilson to Germany there would be no use in making proposals to the United States on the subject.

GERMAN STORESHIP TAKEN.

French Cruiser Conde Captures the Heina Off St. Thomas.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Sept. 17.—The Norwegian steamer Heina has been captured by the French cruiser Condé off St. Thomas and brought to Fort de France. The Heina is said to have been laden with coal, oil, preserves, and various canned goods intended for German warships reported to be cruising in the Atlantic Ocean.

The last report of the steamer Heina was Aug. 7, when she sailed from Philadelphia for La Guaira, Venezuela.

SINKS 5 BRITISH SHIPS?

Cruiser Emden Reported to Have Destroyed Them Off Indian Coast.

TOKIO, Sept. 17, (9:50 P. M.)—It is reported here that the German cruiser Emden has sunk five British steamers off the coast of India.

The passengers of the vessels are said to have been saved.

BRITISH SEIZE THE RYNDAM.

Holland-America Liner Taken to Cork—Left Here Sept. 8.

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 17.—The Holland-America Line steamship Ryndam, which sailed from New York on Sept. 8 for Rotterdam, was seized by a British warship and brought into Cork Harbor today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The British Embassy today forwarded to all British Consular officers in the United States a communication announcing the establishment of British Prize Courts in the United Kingdom and throughout the overseas dominions of Great Britain in which matters relative to captured cargoes will be considered.

The purpose of the announcement is to emphasize the fact that these courts are in existence and under instructions to treat the captured cargoes of neutrals very liberally, releasing all such cargoes where the title of the neutral is clearly established and the cargo is not contraband. In more doubtful cases recourse to the ordinary prize court procedure will be necessary. Advices to the State Department today show that in many cases the British Government has already released cargoes of American goods seized in belligerent vessels at the time of the declaration of war, but it is expected that American shippers will ask for several million dollars in damages for delays caused by seizure.

When the war began the American Government declared that it would not consider cargoes then on the high seas liable to seizure or adjudication in prize courts. Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, appointed a committee to handle the situation.

Under international law ships sailing at any time do so with the risk of being exposed to conditions arising from a possible declaration of war while en route.

The experience of the Holland-America liner Ryndam bears great similarity to that of the steamship Noordam of the same line on her latest eastern trip across the Atlantic.

The Noordam sailed from New York on Sept. 1 for Rotterdam, but was seized as a British prize and taken on Sept. 10 to Queenstown, where 188 German and Austrian reservists were taken off the vessel.

After six days' detention at the Irish port, the Noordam was permitted to continue her voyage to Rotterdam.

GERMAN SHIPS' RENDEZVOUS.

Five Cruisers Said to be at the Marshall Islands in the Pacific.

HONOLULU, Sept. 17.—Two German merchant Captains from the China Sea have brought word that the German Navy and merchant marine are making the Marshall Islands their rendezvous in the Pacific. Five German cruisers, two steam oil tankers, and twelve German passenger and freight ships are said to be there now.

Capt. Mellhoff of the little Hamburg-American trader Loongmoon, which arrived last night from Tsing-tao, forty-three days out, told the story first. Capt. Vogeler of the Government Jaeschke, also of the Hamburg-American freight service, which arrived today, corroborated him.

There are now six German vessels here. They probably will remain until peace is made.

DER GROSSE FOUGHT BACK.

Cruiser Highflyer Hit Ten Times Before Sinking Converted Liner.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—An officer of the British cruiser Highflyer has given the following account of the sinking of the converted North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse off the coast of Africa late in August by the Highflyer:

"While we were coaling at Las Palmas, Canary Islands, we heard that two colliers had left for Rio de Oro, West Africa. We followed and sighted the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse within twenty miles of Rio de Oro with colliers alongside. We opened fire at 3:10 o'clock and ceased at 4:50. The Kaiser Wilhelm sank at 5:10. Our lyddite shells soon settled things. Our ship was struck ten times."

France Careful of German Wounded

PARIS, Friday, Sept. 18.—The War Office has issued a notice that all persons employed in the hospital service who are found guilty of neglecting to give proper care to German prisoners left behind by the German Army because of the gravity of their wounds, will be immediately relieved from duty.

DENIES VANDERBILT DENOUNCED BRITISH

Edmund L. Baylies, His Lawyer, Repudiates Alleged Interview Assailing Triple Entente.

WIDELY PRINTED IN GERMANY

Vanderbilt Is Now on His Way to New York on White Star Liner Olympic.

Friends of Cornelius Vanderbilt were very much surprised yesterday morning when they read the alleged interview with him in which he denounced the action of Great Britain in siding with the French and Russians in the European war as the greatest disgrace of the century, and that a fatal blow to Germany would be likewise a fatal blow to the United States.

Edmund L. Baylies of the law firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, who is Mr. Vanderbilt's attorney, was among those who were certain that Mr. Vanderbilt had been misquoted. Mr. Baylies sent the following letter to THE TIMES with reference to the interview:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to a news item in your paper of this date, in which Cornelius Vanderbilt is represented as assailing England and France and expressing wishes for Germany's success, I desire, as Mr. Vanderbilt's attorney, while he is at sea and, therefore, unable to speak for himself, to repudiate the alleged interview in the Breslau Zeitung of Aug. 27, vouched for by the so-called Chamber of German-American Commerce in New York.

I have been with Mr. Vanderbilt in Europe during the past Summer since the commencement of the present war, and am entirely familiar with his views on this subject, and, therefore, feel authorized to make this denial. It is impossible that Mr. Vanderbilt should have expressed the views credited to him.

Upon his return to New York next week Mr. Vanderbilt will himself contradict the alleged interview, which can have but one object, namely, to intensify the bitterness of feeling which the present unfortunate war has aroused.

EDMUND L. BAYLIES.

Sept. 17, 1914.

Another friend of Mr. Vanderbilt said that he was certain that he (Mr. Vanderbilt) had "never said, thought, or felt any of the things" credited to him in the alleged interview in the Breslauer Zeitung of Aug. 27, a translation of which was made public by the Chamber of German-American Commerce of 11 Broadway Wednesday afternoon.

At the chamber Heinrich Charles, Secretary of the organization, when told of the action taken by Mr. Baylies in the matter, thought a while before making his answer. He then said:

"Concerning the authority of statements of Cornelius Vanderbilt to a correspondent of the Breslauer Zeitung, which statements were translated and furnished by us to the press, we have this to say:

"The interview was originally printed in the Breslauer Zeitung, one of the foremost journals of Germany, and made the rounds of the German press. The particular paper we clipped the interview from is the Taegliche Rundchau, one of Berlin's most reliable papers. The Breslau Zeitung stated that a correspondent had the conversation with Mr. Vanderbilt in Genoa in August. Considerable care was exercised in our translation—in fact, modifications were made with the express purpose of avoiding intensification of any bitter feeling that may exist.

"Our reasons for believing that the interview is unquestionably authentic are, first, because the newspapers of Germany are at present under strict control, and not one of them would dare print an interview not correct and authorized. Second, because we ascertained that Mr. Vanderbilt was in Genoa in Austria. Also, because of Mr. Vanderbilt's intimate relations with Kaiser Wilhelm, Prince Heinrich, and other members of the Imperial German family, from whom he has received many favors at Berlin and at Kiel—relations which undoubtedly justify such sentiments as were contained in the published statements."

Mr. Vanderbilt is now on his way to New York from Europe, being a passenger on the White Star liner Olympic, which sailed from Southampton Wednesday. The Olympic is due next Tuesday.

PRISONERS DEPLORE WAR.

"Why Are We Here?" Asks a Saxon, Who Arrives at Bordeaux.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 17.—The official world of France awaits with optimism the result of the great battle in the north. The Germans have undoubtedly received fresh supplies of men and ammunition, but probably less than the Allies who, in the opinion of the Temps military expert, have the advantage even if the invaders alter their retreat.

Prisoners from the battle of the Marne continue to pour into Bordeaux, but so discreetly has their transport been regulated that the people are hardly aware of their presence. Eight hundred arrived today, most of them Saxons, belonging to the agricultural classes. Some of them were Berlin peasants. All talked freely, pointing smilingly at their tattered greenish gray uniforms.

The majority of the prisoners had fought in their first action, but [illegible]. "We never did less than forty-five or fifty kilometres a day," said one of the men. "The field kitchens had difficulty in keeping up with us, and we were usually fed one hot meal. Then the marching exhausted us. One day we marched for twenty-two hours, in which we stopped for only one hour."

"This war is a terrible thing," said a Saxon infantryman, with tears in his eyes. "I left there," pointing to the east, "my wife and children. Do you think I am here willingly? What do we want here?"

THE TIME CLAUSE

Virtually every building contract contains a time clause setting forth the period of time to be involved in the construction of the building and stipulating the completion date.

That clause in a Thompson-Starrett contract is more than a clause, it is a certainty, not merely because it is in the contract, but because it is in the power of this organization so to gauge its capabilities as to fulfil every promise it makes and to make none which it cannot fulfil.

Miss Agnes B. Davis of Plainfield, N. J., will leave here on Tuesday for Quebec, in response to information received by her that she has been slected for Red Cross service by the Canadian Government. Miss Davis is a graduate of the Victoria General Hospital, London, Ont., and the Women's Hospital, New York.

FOR BRITISH RELIEF FUND.

Englishmen Living Here Launch Movement to Raise Money.

A movement was started last night at a meeting of Englishmen living in this city, held at the British Imperial Club, 108 East Thirtieth Street, to raise a fund for the relief of distressed families of British reservists who have gone to the front from this city and to assist in the relief work in England.

John Kenna Lawson, who presided, said that his three brothers were at the front fighting, and that his mother and sister were aiding the wounded who were brought back to London. The least that he and other Englishmen living in this country could do, he said, would be to send funds for the work at home. A collection was taken to defray first expenses, and it was announced that on Nov. 13 a concert would be given at the Lyceum Theatre under the auspices of a women's committee, the proceeds to go toward relief work. An entertainment will also be held in the club rooms on Oct. 24 for the same purpose.

Another meeting will be held next Wednesday night, to which all Englishmen are invited.

Lord Wm. Percy Found Rare Duck.

Lord William Percy, the British naturalist, who has just sailed from New York to join the Grenadier Guards, stopped in this city long enough to outline to Frederic C. Walcott, Director of the American Game Protective Association, the ornithological results of his recent trip in Alaskan and Siberian waters. He sought particularly for the spectacled eider duck. This species was supposed to be extinct on the Alaskan coast. Lord Percy succeeded in obtaining eleven specimens, of which ten were Siberian and one Alaskan.

GET WORK OR GO TO WAR!

How England Increased Her Army in the Days of Queen Anne.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Notice to "serve in the army or find work" was the method of dealing with able-bodied unemployed men in the days of Queen Anne, a period of almost incessant warfare.

When the recruiting officer—described at the time as a compound of "canting, lying, impudence, bullying, swearing, drinking, and a halberd"—failed to beat up recruits fast enough for Marlborough's wars, an act was passed to enable Justices of the Peace to compel all able-bodied men "as have not any lawful means for their own maintenance" to join the army.

Parish officers were encouraged to hunt up such men, and received $5 for every man sentenced to be a soldier.

The result, however, was disappointing. Thousands deserted, and England relied mainly on volunteers. Each of these were offered $20 bounty and a discharge after three years, "if they deserved it."

JAPANESE-AMERICAN DINNER

Demonstration of Friendship in Tokio—Speech by Kaneko.

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—A notable demonstration of friendship toward the United States was made tonight at a dinner given by the Japanese Association, which was attended among others by Takaaki Kato, the Japanese Foreign Minister, and George W. Guthrie, the United States Ambassador.

Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, President of the association, in a speech attacked those persons who, he said, were trying to estrange the United States and Japan.

"Japan not only will not attack the Philippines," said Viscount Kaneko, "but she never had any idea of disturbing the tranquillity of the territorial waters of the Philippines. Our friendship will be as firm and immovable as historic Plymouth Rock."

Other speakers suggested an alliance between the United States and Japan for the preservation of peace in the Pacific.

The Japanese East and West News Bureau received a message from Tokio yesterday announcing that the Japanese Government had prohibited on Sept. 14 the publication of The Japan Daily Herald and The Deutsche Japan Post of Yokohama for attacks on the Japanese Government's policy in the war.

Martin Ostwald, the editor of The Deutsche Japan Post, the dispatch added, was expelled from Japan.

DESPERADOES SELF-SLAIN.

Gang in Rand Kill Themselves, Leader First Shooting His Wife

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 17.—The gang of desperadoes under the leadership of a man named Jackson, who were indirectly the cause of the killing of Gen. Jacobus Hendrick de la Rey, the noted Boer General, came to a dramatic end today.

They took refuge in a cave on the East Rand, and the police surrounded the cave and called upon them to surrender.

The desperadoes offered to give up their arms to Jackson's wife. She entered the cave, and Jackson shot her. Jackson and his two accomplices then committed suicide.

Gen. de la Rey, who was one of the ablest commanders in the Boer war, was proceeding in an automobile to his farm, when police who were watching for the Jackson desperadoes challenged him. He continued on without stopping, and the police fired, a bullet entering Gen. de la Rey's heart.

SISTERS RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Mrs. Clara Thayer Perry Dead, Miss Ida M. Thayer Dying.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 17.—The two sisters of ex-Congressman John Alden Thayer were run over and mortally injured in the street near their homes here this afternoon.

Mrs. Clara Thayer Perry, 65 years old, of 900 Main Street, was picked up dead after the automobile had passed over her. Miss Ida M. Thayer, aged 62, before whose home at 10 Hawthorne Street, the accident happened, is dying to-night.

The machine that ran down the women was a big touring car owned and driven by C. Newton Prouty, Jr., of Spencer, son of the wealthy shoe manufacturer of that town.

According to Prouty and all the witnesses of the accident, it was unavoidable.

The victims of the catastrophe were two of this city's most prominent women, coming from one of New England's most noted families. They were direct descendants of John and Priscilla Alden.

Congressman Thayer was in Sea Girt, N. J. today. He took the first train for this city and will reach here early tomorrow morning. Another brother, George K. Thayer, lives in New York.

Mrs. Perry was the widow of Dr. Charles H. Perry, one of the most noted surgeons in Massachusetts, who died here six years ago after practicing in this city for fifty years.

12 KILLED AS TRAIN HITS CAR

Thirty Others Injured in Wreck Near Memphis.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 17.—Twelve people were killed and thirty injured when an Illinois Central freight train plowed into the trailer of the Raleigh Springs car which left Memphis at 6 o'clock tonight.

The accident occurred at the Sumner Avenue crossing, a quarter of a mile east of Binghamton. The freight train was going north on the Belt Line Railroad. The trailer was carried 100 yards and over an embankment.

Patrolman Clark reports that the conductor in charge of the car said there were seventy-five passengers on the trailer and that about forty got off at Binghamton.

The known dead are Dr. L. H. Pittman, Albert Hodges, I. B. Douglass, Will Rogers, and John Tank, colored.

12 BURIED BY CAVE-IN.

Miners Caught 1,600 Feet Below Ground in Utah Accident.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 17.—A cave-in on the 1,600-foot level of the Centennial Eureka mine of Eureka today buried twelve men. Although hope of rescuing them was abandoned, their relatives stood about the shaft imploring help.

The men were too deeply buried to have survived.

OPPOSE STATE BANK ISSUE OF CURRENCY

Emergency Function Should Be Reserved to National Banks, Reserve Board Holds.

WILL CHANGE SENATE BILL

House Committee Likely to Strike Out That Section—Two Other Amendments Decided Upon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Following the appearance today of three members of the Federal Reserve Board before the House Banking and Currency Committee, all of whom urged the elimination of the provision of the bill recently passed by the Senate which would permit State banks to issue emergency currency upon terms of equality with national banks, it was generally conceded that the Senate measure would be changed in many particulars before going before the House for action.

Chairman Glass has faith that the new currency system will prove adequate in the face of the present crisis brought on by the European war. A majority of his colleagues on the committee are of the same opinion, and today Messrs. Hamlin, Warburg, and Williams of the Reserve Board took occasion to declare their confidence in the law.

Mr. Warburg informed the committee that the Federal reserve system would be put in operation probably between Oct. 15 and 30. He insisted that there would be no present need for more currency if that which was being hoarded by banks and individuals, through lack of confidence, were put in circulation.

"This hoarding always takes place in times of distress," said Mr. Warburg. "In my opinion, an abundance of currency to meet all demands will be immediately forthcoming when the new Federal reserve system is inaugurated."

The bill under consideration before the committee would authorize national banks to issue notes based on commercial paper to not exceeding 75 per cent. of their capital and surplus. The present law permits the issuance of such notes only up to 30 per cent. of capital and surplus. While the Reserve Board members were favorable to the legislation in the main, they asked that the Hoke Smith amendment, placing State banks in the same category as national banks be stricken from the measure as unnecessary and unwise.

It developed at the hearing that the committee had received not a single indorsement of the plan to include State banks. Not even the State banks themselves, it was said, had signified to the committee that the legislation was wanted. On the other hand, John Skelton Williams, a member of the board, said he had received letters from national banks threatening to leave the National Currency Association should the provision be enacted into law.

The Board recommended two important amendments to the bill. One provides that "the Federal Reserve Board shall have power to permit member banks to carry in the Federal Reserve banks any portion of their reserves now required by Section 19 of the act to be held in their own banks." It is estimated that this would result in an increase of credit approximating $700,000,000.

The other amendment suggested would authorize the Secretary of the Treasury "to devise and put into operation a system of clearances of national banknotes between the Treasury and Federal Reserve banks and for that purpose to designate Federal Reserve banks as agents of the United States." It is contended that a change of this character in the law would enable the Secretary to facilitate the movement of emergency currency now being issued under the amended Aldrich-Vreeland currency law.

FIND ROBERT KIRKPATRICK.

Father Appeals to Times for News of 14-Year-Old Son.

J. G. Kirkpatrick of 14 West Eighty-fourth Street has asked THE TIMES to help him in finding news of his 14-year-old son, Robert, who has been missing since Sept. 9. The boy left home on that day on an errand to a near-by grocery, and after making some purchases left the articles at the store, saying he would call for them later. Since then his parents have heard nothing from him.

Mr. Kirkpatrick said yesterday that his son had, so far as he knew, no intention of running away when he left home, as he had made no preparations and took nothing with him. The family is inclined to think that unwillingness to return to school may have influenced him to go away. He was a student in Public School 166, at 166 West Eighty-ninth Street, and belonged to the Boy Scouts, at whose encampment he spent three weeks this Summer.

He is about 5 feet 6 inches high, has light hair and complexion, and blue eyes, and when last seen was wearing a gray Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers, black shoes and stockings, a short-sleeved blue blouse waist, and a gray cap.

PACIFIC LINER A CRUISER

Empress of Asia, Requisitioned by British, Combing Seas for Prizes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The new Canadian Pacific Railway trans-Pacific liner Empress of Asia has been requisitioned by the British Government and transformed into a merchant cruiser. She is now combing the Pacific for prizes. This was the word brought here from the Orient today by the Pacific Mail liner Manchuria.

The Empress of Asia is a four-screw turbine vessel of 16,909 tons, built in 1913 and put into service within the last few months. The Japanese liner Nippon Maru has been pressed into the transport service.

Among the passengers landed by the Manchuria was Baron L. von Muller, Austrian Ambassador to Japan, who said he intended to spend a few weeks in this country before attempting to return to Austria.

Another passenger, Capt. F. Erdmannsdeorffer of the Hamburg-American Line, commanding the freighter Spezia of 3,781 tons, was in Vladivostok when war between Russia and Germany was declared. The Russians seized his vessel and gave him one hour, he said, to leave the country. Three of his officers were held.

The Manchuria brought the largest cargo ever landed at this port from the Orient.

LINER CHASED 150 MILES

Luxemburg Finally Driven from Intended Prey by a British Cruiser.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Reporting a narrow escape from capture by the German auxiliary cruiser Luxemburg when 300 miles south of St. Lucia, British West Indies, the British steamship Anselma de Larrinaga, from Buenos Aires, docked here today.

Capt. Davis said that the Luxemburg, which was formerly the Hamburg-American liner of the same name, chased his vessel for 150 miles until the appearance of a French cruiser and a British warship forced her to abandon the pursuit.

"When we got into St. Lucia," said Capt. Davis, "we were told that the Luxemburg had captured the British freight steamers Hyades, Helmwood, and Rowes Castle, but, being unable to put into any port with them, she had taken the crews off and had then sunk the vessels. The Rowes Castle was sunk two days before we got to St. Lucia, we were told. She was on her way to New York from Chile."

Two more British steamships were reported missing and were thought to have been captured, according to Capt. Davis.

NAVY INQUIRY AT TUCKERTON

Government Will Investigate Accident to Wireless Station.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Secretary Daniels today ordered a Naval Court of Inquiry to investigate the accident which disabled the high-power radio station at Tuckerton, N. J., yesterday and rendered its sending apparatus useless. When asked whether the order in any way involved a suspicion of inefficiency, Secretary Daniels replied in the negative.

An official statement said: "This Court of Inquiry will investigate all the circumstances connected with the accident, will ascertain the causes of the accident and the damage done, and will, if there was any inefficiency on the part of any one connected with the operation of the station, definitely fix the responsibility therefor. The Court of Inquiry will meet at Tuckerton Friday, Sept. 18. Two civilian radio experts in the employ of the Navy Department have been directed to assist the court in its investigation and it is intended that a full and exhaustive investigation shall be made."

The Court of Inquiry will consist of Lieut. Commander A. J. Hepburn, Lieut. Commander Herbert G. Sparrow, and Lieuts. Walter B. Woodson and Clyde H. McDonald.

TRAINING SHIP FOUNDERS.

21 of an Old British Battleship's Crew Drown in the Channel.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Admiralty announces that the training ship Fisgard II., formerly the battleship Erebus, has foundered during a gale in the English Channel and that twenty-one members of her crew were drowned. At the time of the disaster the Fisgard II. was being towed.

Boy artificers were trained on the vessel.

The Fisgard foundered at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The survivors were landed here. The vessel was outward bound from Portland when she struck rough weather, during which some of her heavy equipment broke loose, giving her a heavy list.

The Fisgard turned back in an effort to make port, but turned turtle in sight of hundreds of spectators ashore when she reached Portland Race.

The work of rescue was hampered by the heavy seas.

The Fishguard foundered off Portland as she was being towed by tugs through a heavy sea. Forty-four of the crew were rescued by the tugs.

MRS. F. W. HARRIMAN BACK.

Saw German Aeroplane, Flying Over Paris, Drop Two Bombs.

Mrs. F. W. Harriman, who arrived yesterday from Marseilles on the Fabre liner Patria with 598 other American refugees, said she was in Paris on Aug. 30 at the Hotel Regina in the Rue de Rivoli and saw a German aeroplane fly over the Seine. One bomb dropped into the river and another fell in the street in front of the hotel, but did not explode.

When the Patria left Marseilles on Sept. 3 the piers were crowded with Turcoes disembarking from Algeria. Among the passengers were a number of school teachers and students who had been marooned in Italy by the war and joined the liner at Palermo.

DEMOCRATS SOLID FOR WAR TAX BILL

Few Changes Now Probable—House as Well as Senate Minority Will Fight It.

BROKERS ENTER PROTEST

State of Their Business Doesn't Warrant Tax, They Say—Talk of Modifying Check Stamp Provision.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Having determined in their caucus the War Tax bill, Democrats of the House have ceased to show concern at every new suggestion for the inclusion or elimination of a source of revenue. It is probable that the bill to be presented by Representative Underwood, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, will be accepted in its entirety or rejected as a whole. The Democrats, judging from present indications, will be solidly back of the measure, and, if the efforts of the Republican leaders are as effective as expected, the minority party in both House and Senate will be lined up against the proposed tax.

Mr. Underwood hopes to be able to introduce the bill late tomorrow. It is his plan to call a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee for Saturday, at which the Republican members as well as the Democrats will be present. A report will be made to the House early next week.

The House Republicans have decided to hold a conference on the measure tomorrow night, and it is expected they will follow the lead of the Republican Senators, who have resolved to fight the legislation on the ground that retrenchment in appropriations will be adequate to meet the situation.

While it is not thought that the minority will be able to defeat the bill in the House, the fight will get the Republican attitude before the country and give encouragement to the Senators who oppose the bill.

Stockbrokers are protesting to the Ways and Means Committee against the proposal to include in the bill a special tax on them of $50 a year. Such a tax was levied in the War Revenue act of the Spanish-American war. The stockbrokers base their claim for exemption on the fact that Stock Exchanges are closed throughout the country because of the war, and that their business is demoralized.

The matter will be taken up tomorrow, when the committee expects to receive from the Treasury Department estimates of revenue to be derived from special and stamp taxes proposed to be levied. Several members of the committee maintain that the brokers' tax should be included because the brokers have not closed their offices.

Some members desire to exempt checks from the proposed 2-cent stamp tax if the Treasury estimates show that $100,000,000 in revenue can be raised without them. Great increases in land transactions and insurance business since the Spanish war, they believe, will afford stamp tax revenues more than sufficient to make up for exemption of the check tax. If it is found undesirable to eliminate all checks, it may be decided to exempt from taxation all checks of $50 or less. The principal reason advanced for this exemption is that it would relieve the banks and merchants from annoying detail and also relieve from the tax burden persons of small means.

WOMEN HELD FOR ARSON.

Mother and Daughter Arrested After Blaze in Dry Goods Shop.

Mrs. Theresa Huber, 39 years old, who has a dry goods store at 447 Irving Avenue, Williamsburg, and her 16-year-old daughter Mary were arrested yesterday on charges of arson in the first degree following an investigation by Fire Marshal Brophy of a fire in the store discovered early in the morning by Policeman Minck of the Hamburg Avenue Station.

Four families live over the shop. They were asleep when the blaze was discovered. Minck broke down the front door and while extinguishing the blaze discovered, it is alleged, a dozen bologna casings filled with kerosene oil lying around.

When Marshal Brophy subjected Mrs. Huber to sharp questioning she is said to have confessed the incendiary origin of the fire and implicated her daughter. The woman added that her business had been very poor and that she had been unable to meet her bills. She carried an insurance of $3,500 on her stock which Marshal Brophy said was worth less than $200. Mrs. Huber and her daughter were taken to the Hamburg Avenue Police Station. Her husband is employed in a brewery.

Orange Hatmakers Busy.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 17.—Because of the war the hat factories in Orange Valley that employ many thousand men and women are busier now than they have been in years. The Philadelphia shops are so deluged with orders that the manufacturers of that city have sent word to the local headquarters of the United Hatters of North America telling them they can employ all the hatters that may be out of work in the Oranges.

FEAR FOR GOV. WALSH.

Physicians Believe Massachusetts Executive Has Contracted Tetanus.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Grave fear that Gov. Walsh might become infected with tetanus has, it was learned tonight, caused the physicians who are attending the Governor to inject quantities of anti-tetanus serum. News of this, together with the knowledge that three eminent Boston physicians held a consultation over the Governor today, caused considerable alarm.

Dr. Charles L. Scudder, the surgeon who has had charge of the Governor's case since the latter fell and broke one of his arms at the Park Riding School on Labor Day, stated tonight that the Governor was getting along well, and that, in fact, the Governor sat up this evening, had a good supper, and was quite happy.

Dr. Harry W. Goodal, who is one of the Back Bay's most prominent physicians, has been called into the case and he was one of the group of physicians who saw the Governor today.

TRIES TO WED GIRL OF 12.

Molino Is Parted from an Orphan in the License Bureau.

When Rocco Molino and Stella La Bruno, both of Long Branch, N. J., appeared yesterday in the Marriage Bureau at City Hall and asked for a license, the clerk was impressed by the youthful appearance of the girl. Molino said that she was twelve years old. He said that the girl's parents died several years ago, and that she had been adopted by the family in whose home he boarded, at 303 Norris Avenue.

Patrolman Taggart took Molino and the girl to the Children's Court, and the girl was arraigned before Justice Hoyt on a charge of improper guardianship. She was sent to the Children's Society. Molino was taken before Magistrate Ten Eyck, who discharged him, saying that no crime had been committed.

SULZER BOOMS HENNESSY.

Asks Bull Moose Primary Votes for Himself in Monroe.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 17.—William Sulzer had a busy day today. He addressed three meetings and shook hands with all manner of persons. He felt quite elated at his reception and said he thought he was bound to be elected Governor on the Progressive ticket this Fall. Candidate Davenport he regarded as a small issue.

At Bay View this afternoon Sulzer addressed the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Tonight he greeted big meetings at West High School and the Labor Lyceum.

"I hope every enrolled Democrat," shouted Sulzer at both meetings, "will vote for Hennessy on primary day. I ask this because he is an honest Democrat. I appointed him to make investigations, and he did splendid work. He discovered that of $50,000,000 appropriated for roads half of that amount was stolen from the people."

CARDEN INTERVIEW WILL BE IGNORED

Government to Overlook Indiscrete Statement of British Minister to Mexico.

SIR LIONEL HEARD FROM

Wireless States He Did Not Reflect on Wilson, but "Affairs in Mexico Are Deplorable."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The United States Government has decided to ignore the alleged indiscretion of Sir Lionel Carden, former British Minister to Mexico, in connection with newspaper interviews in which he was quoted as criticising the United States for withdrawing its troops from Vera Cruz and saying other things that happened to be a reflection on the attitude of this Government in the Mexican situation.

As THE TIMES told in a Washington dispatch this morning, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice informed Secretary Bryan in telephone conversation last night, and subsequently in a formal note, that the statements attributed to Sir Lionel Carden were "unauthoritative." The British Ambassador gave the same assurance today, during a personal call at the State Department, to Robert Lansing, the Acting Secretary of State, and learned that the Government was not disposed to pay any attention to the matter.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice did not tell Acting Secretary Lansing that he knew that Sir Lionel Carden had been misquoted, but he expressed the opinion that no officer of the British Diplomatic Service would have indulged in such criticism of a friendly nation, because in doing so he would have violated a standing regulation of that service. This regulation, he explained, was so stringent that it not only barred such criticism, but forbade a British diplomatic officer from giving an interview of any character to the press. The British Ambassador expressed regret that embarrassment had been caused through the publication of the interview.

In answer to a wireless sent to him on the steamship Celtic by The Evening Sun regarding his criticism of President Wilson's policy in Mexico, alleged to have been given in an interview just before sailing Wednesday, Sir Lionel Carden, retiring British Minister to Mexico replied yesterday:

> SS. Celtic, Sept. 17, (wireless via Boston, Mass.)—I have made no statement reflecting on President Wilson's Mexican policy. The condition of affairs when I left Mexico was deplorable, but not desperate. LIONEL CARDEN.

In his interview, which was given in the main saloon companionway of the Celtic, where he sat on a settee with Lady Carden and a friend, Sir Lionel began the conversation by remarks on the seriousness of the war in Europe and what the after consequences might be. Then a City News Association reporter drew his attention to Mexico as being of more interest to the people of the United States, and the British Minister proceeded to make the remarks accredited to him in the newspapers yesterday.

He did not request that he should not be quoted, the three reporters averred, and described the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico as a "desperate shame." When the City News reporter said, "That seems like anarchy, Sir Lionel," he replied, "It is absolute anarchy."

The reporters wrote out their notes in full on board the Celtic. They were experienced newspaper men accustomed to interviewing prominent people who arrive and depart on liners at this port.

PUTS CIENTIFICOS OUT.

Denied That Carranza Confiscated Mexican Railway—New Directors.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Denial that the Carranza Government had confiscated the National Railways of Mexico and an explanation of just what had been done were made here today by a gentleman closely associated with the Constitutionalist Confidential Agency. The statement, understood to be based on direct information, follows:

"The published statement that the National Railways of Mexico had been confiscated by the Carranza Government is absolutely false in every respect and is calculated to mislead the public in respect to the policy of that Government. The truth is that the Mexican Government owns about 52 per cent. of the controlling interest in the National Railways, a corporation chartered by the Mexican Congress. With its majority interest the Government has the right, in compliance with the by-laws, to remove the Directors and other officials of the company and to dictate its policy.

"The road has long been in the hands of the Cientificos, who have mismanaged the property, and when Gen. Carranza took over the reins of government he decided that it would be wise to remove from office the employes of the old régime and to substitute those of his own choice. Having made these appointments, the new officials a few days ago took possession of the offices of the National Railways and proceeded to operate the lines in keeping with what was believed to be for the best interests of all concerned.

"While the lines have been for a long time used for military purposes, in connection with the ordinary traffic, there has been no confiscation whatsoever, and it is the purpose of the new Government to restore the property to the corporation after the annual meeting of the shareholders, which takes place on Oct. 7 next, at which time a new Board of Directors will be named.

explanation. They had realized that Sir Lionel Carden had had personal differences with Carranza, and had supposed that he spoke resentfully toward the latter because the First Chief had forced him to leave Mexico.

The President today said the question of withdrawing troops from the Texas border had not been considered, nor was he able to predict when formal recognition would be extended. He pointed out that he had official reports and assurances that conditions in Mexico were not threatening and unsettled as had been reported.

Congratulatory messages from Mexico and from Mexicans in the United States poured in at the White House today on the decision to withdraw the American forces from Vera Cruz. Gen. Carranza expressed great satisfaction through American Consul Silliman and said he would send a formal note of thanks later.

OCCUPATION ARMY NEAR.

Gen. Aguilar, with 3,000 Troops, 30 Miles from Vera Cruz.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 17.—Gen. Candido Aguilar, with customs, postal, and other officials, and 3,000 troops, reached Soledad, thirty miles from here, tonight, and is spending the night there.

It is supposed that these troops are on the way to occupy Vera Cruz when the Americans evacuate the city. The approach of the Carranza troops has spread fresh alarm among the refugees here.

The refugees continue to tell alarming stories of what may be expected when the Constitutionalists occupy the city. It is said that several persons connected with the civil Government under the Huerta règime have received letters from Carranza partisans stating that their doom is sealed and even locating the spot at which they will be shot or the lamp post to which they will be hanged. Those said to be thus marked for death include the police officials, among whom are some who are not Mexicans.

Another story going the rounds is that a blacklist containing 800 names has been prepared—presumably persons who are to be imprisoned or put to death. This list, according to the story, contains the names of many foreigners, several correspondents in the employ of American newspapers, and even servants of individuals persona non grata to the new Government.

Of course, all these stories must be taken with the proverbial grain of salt. Just the same, they are believed by many of the refugees, and preparations are under way for the sending of a formal protest to Washington against the withdrawal of the American troops.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 17.—Two former officers of the old Federal Army last night drew lots for what they regarded as the honor of humiliating a Constitutionalist officer, a young Major from the capital who had obtained permission to wear his full uniform within the American lines. Anticipating that they would be fined for their assault upon the Constitutionalist the two ex-Federal Captains pooled $10 in American currency with which they purchased 50 pesos. They then drew lots and the winner of the pool went up to the Major in an open-air café and tore the straps from his shoulders.

GEN. CARRANZA GRATEFUL.

His Note Acknowledging Evacuation Order—Occupation "Accidental."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—Gen. Carranza today acknowledged to Consul Silliman receipt of Secretary Bryan's note announcing the forthcoming evacuation of Vera Cruz. After saying that Gen. Candido Aguilar, Governor of the State of Vera Cruz, had been appointed to receive possession of the port, "which accidentally is occupied by the forces of the United States of America," Gen. Carranza thus concludes:

"The Government under my charge notes with satisfaction the procedure of his Excellency the President of the United States in giving up this town, which was occupied temporarily on account of the lamentable incident which arose between officers of Gen. Huerta and marines of the American union. Be pleased to accept personally this expression of my profound gratitude."

This was signed "V. Carranza."

Marcelino Davalos, who has charge of the Foreign Relations Department in the absence of Minister Favela, was asked tonight whether an international ceremony would be arranged in connection with the evacuation of Vera Cruz. Señor Davalos said the matter had not yet been decided, but that probably there would be an exchange of courtesies, such as salutes, &c., to demonstrate the cordial feeling now existing between the two nations.

NEW PLOTTING REPORTED.

Aimed at Carranza Government by Huerta and Cientifico Outs.

EL PASO, Sept. 17.—Reports of a counter-revolutionary plot in Mexico were received tonight by Constitutionalist agents here. It was reported from various points on the eastern border that former officials of the Huerta Government, combined with the old Cientifico Party, were plotting against the Carranza Government. According to these reports the plotters had begun operations at New Orleans and San Antonio. At the latter place, it was said, they had sought to draw $10,000 which had been banked before the collapse of the Huerta Government. The Constitutionalist agents at San Antonio reported that they had sought to enjoin the payment of these funds.

From the California border came reports that persons representing themselves as agents of José Maria Maytorena, the insurgent Governor of Sonora, and Felipe Angeles, in command of Gen. Villa's artillery, have obtained the surrender of Tia Juana, opposite Santiago, Cal.

Reports reached the local consulate of extensive armament of both Carranza and Villa troops since the lifting of the embargo by the Washington Government. It was reported from Galveston that a large shipment of arms and ammunition has been sent to Mexico City via Tampico. A consignment of 6,000 rifles is reported on the way here to be transmitted to Villa's headquarters at Chihuahua City.

FLETCHER IN COMMAND.

Succeeds Admiral Badger as Head of the Atlantic Fleet.

At noon yesterday, Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher succeeded Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, as Commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet. The transfer took place on the quarterdeck of the fleet flagship, the superdreadnought Wyoming, in the Navy Yard in Brooklyn. The ceremonies were simple, and except for the salutes visitors to the Navy Yard would not have known that anything out of the ordinary was taking place.

A few minutes before noon the crew of the Wyoming was mustered on deck under command of Capt. James H. Glennon. A few minutes later Admiral Badger with his staff appeared. Behind them came Admiral Fletcher, and his staff. The Admirals exchanged cordial greetings and then Admiral Badger read the Navy Department orders instructing him to turn over the command to Admiral Fletcher.

When Admiral Badger finished reading, Admiral Fletcher read another department order instructing him to assume command. Then down came the two-starred pennant of Admiral Badger from the foremast accompanied by a salute of thirteen guns. As the last gun was fired the pennant of Admiral Fletcher was raised slowly and a second salute was fired. Ten minutes later Admiral Badger left the ship to start for Washington where he will become a member of the General Board of the Navy.

Simultaneously with the change of command of the fleet it was announced in Washington that Capt. Gleaves, for two years Commandant of the Navy in Brooklyn, had been relieved and ordered to sea as the commander of the newly organized cruiser, or fifth, division of the Atlantic Fleet. Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, now Commandant of the Navy Yard at Norfolk, was assigned to the New York yard as Commandant.

It was announced also that Rear Admiral William B. Caperton, now commanding the Reserve Fleet at Philadelphia, had been detached and named a Division Commander of the Atlantic Fleet. Rear Admiral James M. Helm succeeds Admiral Caperton as Commander in Chief of the Reserve Fleet.

The New York Navy Yard is to have an industrial manager, who will be either a naval constructor or a former officer of the old engineer corps. The engineer corps as a separate naval organization has been abolished by Secretary Daniels.

'UNCLE SAM' SOCKS ABROAD.

Patterned After American Flag—Why Bother About Passports?

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Socks patterned after the design of the American flag are on sale here. One purveyor asserted today that these "Uncle Sam" socks were meant to establish the identity of Americans going on Continental missions.

Stripes run from top to bottom of the socks, with the exception of three rows of stars on a blue field just above the ankle. It was argued by one plausible merchant that no passport would be needed for the wearer of such a creation. Low shoes must be worn to get the proper effect.

To the large assortment of postcard photographs, which are now in great demand, has been added a picture of President Wilson. It has been one of the most popular pictures, so stationers assert, and has been enjoying a large sale.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER CAUGHT IN LONDON

Ralph E. Lovell Accused of Robbing the Edgewater National Bank of $100,000.

THEFT KEPT SECRET HERE

Private Detective Traced the Fugitive, Who Has Only $900 Left—Loss Only $5,000, Bank Says.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A man described as Ralph Edward Lovell and said to be wanted by the authorities of New Jersey was arrested here today and remanded for a week pending extradition proceedings.

According to the police, Lovell is accused of embezzling $100,000 from the First National Bank of Edgewater, N. J. He was stopping at a fashionable hotel under the name "E. R. Rolfe." The American State Department was notified of his presence in London and his arrest followed.

The prisoner is said by the police to have stated that he left the bank of which he was an employe about four months ago and went to Buenos Aires, where he was robbed of a large sum. He had only $1,000 left when he came here. A letter of credit found in his possession showed that he had deposited $5,000 in a bank in Buenos Aires, all but $900 of which had been subsequently withdrawn.

The arrest in London of Ralph Edward Lovell marks the first publicity given to the fact that the First National Bank of Edgewater has been the victim of an embezzler. During the four months that private detectives had been working on the case nothing was known of the crime.

Officials of the First National Bank said yesterday afternoon that the amount which the bank had lost was approximately $5,000. They did not know why the police of London charged Lovell with embezzling $100,000.

Lovell was employed by the bank five or six years ago.

After several years of service he was made paying teller, occupying this position when he disappeared. He is twenty-two years old and is unmarried. He lived in Hackensack, N. J.

GOLD EXPORT HEAVY.

$18,125,617 Shipped Abroad During Last Month—Imports Fall Off.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The preliminary reports of exports and imports in our European trade for August show a sharp reaction resulting from the war. The export of gold during the month was $18,125,617, as against $1,194,657 in the same month last year and $2,498,472 in August, 1912. Dutiable imports from Europe fell off from $70,000,000 in 1912 and $67,000,000 last year to $40,474,000 in the first thirty days of the war.

Free imports increase somewhat over the figures of last year, the total being $79,000,000. Exports were $108,188,732 of domestic goods, as compared with $185,114,273 in August last year and $165,000,000 the year before. For the month there was an excess of imports over exports of $19,061,000, but for eight months of 1914 there has been an excess of exports of goods amounting to $41,326,838.

Taking account of gold and silver shipments, the total excess of exports for the year thus far is $17,097,800. With the increasing shipment of grain and foodstuffs which set in the first of September, the statistics of our trade with Europe promises very soon to show a tremendous excess of exports over imports.

SHIP PROTEST WITHDRAWN.

Britain Satisfied with Registry Change—Brazil's Position Doubtful.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Although it has no official information on the subject, the Government is confident that no occasion for concern exists over the reported action of the British Consul at Rio de Janeiro in objecting to the transfer of the steamer Robert Dollar from British to American registry under the new Ship Registry act. The Dollar flew the British flag, but was owned in San Francisco.

According to information given to the State Department by Capt. Robert Dollar of San Francisco, owner of the vessel, the Brazilian Government declined to let her clear under the American flag on the ground that Brazil might infringe neutrality. Capt. Dollar today notified the department that the objection of the British Consul had been withdrawn, but he had not been informed that the Brazilian authorities had changed their attitude.

The State Department cabled to Edwin V. Morgan, the American Ambassador to Brazil, for a report. The department officials are satisfied that any objection by the British Consul was based on a misunderstanding of the attitude of his Government. Great Britain does not object to the transfer of British vessels to American register under the new law, but has instructed its Consuls to report all cases of that character so as to keep in touch with any effort of German shipowners to save their vessels by having them transferred to a neutral flag.

COLONEL IN DESPAIR OVER REPUBLICANS

Of No Use to Support "the Few Who Announce That They Are For Me."

"GREAT MASS OPPOSE ME"

Tells Marylanders That in All Big States Old Party Is More Reactionary Than Ever.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Col. Roosevelt has blasted the hopes of friends of Edward Carrington, Jr., Republican candidate for United States Senator in Maryland, by a dictum to former Attorney General Bonaparte and Gen. Stuart MacDonald, who have been conferring the last two days with him and George W. Perkins in New York. The Colonel has declared in unequivocal terms against fusion with Republicans in any State.

After Mr. Bonaparte and the other Marylanders had spoken on the situation in this State, Mr. Roosevelt said he could best deal with the questions of party policy in Maryland and indicate most clearly his views as to the course appropriate for the Progressive Party there by reading extracts from a letter he had recently written to a gentleman in Maryland who had promised to support him for the Republican nomination in 1916.

The Colonel then quoted from his letter as follows:

"I am very sorry to say that I do not think anything whatever can be done through the Republican Party as now organized; in any event, as far as I am concerned. The result here in New York has shown that it is utterly useless for me to endeavor to get any Republican of prominence to come out in such a way as to make it possible for there to be co-operation between the Republicans and Progressives on any terms which I would consider.

"In all big States the Republican Party is more reactionary, more completely under the control of the bosses, than it was two years ago. There is literally nothing whatever to be done with it while it continues as it is now; it at present is as far as the poles from the vital principles of Abraham Lincoln Republicanism, and I am sorry to say that actual experience has convinced me that any effort to make a combination between the Progressives and the decent Republicans for good government has resulted only in these decent Republicans being forced into subservience to the machine and the machine gleefully and screamingly announcing that the Progressives have surrendered to the Republicans, so that the situation becomes worse and not better.

"There are certain States where the Republican candidates have declared that they are for me in 1916 and a few where they with more or less directness announced themselves in favor of the Progressive policies. As regards the announcement for myself, I do not regard it as amounting to anything because it is of no earthly consequence to indorse me unless the principles for which I stand are indorsed.

"Under these circumstances I am sorry to say that I do not believe it would be right in the contest this Fall for the Progressives to support the Republicans in any State, no matter what the Republicans in these States may say, because in a great majority of the States the Republicans have come out with the utmost cynicism against the Progressives and in favor of all the worst policies and practices of the Bourbons two years ago, and where this is the case, victory for Republicans in any State, even though nominally achieved under the banner of some man who says he is for me, would in its sum total result in advantage to the utterly Bourbon and reactionary machines.

"If the Republicans of Maryland, Kentucky, and New Mexico declare for me, but at the same time keep in the Republican organization instead of becoming Progressive, they are absolutely powerless before the Republicans of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and the great majority of the other States where they are bitterly and to the last gasp against me and against everything I represent.

"As things are now, it is worse than useless to support the few Republicans who announce that they are for me, but that they intend to remain in the Republican Party, for this merely means that if elected they will strengthen the great mass of Republicans who not only intend to oppose me, which is unimportant, but to oppose all the things for which I stand, which is very important."

Col. Roosevelt was in executive session behind closed doors with the Maryland men on Wednesday, when he read the foregoing doleful views to them.

CHEER WHITMAN AT FAIR.

Gets Promise of Support in Westchester—Talks in Manhattan.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Sept. 17.—District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, visited the Westchester County Fair here today and addressed a large crowd. Previously he attended a meeting of the Westchester County Republican Executive Committee and made a short address. He was escorted to the fair grounds by a committee, among whom were John J. Brown, President of White Plains, and Sheriff William Doyle of Westchester. As he entered the speaking platform the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and everybody got up and cheered.

Mr. Whitman promised, if elected, to restore the old Hughes Highway Commission, which, he said, would help to put an end to the highway graft.

"The people are saying that there is too much graft talk," he continued, "and that the public is tired of hearing it. That is true. But the people are more tired of graft itself than the talk of it, which will cease only when graft itself ceases."

Turning toward Justice Goff, who was among those who walked across the track with him, District Attorney Whitman said:

"When this venerable Judge, years ago, was working for the Lexow Committee a cry went up that the people were tired of government by investigation, but it will continue as long as the conditions continue which make government by investigation necessary."

At the Executive Committee meeting twenty-six out of twenty-seven members were present and they voted unanimously to support Mr. Whitman in the primaries.

Twenty-five members of the East Side Business and Professional Men's League called on District Attorney Whitman yesterday and pledged him their support in his fight for the Republican nomination for Governor. Arnold Kahn, Vice President of the State Bank, presented a set of resolutions indorsing Mr. Whitman, who said in reply: "I am inclined to believe that my support on the lower east side, in spite of what a few leaders have said, will be almost unanimous."

Mr. Whitman addressed five meetings of Republican clubs last night. They were the Ninth District, 774 West Thirty-fourth Street; Eleventh District, 758 Eighth Avenue; Thirteenth District, 467 West Fifty-seventh Street; Sixteenth District, 237 East Forty-ninth Street, and Fourteenth District, 234 East Thirty-first Street.

HENNESSY TALKS OUTDOORS

Anti-Murphy Candidate at Meetings in McCooey's Borough.

Corporation Counsel Polk is slated to preside at an anti-Murphy rally in the Amsterdam Opera House next Thursday evening. Fire Commissioner Adamson, it was announced at Hennessy headquarters yesterday, will preside at some later meting.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt is campaigning up-State. Both he and Mr. Hennessy will appear together at many meetings in this city next week, which will mark the windup of the primary campaign.

Last night Mr. Hennessy addressed three open-air meetings in Brooklyn.

SAYS HE TOLD SMITH OF ELLERT ATTACK

Three Witnesses Examined at Hearing into Charges Against Queens District Attorney.

MISLED THE GRAND JURY

Haslett Said He Failed to Tell of Mistreatment of Woman at District Attorney's Suggestion.

Three witnesses out of fifteen summoned in an effort of Queens County taxpayers to have Matthew J. Smith removed as District Attorney of Queens County testified against Mr. Smith at the first hearing before the Governor's Special Commissioner, Henry J. Bigham, in the Queens County Court House yesterday.

James W. Osborne is counsel for District Attorney Smith, who is charged with failing to prosecute two employes of his office who, it is alleged, attacked Mrs. Clara Ellert, when she called at the District Attorney's office last December.

Robert R. Haslett of 54 Horton Street, Elmhurst, the chief witness on whom the opponents of District Attorney Smith relied to prove that he had knowledge of the attack upon Mrs. Ellert, which he failed to present to the Queens Grand Jury, admitted yesterday that he had given misleading testimony to the Grand Jury which finally indicted James Heffernan and Harry Scanlon, the two men alleged to have attacked Mrs. Ellert. Haslett asserted that he testified under instructions from District Attorney Smith.

"You were a school mate in the Bryant High School in Long Island City with Scanlon, one of those accused in the Ellert case, weren't you?" asked Congressman Goldfogle, who assisted Mr. Osborne in the defense.

"Yes, I was," Haslett testified, "and I hated to think I would be walking the streets after giving testimony which would probably send my old school friend to prison."

"And wouldn't that very friendship cause you to keep your peace in the Grand Jury room and fail to tell all you knew, without suggestions from the District Attorney?" persisted Mr. Goldfogle.

"By no means," Haslett asserted. "I told this whole story of the mistreatment of Mrs. Ellert to District Attorney Smith, not on one occasion, but on three occasions.

"District Attorney Smith assured me I would be questioned only upon the sources for newspaper articles I had written. In none of these articles had the story of the experience of Mrs. Ellert in the District Attorney's office, and in a near-by political clubhouse, been told. I had merely written of charges made and denials made by those involved.

"The Grand Jurors asked me about these articles, as I had been told they would. Then one Grand Juror asked: 'Is there anything more that you know about this case?' I replied, 'No,' in conformity with the understanding I had with District Attorney Smith. It was not an agreement made by word of mouth. It was just an understanding—such as could be arrived at without the use of words."

On Tuesday of this week Haslett testified he was tempted to leave the State to avoid testifying. He said that Harry Scanlon's mother offered to pay his fare to some distant point and that he agreed to meet Scanlon, who is awaiting a second trial for attacking Mrs. Ellert at the Grand Central Station on Tuesday night. He testified that after making this appointment the Rev. Harry B. Belcher, pastor of the Elmhurst Methodist Church, asked him to see Assistant District Attorney Hetherington. He said he went to Mr. Hetherington's home, but took witnesses with him, and when Mr. Hetherington found there were others in the party he refused to see him. This led him to abandon the plan to go away or to visit the Grand Central Station to meet Scanlon.

Mrs. Alfred J. Eno, President of the Woman's Suffrage organization in Queens, whose interest in the case of Mrs. Ellert led to the indictment of Heffernan and Scanlon, testified that while she was in the District Attorney's office last April waiting to be called before the Grand Jury District Attorney Smith attempted to convince her that Mrs. Ellert was a girl of bad character.

URGES FAIR TEST OF 'TWILIGHT SLEEP'

Results in Banishing Pain, Says Dr. Rongy, Compel Wide Attention.

REPORTS ON 125 CASES

More Than 80 Per Cent. of Patients Remembered Nothing—Some Difficulties in Early Experiments.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Sept. 17.—Dr. A. J. Rongy of New York read a paper here today before the American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists on "Twilight Sleep," the scopolamine-morphine method of abolishing pain and memory in labor cases, which is being tried out in various hospitals in the United States, but whose chief advocates are Prof. Krönig and Prof. Gauss of the Frauenklinik at Freiburg, Germany. He related the history of the treatment for the last twelve years, and gave a detailed report of some 125 cases observed in the Jewish Maternity and Lebanon Hospitals in New York City.

The physician also revealed for the first time the name of the disciple of Krönig and Gauss under whose direction the patients at the two hospitals have been treated. He is Dr. K. Schlossingk, and for two years he was a pupil and assistant at the Freiburg clinic.

This is the first time an authoritative statement has been made on the subject before a body of American physicians since the scopolamine treatment received its present impetus in this country, and, therefore, some of Dr. Rongy's statements are extremely interesting. He asserted that Dr. Schlossingk followed the technique of Krönig and Gauss without deviation. He also said that patients were not admitted to the Jewish Maternity Hospital until they were in active labor, so that the physicians had no means of judging accurately when it started. These extracts are from Dr. Rongy's paper:

"When this treatment was first instituted many difficulties were encountered. Being an experiment, with final results uncertain, we hesitated to inform our patients, and therefore lacked their co-operation. Dr. Schlossingk was not quite familiar with our type of women and consequently could not accurately gauge the dosage and intervals. For our solutions we had to depend upon a local chemist, who at best sent us preparations which quickly deteriorated. Our accommodations at that time were such that it was impossible to devote a special room to this work.

"Our experience with this form of treatment consists of a series of 125 consecutive cases in the obstetric services of the Jewish Maternity and Lebanon Hospitals. Our cases were subdivided into three groups, with the following results: (A) 104 cases, or 83.2 per cent., in which there was complete amnesia, (loss of memory,) with analgesia, (loss of sensibility to pain); (b) nine cases, or 7.2 per cent., in which there was analgesia without amnesia; (c) twelve cases, or 9.6 per cent., in which the treatment failed to produce the desired effects.

"The average time that the patients were under the influence of scopolamine was about six and one-half hours. The longest period that a patient was kept under was nineteen hours. The shortest period was one and one-half hours. The average number of inspections was five, the highest number was twelve, and the lowest one.

"In our series 102 babies, or 81.6 per cent., cried spontaneously. There were four cases, or 3.2 per cent. of asphyxiated children. The total infant mortality was three deaths, or 2.4 per cent. One was a premature infant with spina bifida. The second died from melena neonatorum, and the third from subdural (brain) hemorrhage.

"It has been found that in order to carry out this form of treatment successfully, the patient must be constantly kept under the influence of the drug.

Narkophen, a synthetic preparation of opium, was used in these cases instead of morphine.

These are among the conclusions reached by Dr. Rongy:

"Standard solutions are absolutely essential for the success of this treatment.

"No routine method of treatment should be adopted. Each patient should be individualized.

"Facilities should be such that the patient is not unduly disturbed.

"A nurse or physician must be in constant attendance.

"This form of treatment is carried out in hospitals, although there is no reason why it cannot be accomplished in all well-regulated private houses.

"It does not affect the first stage of labor, but the second stage is somewhat prolonged.

"Pain is markedly diminished in all cases, while amnesia (loss of memory) is present in the greatest number of patients.

"This treatment does not in any way interfere with any other therapeutic measures which may be deemed necessary for the termination of labor.

"To condemn or advocate a given therapeutic measure without a thorough personal investigation is truly unscientific and not in accordance with the tenets of progressive American medicine."

Three BROADCLOTH Specials That Stand Unequalled

A LEADING Department Store in this City extensively advertises its Broadcloths at $1.65 a yard. A most careful examination of these goods by several experts in fabrics demonstrates conclusively their vast inferiority to Macy's Broadcloths at $1.49 a yard, in qualities of weave, dye, lustre and durability.

Imported Broadcloths come from Germany, Austria and Belgium. When our buyer was in Europe this Summer he caused all our Broadcloth purchases to be shipped at once. Others have great difficulty in obtaining goods. This explains our low prices.

Every woman knows that Broadcloth is the most fashionable material for suits, coats and capes today, with black as favorite, closely followed by some of the many blue shades, with brown and green about equal in popularity, other colors following these four.

In some of the colors most in vogue we display as many as ten different shades. This means a range of scores of color gradations that will gratify the most exacting taste.

Our Black Broadcloths—the fabric most in demand for Fashion's swaggerest garments—are exquisite in lustre, of worsted so closely woven as to wear far longer than most Broadcloths, and rich in their full, deep black.

New Pictures of The Armies in Action

Eight pages of the most remarkable war pictures yet published will appear in next Sunday's New York Times, all reproduced by the special facilities which have placed The Times first among illustrated newspapers. There is a striking photograph of German artillery, taken thirty-five miles from Paris; another showing Lord Roberts inspecting volunteers for England's second army of 500,000; British and Belgian wounded; German prisoners, and scenes at Liege and elsewhere which will give readers their first real appreciation of the destruction wrought already by the war. Thirty-five photographs in all; every one taken within the last few days.

NEW DANGER IN MEXICO.

President WILSON had expected to remove our troops from Vera Cruz by Oct. 1, but Gen. FUNSTON, who is on the scene and knows the plight of a large number of Mexican refugees who must leave before we hand the port over to the temporary Government at the capital, suggests that Oct. 10 would be a more suitable date. We have looked forward hopefully to the removal of our admonitory guard at the chief Mexican seaport, and the spirit of friendliness which prompted President WILSON to issue his order for its withdrawal on the anniversary of the independence of our sister republic will be generally recognized. But the President did not know on that day of the so-called seizure of the National Railways system by the Constitutionalists, under CARRANZA's orders, an act that savors of repudiation of a huge debt held in Europe, and one which in that case cannot be countenanced by the United States Government. In the circumstances, while the order of President WILSON will stand, of course, we hope there will be no undue haste in removing from Mexican soil the influence of our armed forces. Their presence costs Mexico nothing, we are administering the affairs of the Custom House with economy and holding the receipts for Mexican use. Gen. FUNSTON's advice should be heeded.

The speech of Mr. CUEVAS Y GARCIA at Mexico's celebration, Sept. 15, while its expression of the national appreciation of American good-will was very gratifying to Americans, contained needlessly slighting references to European influences in Mexico. Since the downfall of MADERO the United States has stood between the Mexicans and their European creditors, who have been looking to us to see that their interests are protected. Unless the seizure of the National Railways and the repudiation by CARRANZA of the bonds issued by HUERTA to guarantee the promissory notes with which the January and April interests of those properties were paid can be more reasonably explained than they have been, the doubts often expressed in Europe of the willingness of the Mexican revolutionists, now in control of the Government by our aid, to recognize the outstanding obligations of the country will be justified.

We remember that in one of his manifestos CARRANZA expressly stated his intention to pay all the just debts of the republic. While we have no doubt that President WILSON's sources of information as to the present intentions of CARRANZA are better than any to which the public has access, repudiation of bonds issued to guarantee the payment of just debts seems a childish, if not an intentionally dishonest proceeding. Provision should be made quickly by CARRANZA to take care of the October coupons of the railways' bonds. If that is done and some new financial arrangement devised by which the repudiated bonds can be superseded by others, the difficulties of the situation will be cleared away. The danger lies in the large holdings of the National Railways' securities in Europe. It will be bad for Mexico and for us if Europeans lose not only their faith in Mexican promises, but in our ability to protect their interests, and, after their present troubles are over, take the course followed by France, Spain, and England when JUAREZ stopped paying interest on foreign debts. It seems necessary for Washington to make CARRANZA understand that he cannot, with our consent, take any measures which will anger Europe and thus lead to dangerous complications. His seeming disposition to do so, which we freely admit is susceptible of explanation not yet forthcoming, has served to complicate the Mexican situation just when the prospect of Mexico's future seemed brightest.

SCHOOLS FOR YOUNG WORKERS.

To guide the pupils of this city into fit vocations, giving them special preparation for their work, is a problem that must be attacked by the school authorities, employers, and the trade unions acting together and harmoniously. The city has already invested large sums in its vocational training schools; the Board of Education has applied, in its budget estimate for 1915, for $5,250,000 more.

Mayor MITCHEL and President CHURCHILL recently visited the vocational schools of the West to learn their methods of employing pupils. Mr. CHURCHILL calls attention specially to reports submitted by WILLIAM WIRT, Superintendent of Schools at Gary, Ind., and HERMAN SCHNEIDER of the University of Cincinnati, as indicating the best plans to follow. They relate to continuation school work and schemes for the economic use of school buildings. But industrial organization, which has largely discarded the apprenticeship system, must submit to new changes if it is to be supplied with skilled workers. Just now the masses of school children join the ranks of unskilled labor, whereas the masses of children in Germany are trained early to be efficient workmen and workwomen. A so-called higher education is denied them. But it is contrary to every interest of employers or of labor that they should go out to earn their bread clumsily and inefficiently.

AS TO TAXING EXPORTS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of war taxes, why would it not be a good idea to tax exports? Such a tax would naturally fall on foreign nations which are largely responsible for the necessity of a tax. It would increase the cost abroad, possibly, to the domestic price. We hear that some articles are sold cheaper in Europe than at home. It also might prevent a shortage in this country and thus help to reduce the "high cost of living" somewhat. It is scarcity as a rule that runs prices upward, and this shortage quite often is occasioned by exports. A small export tax on grain, meats, cotton, &c., would secure a large revenue for the Government. Why not?

H. E. S. W.

Hoboken, N. J., Sept. 16, 1914.

The conclusive reason why a tax on exports would not be feasible is contained in the Federal Constitution, which says in the fifth clause of Section 9 of the first article:

> No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State.

This is the only positive prohibition by the States of the power of Congress to tax. The makers of the Constitution, especially those from the Southern States, opposed the export tax because their staples might be taxed and the different staples of the Northern States exempted. Moreover, ELBRIDGE GERRY objected that it would "enable "the General Government to oppress "the States, as much as Ireland is oppressed by Great Britain." JAMES MADISON, on the other hand, felt that a "proper regulation of exports may "and probably will be necessary hereafter, and for the same purposes as "the regulation of imports; viz., for "revenue." But we should have to amend the Constitution first.

THE MENACE OF TURKEY.

It is an interesting fact that the United States Government has found an occasion to act, not indeed in unison, but in entire harmony, with the three Powers of the Triple Entente, and with Italy and Greece, whose sympathies are with those Powers. It is true that the matter which calls for this action has nothing immediately to do with the actual contest. The Government of Turkey has thought that this would be a favorable opportunity to escape from the restrictions placed upon her as the result of the many wars in which she has been involved since the middle of the last century, to assert her right to full jurisdiction over foreigners, to abolish the principle of extraterritorial privileges for foreigners, and especially to resume control over the amount and the use of her revenues. All these have been provided for in a series of diplomatic agreements and contracts, under the general name of "The Capitulations."

There is no doubt that the terms of the capitulations reduce the independence of the Turkish Government and impair its sovereignty. And it is not to be denied that they have been imposed by the use or the threat of force. This has been in part due to the greed and jealousy of the European Powers, but also in great part to the fact that the Turkish Government could not be relied on to do justice to alien residents. It is natural for the present Government to chafe under the assumption that this latter reason still exists, but in truth it is by no means proved not to exist. In any case, the capitulations can be set aside only if the parties to them other than Turkey assent, or if Turkey is able to disregard the refusal of these parties to assent. Great Britain, Russia, France, Italy, Greece, and now the United States have made to the Government of Turkey a practically identical protest in which they refuse wholly to recognize the right of Turkey to rescind the capitulations and reserve their right to determine their future course.

It has always been the policy of Turkey, under the new as well as under the former Government, to profit as far as might be by dissensions between the European Powers, and certainly those dissensions are now sufficiently acute to justify the belief that Turkey will not be called to effective account whatever she may do. The action of Turkey is by so much more portentous. It indicates the hope, possibly the assurance, that Turkey will be supported by Germany and Austria, and that this support may be repaid by the entrance of Turkey upon the war. It is interesting to note that Italy and Greece, as well as the United States, have joined in the protest of the Entente Powers. The United States, of course, acts wholly of its own motion and with no reference to the situation of the other Governments. But Italy and Greece, like Turkey, though outside of the circle of belligerents, are intimately concerned with the outcome of the war. If Turkey enters the field, they will practically be forced also to take part. It is this phase of the matter that gives it essential importance. There is no need and, indeed, no probability, that our own Government will be entangled, but if the Turks should violate some of the rights that are secured to our nationals by the capitulations that she now undertakes to annul, some embarrassing complications might arise.

THE PRESIDENT'S ANSWER.

Pins, it is said, have saved countless thousands of lives by not being swallowed. By a similar process of inverted reasoning we may affirm that our reputation for justice, impartiality, and wisdom has been conserved by the innumerable blunders which the President did not commit in his reply to the German and Belgian representations concerning atrocities. Pitfalls yawned on every side. There was the obvious temptation to address to the German Emperor a homily on the advantages of peace; time might have been gained by asking for a detailed presentation of the evidence; Mr. WILSON might have given offense to both sides by inquiring how he could be expected to make up his mind when the testimony was so conflicting.

He did nothing of the sort. To the German Emperor and to the Belgian Committee the President gave an answer that is faultless in its language and in its substance. It would be unwise, it would be premature, he says, for any one Government "to form or express a final judgment," and "it "would even be inconsistent with the "neutral position of any nation which "like this has no part in the contest." Very appropriately he reminds the Emperor that "the nations of the "world have fortunately by agree"ment made a plan for such a reck"oning and settlement." The Hague Tribunal can hear and determine causes of this nature, and the opinion of mankind, "the final arbiter in all such matters," will supply whatever is lacking in any decision that may be rendered at The Hague. Such a reply to the protests made cannot fail, as the President says, to commend itself to the complainants "as a true expression of sincere neutrality."

When war is over a day of accounting shall come, and the President takes it for granted that then "the "nations of Europe will assemble to "determine a settlement." That is an assurance to the American people and a reminder to the Powers now at war that the tradition and the practice which we have observed since the founding of this Republic still control our actions. With the political concerns of the European nations, with their agreements and their disagreements we do not concern ourselves. We are deeply pained when they make war, we rejoice when they make peace. The terms of peace are their own affair, not ours. It is a source of great comfort and satisfaction to feel that in such a time as this we have a President who knows so well how to do and say the right thing.

A PUBLICIST IN ERROR.

Knowing that many Americans have fallen short of a complete mastery of the difficult German idiom, Mr. HERMAN RIDDER of The Staats-Zeitung, as our readers are aware, is attempting to stem the tide of what he calls our unfairness toward Germany by presenting his own views in English each morning in the columns of his paper. Mr. RIDDER yesterday gave his attention to some comments made by THE TIMES upon Dr. DERNBURG's argument in behalf of Germany, particularly that part of THE TIMES's article in which we pointed out the difference between our Constitution, which vests the power to declare war in Congress alone, and the German Constitution, where the Emperor before declaring war must have the assent of the Bundesrath, which represents the German States, while our Congress represents the people themselves. Mr. RIDDER tries to make a point of our landing troops at Vera Cruz. Although that was an act of war it was not war, there was no need of a declaration of war. Incidents of that nature, involving no war or declaration thereof, are common enough in international relations. Of our manner of going to war with Spain Mr. RIDDER has this to say:

> If we go back to 1898 we find a still more cogent refutation of THE TIMES position. On April 25 of that year Congress passed a joint resolution "That war be, and the same is hereby declared to exist, and that war has existed since the twenty-first day of April, Anno Domini eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, including said day, between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Spain." In other words, four days after a state of war had existed with Spain, and then only at a suggestion from President McKINLEY contained in his special message of April 25, Congress came through with that formal declaration of war on which THE TIMES places so much importance. Was it, in this instance, Congress or the President who first made war on Spain?

We take pleasure in correcting some of the serious mistakes and mistaken inferences of this statement. The inference is, of course, that President MCKINLEY went to war without waiting for the sanction of Congress. It was on the 11th of April, 1898, that President MCKINLEY in his message to Congress laid before that body a candid statement of the disturbances in Cuba and of the interest of this nation in seeing to it that they were ended. "I await your action," said the President in concluding his message. On April 13 the House of Representatives "by "an overwhelming vote in the af"firmative" adopted a resolution authorizing and directing the President to intervene at once to stop the war in Cuba and empowering him to use the land and naval forces of the United States for that purpose. In the Senate there were some days of debate on this resolution. Many Senators desired recognition of Cuba as well as intervention. But in the early morning of April 19 the resolution authorizing the use of the land and naval forces against Spain in Cuba was adopted. Before going to war the President dispatched an ultimatum to Spain. On April 21 Spain refused to receive the ultimatum and sent to Minister WOODFORD his passports. Spain and the United States were then at war, a fact which was formally recognized by Congress on April 26 in the enactment which said "that war be and the same is "hereby declared to exist, and that "war has existed since the 21st day "of April." War did not exist because the President had made war. It was universally recognized that Mr. MCKINLEY had done his utmost to avert war. It existed because Congress had authorized him to end the long-continued disturbances in Cuba and because Spain on the date named, April 21, had given Mr. WOODFORD his passports.

But the real point of the matter is whether the checks which restrain the German Emperor from going to war are as potent and effectual as those which our Constitution imposes upon the President. It seems to us there is no room for argument about it. We take the liberty of pointing out to our publicist friend that the Mexican War begun in POLK's Administration would have been a much better illustrative citation for his purpose. In his life of CLAY the late CARL SCHURZ said that in the beginning it was "POLK's War," but Congress speedily made it "the people's war." That has been a disputed point for more than half a century and POLK was unsparingly condemned for his provocative military operations, so that at best it is an exception which proves the rule. But no war with Mexico existed until Congress declared it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Belgium's Need and Claim. To what extent, or if at all, the civilian population of Belgium provoked and justified the losses of life, property, and opportunities to earn a living that have come upon them, is a question on which opinions can and do honestly differ. There can, however, be no denial that the heroic defense of Belgium's neutrality by her army has been followed by appalling disasters to one of the most peaceful, thrifty, self-reliant, and industrious peoples of Europe, and that thousands and thousands of them, through no fault of their own, have been reduced to an utter poverty from which for months to come they will be unable to extricate themselves. For many of the bread-winners have been killed and those who survive are without employment or present hope of it.

In recognition of these circumstances there has been organized here a Belgian Relief Committee to raise money for use in alleviating the miseries of noncombatants only. ROBERT W. DE FOREST is the head of its Executive Committee, and the firm of J. P. MORGAN & Co. will receive and forward to trustworthy distributers all contributions that may be made. Thus is afforded the only practical means now available for getting aid to these, perhaps the most pitiable, victims of the great calamity that has overwhelmed Europe, and of getting it to them promptly, effectively, and without shrinkage.

The ruin of Belgium is more nearly complete than is as yet—than is likely to be—that of any of the great nations now at war, for none of them is without many cities and vast expanses of territory which the war has not and will not directly affect. Belgium, on the contrary, is almost wholly dependent on help from the outside, and it is to the United States that the appeal in behalf of her widows and orphans, her ruined peasants, and her idle artisans is made with best hopes of immediate and generous response.

Gifts amounting to about $1,000 a day are already reaching the committee, but this is pathetically little, considering the needs to be met. No disputant as to where lies responsibility for the war puts any of it on Belgium, and even those who question her discretion in defending her neutrality admit that it was both her right and her duty to resist invasion, and that she did it with a courage as magnificent as it was costly.

A Document Under the Microscope. As President WILSON was a professional teacher and a professional writer before he attained his present position as the nation's Chief Executive, it is only natural that the public documents produced by him should be scanned with a minuteness which would be unfair in the case of other Presidents. We expect from him a close approach to perfection of wording and construction, and feel justified in expressing more or less of amused surprise when he makes, as he sometimes has, little slips that would pass unnoticed if a man without his special qualifications were guilty of them.

But Mr. WILSON's slips have been few. He never fails to be lucid, which is, after all, the highest and most important of literary qualities, and on occasion he shows a subtle skill in forcing his hearers or readers to make deductions or draw conclusions that he does not care to put explicitly in words. This art is brilliantly illustrated in the "identical" answer which he has made to the Belgian Commissioners and the German Kaiser in regard to the violations of the laws of war which they have laid before him. The situation they created for him was difficult, if not embarrassing. An opinion was demanded when it was not expedient to give one and when an outright refusal would be discourteous. Still, the concluding paragraph of what was both an address and a letter began with "I speak this frankly," and that was the impression it created, and yet, on consideration, one sees that the President said nothing frankly except that he could not be frank. Certainly neither of the appellants got what he wanted—a condemnation of the other. Instead, both were gently sent to another court.

Some of us would like to know the exact difference Mr. WILSON sees between "presently" and "very soon." The former ought to mean "at once," and formerly did, but now the word's task is apparently to signify a more remote future than "very soon," and still one that is not really distant. The distinction is delicate, and the reason for making it is not quite obvious.

Rebellion Would Be Right. It is about time—yes, full time—for somebody bold and fierce, with fire in his eye and a torch and a club in his hand, to lead a band of followers similarly equipped against the tyrant purists and grammarians who, without the shadow of right or justice, have banished the word "onto" from good linguistic society.

There isn't a more virtuous or respectable word in the English language. Its twin brother "into" has free access to the best circles, and yet is not one bit better in either origin or construction than "onto," and earns countenance and acceptance by rendering no higher or better service than "onto" would gladly give if the cruel sentence of exile were revoked.

The enemies of "onto" say the word is "colloquial"—as if that were a fault!—and that it is "vulgar"—as if that did not remind us of another linguistic atrocity which the same villains have committed! For "vulgarity" would be a merit if another good word hadn't been maltreated.

And those who rob us of "onto" give us absolutely nothing in its place. Forbidding us to say or write "he jumped onto the box," the purists leave us silent and helpless when we want to say, as we often and innocently do, the thing which is very different from any of the several meanings expressed by "he jumped on the box." Yet we are permitted to say both "he jumped in the box" and "he jumped into the box." Why? Or, rather, why can't we say, "he jumped onto the box"?

There is no sense in depriving us timid and docile people of a word that our better advised and braver neighbors use whenever they have a need for it.

Desirable, but Not Just Now. There are many excuses, and several good reasons, why hens should not be kept in a city. Hence it is not our purpose to scold the Commissioner of Health for purposing their banishment from urban territory. It would be a good job in more than one important respect.

But—well, is it really necessary to enforce the decree in all its rigors this Fall? These are times when a good many of us take an anxious interest in the cost of living, and while the city hen does not cut that cost down to an extent easily measurable, she does something in that direction, and, having endured her presence in the outlying districts so long, we could probably manage to do it a little longer without falling thereby into ills that would make us very bitterly envious of war-swept Europe.

Except for the city-kept hen, not a few New Yorkers would never know the taste of eggs—would only know that of the cold storage warehouse, which is different and a poor substitute. So, though we refrain from saying "Don't!" to Dr. GOLDWATER, we do whisper "Wait!" Winter is coming on, and there are those who predict that it will be a hard one.

THE N. Y. CLEARING HOUSE.

Heirs of James C. Hallock Seek Proper Reward for His Services.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A hard case of injustice to the dead has grown out of a great advance in American civilization, namely: out of the establishment, in 1853, by fifty-two New York banks, of the first Clearing House on this Continent, about eighty years after the private bankers of London had organized their Clearing House, which antedated the Revolutionary War.

At the opening of the New York Clearing House its assistant manager was a business man without banking experience, James C. Hallock, Sr. In 1854 the clerks of the various city banks declared him to be "the originator of the Clearing House," "the originator of this new feature in our banking department," and made an enduring record of the historical fact which they attested on the spot.

Several years later the Chairman of the Committee on Organization said, indicating Hallock, "That is the gentleman who originated the plan, and did more in getting up the Bank Clearing House in this city than any one else." For these services the committee agreed to employ him indefinitely as assistant manager at a salary of $1,000 per annum. The agreement was verbal and soon forgotten. Four days after the Clearing House commenced operations, on Oct. 11, 1853, they reduced his salary to $600. On the 1st of September, 1854, his services were dispensed with, "in consequence of the heavy expenses attending the business of the association, and the necessity of a curtailment of those expenses," the committee wrote him.

The next fifteen years he received nothing. But in 1869 a bank cashier, realizing the injustice done, got forty banks, members of the Clearing House, to subscribe $100 each, and four $50 each, for Hallock's benefit, "as a consideration for his assistance in establishing the Clearing House, which has resulted greatly to the convenience of the banks of this city." Of the amount subscribed, $200 was turned over to him and $4,000 placed with trustees who paid him the interest earned till his death in 1885, when the principal went to his heirs.

There, at his grave, would have ended the sorry story but for the immediate publication of a "History of the New York Clearing House," prepared by one of its employes, in which the originality of Hallock's plan was questioned. From that moment continuous efforts were made to secure some degree of justice to his memory. As a last resort, in 1890, the executrix of his estate sued the New York Clearing House Association for a balance of $28,000 on account of his assistance in establishing the Clearing House. The association pleaded the Statute of Limitations, as it had a perfect right to do, the services having been rendered thirty-seven years previously.

The following year the fairest of bank Presidents, Edward H. Perkins, Jr., became Chairman of the Clearing House Committee. In 1892 this just officer, upon viewing original documents in my possession, agreed that, "if anything was due, it should be paid." He soon appointed a special committee to examine the claim. Shortly afterward the President of the association appointed another special committee, which practically superseded its predecessor. This second committee reported that Hallock had rendered services to the Committee on Organization, but it omitted to state whether those services had ever been paid for. The result was that both the special committee and the association which adopted its report made no decision as to what amount, if any, was due. For five years more, until the end of 1897, the estate repeatedly asked the Clearing House to make a settlement, but without success.

The case seems one for arbitration between the Hallock estate and the Clearing House. The New York Chamber of Commerce has a Committee on Commercial Arbitration, to which this debt of the Clearing House may properly be submitted for adjustment, and the Hallock estate would gladly refer its claim to that committee.

THE KAISER'S POWERS.

Dr. Dernburg Replies to Criticisms of Their Comprehensiveness.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Fosdick, in his scholarly letter in your paper on Sept. 15, has excepted to some statements in my last Sunday's article. May I be permitted to reply briefly to his courteous criticisms?

Of course it is quite true that the Kaiser's Government may so conduct German affairs that war may become inevitable, but the same is true of the President of the United States, as you say yourself in your leader of Sunday last. But it is not true that the Federal Council is a creature of the Kaiser. In the Federal Council, for instance, Bavaria has six votes, but the votes are cast only by the first delegate, according to instructions he receives from his home Ministry at Munich. The German particularism, well known also on this side, will certainly forbid that the Bavarian votes should be cast in any other way than dictated by Bavaria.

It is, furthermore, not correct to say that the German Emperor controls twenty rather than seventeen votes. The fact is that the one, Waldeck, is generally cast by a Prussian official, but the two others of Alsace-Lorraine are counted only if they are cast against Prussia and never added to the Prussian vote. In the United States, as fas as I remember, the Constitution cannot be changed except with the consent of three-fourths of the States, and Mr. Fosdick must not wonder that a similar provision obtains in Germany.

Then again, about Article 64 of the Constitution. This article is not correctly translated. Every German State contributes its contingent part to the German Army. This part is called the contingent. The supreme in command of any one contingent, and all officers commanding more than one contingent, are appointed by the Kaiser. He generally takes them from the officers of that particular German nationality. One German army is now being commanded by the Crown Prince of Bavaria, another by the Grand Duke of Württemberg, and the third one by Gen. von Hausen, who is a Minister of the King of Saxony.

Generals and officers of the rank of Generals within a contingent can only be appointed with the consent of the Kaiser. They are actually appointed by the Prince in whose contingent they serve, and the Generals of the Bavarian Army invariably are Bavarians and in the Saxon Army Saxons. This state of things has been brought about by the special conventions concluded between Bavaria, Saxony, and Württemberg on the one and the North German Federation on the other hand, as, for instance, the special convention with Bavaria of Nov. 23, 1870, which says: "The Bavarian Army forms a self-contained part of the German Federal Army with independent management, under the military sovereignty of his Majesty the King of Bavaria, but in case of war and this commencing with the mobilization under the orders of the Chief Commander—namely, the Kaiser. My statement is therefore substantially correct in this matter. The observation of Mr. Fosdick is based mostly on some misunderstanding.

Article 63 of the German Constitution is subordinate to the right of the Reichstag to pass a budget, and the Emperor cannot have or employ more soldiers or expend one cent more than the Reichstag's vote gives him for military purposes. Mr. Fosdick says himself that this conflict of powers has led at various times to the dissolution of the Reichstag. As a matter of fact the Reichstag every year changes and amends the vote for war expenditures. The deliberation of the war budgets takes as many as twenty days of the Committee of Ways and Means in each session.

It is not fair to say that in Germany the system of rotten boroughs obtains. It is true that since 1871 no redistricting of Germany has taken place, and in consequence the larger cities, which have grown more, have a smaller proportion of representatives than certain rural districts that have remained stationary or increased in a smaller proportion. But that is not decisive. Would Mr. Fosdick call the American Constitution non-democratic because ever since its framing New York, with now 9,000,000 inhabitants, has only two representatives to the United States Senate, while Delaware, with 200,000 inhabitants, has the same number? Is the Constitution of the United States non-democratic because up to 1904 the electoral vote of New York had been only 34 votes, and has only recently been increased to 45?

The fact is, in Germany we have a liberal majority with 111 Social Democrats, which is nearly, although not quite, in proportion to the entire Social Democratic vote cast. The Reichstag is absolutely free to pass legislation, subject to the concurrence of the Federal Council, and the Emperor has no veto, while in this country, as far as I understand, the House and the Senate must concur, and the President may veto any matter. The Kaiser may dissolve the Reichstag, but within sixty days a new election must take place, and the Reichstag cannot be adjourned for more than thirty days without its consent.

It is, of course, impossible in an article destined for a great number of Sunday readers, to go into the technical details of so complicated a matter as a constitution. It would have been equally impossible to explain to the German people all the intricacies of the American Constitution with its numerous amendments, but since Mr. Fosdick has taken up the matter, and it seems to interest the American public, I must equally reply to him, thanking him at the same time for the courteous tone in which he has spoken.

Mona Lisa's Smile.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is said that none of New York's museum treasures is in danger of being stolen, because each object is so wired and electrically connected that a wanton touch would be transmitted to an indicator and the alarm given. This arrangement might be employed in the Louvre at Paris to prevent the further removal of Mona Lisa, provided no invader elopes with her during the war. Still, no one would like to make the suggestion, for it would certainly seem like lese majeste to wire that world-famous elusive smile, and, besides, the smile, like the Cheshire cat's, might remain and the picture vanish.

How Congress May Save Money.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In all the discussions, pro and con, re the contemplated war tax, it seems strange that no voice has been raised as to a means of saving money as well as raising money. If Congress would adjourn an immense saving to the country would accrue—its sessions thus far causing the loss of many millions directly in actual cost and hundreds of millions by its asinine attacks on business. Then if that parasitic body known as "commissions" were disbanded and its members forced to take their hands out of the public chest, the country would have ample funds for conducting its legitimate functions.

THE FREE MARKETS

Promise Important Benefits to Fruit Growers and Consumers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Noting that there is already beginning an attempt to discredit the new free market idea, I think it pertinent to say that yearly in this vicinity, which is the Highland-Milton-Marlborough fruit district, some of the various fruits grown are left on the vines or bushes for lack of a market that will pay picking, cost of package, and transportation.

This year it was currants; a great many thousand quarts were left to decay because the price of 3 cents per quart would mean a loss to the grower. I took pains to inquire the retail price in New York and found 15 cents was asked.

It seems probable that this free market will stop an injustice to both the hard-working grower who runs risk enough with late frosts and lack of rain, without being confronted with dearth of markets, and also the poorer classes in the cities, who really need cheap fruit.

Practically all the fruits are subject to the same condition at times here, and if the free markets are properly developed it should be possible to prevent just this injustice, which seems quite inexcusable with the fruit grower and his produce on one side and the city poor on the other kept apart by the dealers who will keep prices up.

G. VAN B. ROBERTS.

Ulsterdorp Farms, Highland, N. Y.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice a news item in THE TIMES that there are some men on the Mayor's special committee regarding markets who said they were not an advantage and wished them abolished. I have only two in my family, and I find from visiting Fort Lee Market, paying carfare both ways, that I can save over one-half of what it costs in Harlem at local dealers'; therefore, with two in a family, you can judge what the saving is to a large family.

W. G. L.

New York, Sept. 16, 1914

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been reading with much interest the various articles appearing in your paper in regard to the public markets which have been established in different parts of the city. It seems to me that at least one section has been overlooked in this respect, and that is the lower west side, from, say, Twenty-third Street to Sixty-sixth Street. The people who inhabit this part of the city are mostly all of the poor and middle classes. There are many tenements there in which live some very poor people, and the retail dealers who have stores in this vicinity charge prices probably as high as any found elsewhere in the city.

What is the matter with the representatives of the west side who are down in the City Hall, put there by the people to look after their interests? Cannot they do something to help out and see that we get a market? There are plenty of good locations for such a market. There is a ferry at Forty-second Street, over which the Jersey farmers could bring their produce, and I am sure a suitable location could be found for them to sell their goods.

Potash in Fertilizers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Recently THE TIMES published a statement made by the American Agricultural Chemical Company to the effect that the importance of German potash to American agriculture has been very much exaggerated, and now that the supply is cut off on account of the European war, American fertilizer manufacturers can simply increase the percentage of phosphoric acid to make up for the deficit of potash with just as good results for the farmers.

This is certainly very amusing to any person who knows even the A B C's of profitable agriculture. The writer himself has seen many actual field tests made with various fertilizers. In nearly every case results of such tests have proved indubitably that crops cannot thrive unless there is an ample supply of potash present for them to feed on.

The intimation that an increase in phosphoric acid will make up for a deficit in potash is particularly interesting. The two elements are entirely unrelated to each other, and their natural duties in promoting plant growth are about as different to each other as day is to night. Neither can be substituted for the other—they must work together. However, in view of the fact that many of the fertilizer trusts in this country are financially interested in phosphate fields in the South, it is quite natural that they should promote the sale of phosphoric acid, whether it does the farmer any good or not.

Irrelevant Cross-Examination.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From your recent editorial columns I quote the following:

> But, whatever else should be reformed, this allying of the courts with the blackmailers should be ended. It can be ended very easily by a limitation of what is permissible in cross-examination.

No, gentlemen, you are in error. The evil is a serious one, but the remedy you propose worse, for you would in effect place arbitrary limitations upon cross-examination—the most practical forensic method of arriving at the truth. The remedy lies with you, gentlemen of the press. If you were properly to edit your reports of legal proceedings and not feature the salacious, the sensational, the humiliating, you would attack the trouble at the source and do much to discourage the kind of barrister to whom your gratuitous advertising has given fame of a kind among an indiscriminating public. Decent professional and public opinion would soon do the rest.

"First" Through the Canal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We rely on THE TIMES always, but here is a matter of record for future use which bothers us. On Aug. 28 THE TIMES has an editorial, "First Through the Canal," and states it was the arrival on Wednesday, Aug. 26, of the first ship via canal from San Francisco, the Pleiades. On Sept. 8 The Evening Mail gives in large letters "New York Honors Receipt of First Coast Cargo via Canal," and tells of reception by city officers and other prominent men of Capt. George Knight of the Nebraskan with first cargo routed through the canal.

Will you let us know which was the first ship to come through and the date?

A thread of gossamer! A lovely line
Set by a master in a brave design;
A hand that toiled while spun the world through space;
Peace, patience, labor—then the Belgian lace!

A brush, a palette, and the colors ground,
True to the life that spread those colors 'round;
Touch upon touch, each of the next a part;
Peace, patience, labor—then the Belgian art.

A noble model in a builder's mind,
Month after month, year after year refined,
Stone upon stone, laid up with pious care,
And then Malines Cathedral in the air!

Ah, gracious God! What demon is so fleet
To lay these wonders ruins at our feet?

PURCHASES KEPT ABROAD

Curator Valentiner with the German Army—Altman and Riggs Collections on View in November.

The Altman collection and the Riggs collection of armor will have their installment completed and opened to the public about the middle of November, Director Edward Robinson of the Metropolitan Art Museum announced yesterday, but owing to uncertain financial conditions, due to the war, the Trustees of the museum have called for retrenchments, and there will be little new work done in the museum this Winter as far as is now known.

"It would not be the wish of the Trustees to defer in any way the exhibition of the generous gifts of Mr. Altman and Mr. Riggs," said the Director yesterday, "and the installment of those collections is already near completion. The museum will be affected as other institutions will be by conditions brought about by the war, and the Trustees have expressed a wish that our expenditures should be restricted as much as possible.

"Purchases which we have already made in Europe are detained there by the difficulties of transportation, and other purchases will be limited for the time being. We shall undertake no new installments, but will husband our funds, which will be used as far as possible for other purposes.

"We will all feel, however, that our most serious loss for the present is in the Curator of Decorative Arts, Dr. Wilhelm R. Valentiner. Dr. Valentiner was in Munich when war was declared, and his sympathies were naturally with the Fatherland. He might have been drawn into the war later with the Landsturm, but he was anxious to go to the front immediately. He endeavored four times to enlist, but was refused, not coming up to requirements, but was finally enabled, through influence, to succeed, and joined the First Bavarian Regiment of Artillery. He was then to go into barracks for several weeks' training.

"The last that I heard from him was a letter written the first of August, and he said that, going into barracks, he would probably not have an opportunity of writing again."

Director Robinson himself arrived from Europe last Saturday, coming from Germany by way of Holland and London.

A delightful collection of Chinese and Japanese paintings was opened yesterday in the special exhibition room of the museum. This was the property of the late Charles Stewart Smith, and was presented to the museum last June as a memorial by the wife and sons of Mr. Smith. It is an unusually fine collection, brought together by a prominent collector in Japan. The work of Hokusai is specially strong in the collection. It is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain pieces of this quality, says Howard Mansfield, Treasurer of the museum, who is its expert in this line of art. Mr. Mansfield has written a descriptive article for The Museum Bulletin for September, which will appear within a few days.

HE NEVER TALKED OF 1916.

Roosevelt, Starting West, Denies a Newspaper Story.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt left at 6 o'clock last night over the Pennsylvania Railroad on his tour of two weeks in the Middle West. A story in a New York morning newspaper, in which it was said that he had told associates that he would not be a candidate for President in 1916 on any ticket, however, brought forth a prompt denial. It was said in this story that the Colonel was getting "cold feet" because of the attitude of the organization Republicans and the growing popularity of the Democratic Administration.

"I have not talked about 1916 with a single human being," asserted the Colonel vehemently. "There is not the slightest foundation for such a story, and it is an absolute fake. The man who wrote it and the paper which published it knows it also. My position in regard to 1916 has not been mentioned by me to any one. The story was made up out of whole cloth."

The Colonel looked very fit yesterday and he said he was going to make a rousing campaign. He will speak in Wichita, Kan., on Saturday. He was accompanied on his trip by O. K. Davis, Secretary of the National Committee. Bourke Cockran was the only one who went to the Pennsylvania Station to bid him farewell.

The Colonel is confident that Frederick M. Davenport will obtain the Progressive nomination for Governor, and that Sulzer will be badly beaten at the primaries. He will campaign in this State from one end to the other if Davenport wins at the primaries. What he will do if Sulzer wins out is a question yet to be answered satisfactorily.

When told that the Progressives had indorsed Vance McCormick, the Democratic nominee for Governor in Pennsylvania, he said:

"Of course, I will campaign for McCormick. You couldn't keep me away from Pennsylvania, and I will do everything in my power to elect him. I feel that the great issue in Pennsylvania is Penroseism, and I am with the Progressives heart and soul in any step they may have taken to defeat Penrose and bring his power to an end."

D. J. HILL FOR SENATOR.

Boom Launched at Rochester—College Men to Work for Him.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 17.—A vigorous State-wide canvass to bring about the nomination for United States Senator in the coming primaries of Dr. David Jayne Hill was launched today, when a committee, headed by ex-Mayor James G. Cutler, was formed. It is understood that the thousand or more alumni of the University of Rochester graduated when Dr. Hill was President will be found working hard in his behalf—much in the same way as William F. McCombs organized the Princeton men for Woodrow Wilson. Contrary to his custom, George W. Aldridge, Republican leader of Monroe County, gave out today an authorized interview in which he made it plain that the Republican organization was solidly in support of Dr. Hill.

"Dr. Hill," said Mr. Aldridge, "will have the enthusiastic support of the Republicans of Monroe County and of all patriotic citizens, regardless of party affiliations.

"If the friends of good government in other parts of the State will rally to his support, I am sure there will be little doubt of his nomination and election."

PRAISES WILSON'S POLICIES.

Connecticut Convention Opens with Indorsement of Administration.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 17.—Praising President Wilson's Administration and demanding that the November election in Connecticut be an unqualified Democratic victory that the President's hands may be upheld, State Senator L. O. Peck, as Temporary Chairman, tonight opened the Democratic State Convention. After Senator Peck's address, the convention was adjourned until tomorrow morning, when a State ticket will be nominated and a platform adopted. The keen rivalry between Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin and Congressman Bryan F. Mahan for the nomination for United States Senator overshadows all other issues. Tonight the friends of both candidates claimed the nomination.

Senator Peck praised the National Administration's Mexican policy.

MISS SARAH WEIR BRIDE AT SEA CLIFF

Granddaughter of Mrs. J. T. Pirie of Chicago Marries Nelson L. North, Jr., of Brooklyn.

CEREMONY AT CRAIG VERRA

Sister of Bride Maid of Honor and Her Brother Best Man—Bridesmaids and Ushers.

Craig Verra, the country home at Sea Cliff, L. I., of Mrs. John T. Pirie, widow of the Chicago drygoods merchant, was the scene yesterday afternoon of the marriage of Mrs. Pirie's granddaughter, Miss Sarah Evelyn Weir, daughter of Mrs. J. D. Weir of 166 Prospect Place, Brooklyn. Miss Weir became the bride of Nelson Luther North, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Nelson L. North of 150 Hancock Street, Brooklyn. The bride chose Craig Verra for the ceremony because there her mother was married a quarter of a century ago, and ever since she was a child the bride had spent her Summers on her grandmother's estate.

The Rev. C. Ingerson Schofield of Manhattan officiated at the wedding, which was solemnized in the drawing room in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The broad porches as well as the interior of the house were decorated with ferns of wide variety of shadings, relieved here and there by blooming flowers. Lilies, roses, and white asters predominated among the blooms.

Miss Jessie Weir, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Jane North, a cousin of the bridegroom; Miss Anita Ruckgaber, Miss Ruth Geery, and Miss Mary Weisel. The last named, a resident of Birmingham, Ala., was a classmate of the bride at Wellesley College.

Norman D. Weir, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and the ushers were Wainwright Sample and Samuel A. Coykendall, Jr., of Brooklyn; S. Pirie Carson of Chicago, and Archibald Youngs of Yonkers.

Miss Miriam North, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Isabel Pirie, a cousin of the bride, acted as ribbon girls.

Samuel C. Pirie, her uncle, gave Miss Weir in marriage. The bride was attired in white charmeuse, trimmed with beautiful old point lace worn by her mother at her wedding, a court train, and a tulle veil and point lace cap, which also had been worn by her mother. Orange blossoms lent a charming effect to the cap. A diamond lavallière, the bridegroom's gift, was the bride's only ornament.

After the bridal supper and reception the couple left on a wedding journey.

SIR EDWARD CARSON WEDS.

Leader of Ulster Unionists Marries Miss Ruby Frewen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Unionists in Ulster, was married quietly today at Wincanton, Somerset, to Miss Ruby Frewen, daughter of Col. Stephen Frewen of Winton, Yorkshire, and niece of Moreton Frewen of Brede Place, Sussex, and Innishannon, County Cork, who was for a brief period independent Nationalist member of Parliament. The Marquis of Londonderry was best man, and in the small congregation were the Countess Ilchester, Bonar Law, Mrs. Chesterman, Mrs. Hal Walker, and the father and mother of the bride.

MISS ETHEL HOUSE MARRIES

Daughter of Founder of Thessalonika Institute Weds B. B. Bliss.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Adeline House, daughter of the Rev. Dr. John H. House and Mrs. House of Salonika, Greece, and Benjamin Barrows Bliss of this city, a son of William Bliss of Fall River, Mass., was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother, John H. House, Jr., in Hastings-on-Hudson.

The bride, who is a grandniece of the late John Bigelow, who was Ambassador to France under President Lincoln, was in Vienna, Austria, when the European war began, and reached this country on the steamship Philadelphia in August. Her father founded and is the President of the Thessalonika Agricultural and Industrial Institute at Salonika, and has lived in the Near East for forty years.

For the last year she has been actively identified with the work of the Red Cross Committee at Sofia, Bulgaria, following the war with Turkey.

Her sister, Miss Grace Bigelow House, acted as maid of honor at her wedding. Little Miss Elizabeth House, a niece, was flower girl, and Master Carleton House, a nephew, served as page. William Bliss of Yonkers was best man for his brother.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, which was worn by her grandmother, Adeline Bigelow, at her wedding. Her veil of tulle fell from a cap of rare point lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her brother, John H. House, Jr., gave her in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stephen Trowbridge of Brooklyn.

After returning from their honeymoon Mr. Bliss and his bride will reside in New York.

MISS DODD ENGAGED.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Menocal to Wed Leonard Sullivan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Menocal of the Wyoming, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Dodd, to Leonard Sullivan of 30 East Fifty-second Street. Miss Dodd made her debut in society four years ago. Her father was the late Ernest Howard Dodd.

Mr. Sullivan is a son of the late Arthur T. Sullivan and a nephew of the Right Rev. William A. Leonard, Bishop of Ohio. He is a graduate of Yale University, Class of '08, and is a member of the Yale Club, the St. Nicholas Society, and Squadron A.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Clement Weds W. H. Vivian.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 17.—The marriage of Miss Elinor Richardson Clement, second daughter of City Superintendent of Public Schools Richard E. Clement, to William H. Vivian was solemnized last night in the First Presbyterian Church by the pastor, the Rev. William Force Whitaker. The bride was attended by Miss Amy Cutting of East Orange and Miss Lorna Pratt of New York City. Mrs. Lawrence Hart of Kansas City was matron of honor. Ulysees Doubleday Cutting of East Orange attended the bridegroom. The ushers were Robert Laggren and Bernard McLain of this city, Harold M. Edwards of Boston, and Roy A. Floyd Jones of New York. Among the gifts received were remembrances from the Normal Training Class of 1912 who were graduated with the bride.

E. H. Pendleton Weds Movie Actress

Special to The New York Times.

BUYS HISTORIC LENOX HOME

Bishop Davies Purchases Mrs. A. K. Mackay's House—Berkshires Notes.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Sept. 17.—Bishop Thomas F. Davies of the Episcopal Diocese of Western Massachusetts today bought of Mrs. Archibald K. Mackay of New York her country place at Main and West Streets, the old Revolutionary house, which has been in use for 131 years. The property was sold, with the cottage furnished, for $32,000. Archibald K. Mackay bought the cottage for his wife in 1904 for $25,000, and they expended $20,000 in alterations. She found she was not able to do her best literary work in Lenox and settled in the environs of Paris.

The house was built by Gen. John Paterson. Thomas Egleston of New York bought it in 1859, and the property remained in the Egleston family until Mr. Egleston's death, in 1899, when it passed to the Trinity Church Corporation by the will of Mr. Elgeston.

Mrs. Edward Robinson of New York and Mrs. Daniel Drew of Boston are at the Grey House.

Mrs. Robert S. Rudd, Miss Alathea Rudd, and John Rudd, who were driven out of Paris by the war, are with Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wise in Tyringham.

Mrs. John Innes Kane, now in Bar Harbor, will open her cottage on Oct. 1.

Mrs. Charles Carroll Jackson of New York, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Squires of Greenwich, Miss Irene Cramp of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Henry of New York are at the Curtis Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler and Miss Sarah S. Butler, who have been at the Curtis Hotel since the first of the month, are returning to New York Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Crane are entertaining a house party at Bucksteep Manor, in Washington, Mass., which includes Miss Ellen Rollins of Boston, Miss Gertrude Monroe Smith, and William Sanger of New York, and Miss Sarah Carter and Henry Carter of Williamstone.

William Crane and Miss Katherine Crane gave a straw ride over the hills tonight for their friends.

Halidon, the country place of Dr. and Mrs. William Gilman Thompson of New York, in Stockbridge, has been closed for the season. Dr. Thompson was taken ill in July and went to New York for an operation. It was believed that he would be able to return to Stockbridge, but lately Mrs. Thompson has opened their town house at 34 East Thirty-first Street and departed from Stockbridge.

Mrs. William A. M. Burden's servants opened Glenburnie Cottage in Stockbridge today. Mrs. Burden will arrive on Tuesday.

Mrs. Oscar Iasigi, who was robbed of jewels said to be valued at $25,000 in August in Stockbridge, and offered a reward, has increased the reward to $5,000.

Mrs. James R. Walker is entertaining Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mrs. David S. Cook of Chicago at her Stockbridge villa.

"The Shadow" for Ethel Barrymore

Ethel Barrymore will not devote this season entirely to vaudeville, but early in December will appear in a new play, "The Shadow," by Dario Niccodémi and Michael Morton, the authors of "The Prodigal Husband." Miss Barrymore will give the play for the first time on any stage under the direction of Charles Frohman. "The Shadow" is in three acts. It was to have been presented in Paris this month by Mme. Rejane, but the production was called off on account of the war.

AMERICAN GIRLS ARE GOOD ATHLETES

They Have Developed De Milo Waists and Can Play Baseball, Says Dr. Savage.

COUNTS FOR LONGEVITY

Girls Follow Sports to Ape Men—Older Women Lose Flesh Riding "Bronchos."

The de Milo figure and the passing of the wasp waist among women, which has come with physical exercise, mean that she will be a new creature physically and a much improved one, says Dr. Watson L. Savage of the Savage Gymnasium in this city.

A cable message from Paris received not long ago quoted Dr. Louis Brocq as saying that the woman of today, because of her attempt at emancipation and increasing mental effort, was becoming physically an inferior being, hollow chested, and with rounded back. Dr. Savage says that this is not so, particularly with the American women, who have the most and the best kind of exercise.

"It is more likely to be true of the French girl than of others," said Dr. Savage. "The French woman impresses me as being more feminine in a way. She does not take up sports as the American and the English women do. The Frenchman does not, for that matter. He plays golf and tennis a little now, but fencing is the national sport. You go into the parks and recreation places in France and you will not see the people playing games; they are sitting around and eating. A French woman goes to the races and now she is doing more with fencing. It was a French girl who took the French championship for fencing. No; I believe that was really one of my Pittsburgh girls who was at school in France. A fourteen-year-old French girl took the international tennis championship the other day, but that was phenomenal, and I don't know how it happened.

"You always think of the French girl as being dressed up. You don't think of her as wearing comfortable clothes for sports as you do the English and the American girls. And in England it is really only the upper-class girls who do much with sports. The German girl gets her exercise in a different way through hard work, which makes her a heavier and a coarser type. The German, with those of some other nations in the lower classes, works in the fields. I should not wonder if the Kaiser would finally call upon some of those women to help him out in the battlefield. We may hear of a regiment of Amazons yet.

"It has been only recently that the German women have been taking up gymnastics that have been hitherto only for the men. The turners are now beginning to open classes for women, and they are going into them. That means a great change. The turners are going through a period of transition. The Americans won't stand for the old heavy athletics, they want more games, and the younger men are getting out of the older organizations.

"The American woman is more active, vigorous, and energetic now than at any time in my thirty years' experience. I don't know what the actual change in physical proportions is, though they have records of them in the women's colleges. And I don't know as the women have changed much more than the men. We do so much preventive work in both medicine and gymnastics that it has made a better race. And it is throwing the physicians out of business. Not half of those who go through the medical colleges go into the profession. A doctor who is the right kind should never think of money in connection with his work, and his best work is of a kind to throw him out of business. The same preventive work goes on in the gymnasium. We are taking up gymnasium work more and there were never so many students of gymnastic work preparing themselves for teaching as this Fall.

"Our children begin with their dancing and games in the kindergarten, form their athletic leagues, and the training goes on in high school and college. The girls who are to be teachers are trained in all lines of athletic work the same as men. They learn to play and coach baseball, and they must study the rules and regulations of all athletic games. I never did believe there was any anatomical reason why a girl couldn't throw a ball, and I don't believe it now. I saw it stated in the papers the other day that some girl had made a wonderful heave of 160 feet. There are four or five of our girls who can throw 180 feet. You can see the change in the girls' figures from this kind of exercise. They have grown large around the waist within the last ten years. There are no more wasp waists; we have Venus de Milo figures, and it means better women.

"The suffragists might go into a battle now and fight for what they want, but I don't believe they will do that. I don't think we shall have women soldiers. Women are a lighter build in every way than men, and it would take generations of training to make soldiers of them. Fencing is the one art of defense for a woman. Some women like to take up boxing, but it is necessary to be careful in boxing with them. Fencing is an ideal means of defense for a woman in time when she may need it. She has her parasol, her umbrella, or her hatpin, and if she understands fencing she can use them to advantage.

"I brought my own girl up to do everything that her brothers do. She had exactly the same kind of training, played baseball and all the games that they did. But one day I saw them out on the lawn having a snow battle with forts. And what do you think Dorothy was doing? Throwing the balls? Not at all. She was making the balls which the boys threw. It was not because she could not throw, but back of her was the training of generations. Girls, in playing baseball, can play within half a stroke as well as a man, though not as well as the champions. They never have the practice in throwing that a boy does, for as a little fellow walking along a country road he is continually picking up stones to throw at a cow or something else, and a girl will hardly do that.

"All this exercise is counting in the increased longevity of the race, which is fifteen years greater than it was twenty-five years ago. People have realized that they must exercise their horses to make the best of them; the farmer knows that the hens must be made to exercise by scratching for their food if they are going to lay eggs; but they have not paid as much attention to themselves.

"It has been, probably, largely a question of vanity that has made women take up athletic sports. A man no longer admires the delicate, white-faced woman, he likes a woman who is vigorous and healthy, with a brown face, and women like to please and be admired. Then the American men are athletic, and they ape the men. There is no first-class school now which does not pay attention to athletics, and the directors of the gymnasiums scour Europe for new features. The result is that we have a broad system in this country.

"Athletics no longer count for muscles. We try to get at the nervous system beneath the muscles. We no longer measure muscles, except for the psychological effect. There naturally is an increased development of muscle with exercise, but we measure it only for the encouragement of the timid worker.

"One great value of exercise is to get the poisonous secretions out of the system. To do this entirely by exercise may be too much, and in that case an electric hot cabinet will complete the work, then a shower, and a little rest. Women who are too stout ride horseback. There is a gentle animal, the Zander horse, worked by electricity, that comes from Sweden. These are to be found all through Sweden and at the spas in Germany and France. A 'broncho,' also electric action, comes from Battle Creek, goes on a more or less gentle gallop, and is a hip reducer. The flesh accumulates only where there is no action of the muscles. Women of all ages are taking up athletics for one reason or another and gain by it."

EX-CITY EMPLOYES TESTIFY.

State Civil Service Board Conducts Inquiry Under Difficulties.

Two men whose places on the Municipal Civil Service Commission have been abolished since the administration of Dr. Henry Moskowitz began were called in for a long conference yesterday before the State Civil Service Commission, investigating the records of the local commission. The first was Philip Coffee, who held the place of labor clerk, while the second was Claude Curtis, who was clerk. Both are Tammany men, and had been with the commission for more than fifteen years. President Moskowitz has explained that Mr. Coffee and Mr. Curtis lost their jobs in consequence of the consolidation of their functions.

Mr. Curtis, through his counsel, Frank A. Spencer, Jr., son of the former Secretary of the Civil Service Commission, also dismissed by Dr. Moskowitz, has filed charges against Dr. Moskowitz with the State Civil Service Commission and also with Gov. Glynn.

The investigation of the State Commission proceeded under great difficulties yesterday, because workingmen were engaged in the adjoining room in chiseling out a hole eight feet square in the solid cement floor.

One of the members of the commission, when asked if he attached any significance to the way in which the State Commission had been followed from one room to another by workmen with hammers, chisels, and other noise-making tools, said that it had been "observed but endured" by the commission.

MONSIGNOR CORLEY DEAD.

Rector of Church of Immaculate Conception in Yonkers for 38 Years.

Mgr. Charles R. Corley, rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Yonkers for the last thirty-eight years, died of heart disease yesterday at the rectory in South Broadway. Dr. Corley had been in the priesthood forty-four years and was in his sixty-eighth year. He was one of the best-known Catholic clergymen in the Metropolitan district.

Dr. Corley was born in the old Cathedral Parish of New York and received his education at St. Francis Xavier College, Manhattan, and St. Joseph's Seminary at Troy. He was ordained to the priesthood at Troy in 1871. His first charge was at Rondout, N. Y., where he remained two years. He was at St. Peter's Church in Barclay Street, Manhattan, for four years and then went to Yonkers. His parish there became the largest in Westchester County and his church was one of the finest buildings of the denomination in the county. On Jan. 18, 1912, Dr. Corley was elevated to the rank of Monsignor by the late Pope Pius X.

Dr. Corley is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Hooper of Yonkers.

Funeral services will be held at the church Monday morning. Bishop Cusack of New York will celebrate the mass.

SOCIETY AT WHITE SULPHUR.

Throng Watches Tennis Matches—Arrivals from New York.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 17.—The largest throng of the Fall season watched the tennis matches this afternoon and then repaired to the Spring room, where all the tables were engaged for tea. While the orchestra played many danced.

Luther of Pottsville, Miss Harriet Ely of Bryn Mawr, and F. M. Lincoln of Pittsburgh.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The wedding of Miss Beulah Eaton Hepburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn of 205 West Fifty-seventh Street, and Lieut. Robert R. M. Emmet, U. S. N., son of Col. and Mrs. Robert Temple Emmet, whose engagement was announced in August, will be held on Oct. 17 at the Summer home of the bride's parents, at Ridgefield, Conn.

Dr. and Mrs. Preston P. Satterwhite of 803 Fifth Avenue are expected home this week from Europe, and will go to their country place, at Great Neck, L. I. Mrs. Cyril Dugmore, Mrs. Satterwhite's sister, will be in England for some time, as her husband, Capt. Dugmore, has gone to the war. Mrs. Dugmore was formerly Mrs. H. Bramhall Gilbert.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall Pleasants Pennington, whose wedding took place on Sept. 3, will arrive this week at Deer Park, Md., to visit Mr. Pennington's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Josias Pennington. Mrs. Pennington was formerly Mrs. Alice Blaine Damrosch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley will sail from England for this country on Oct. 8. They will join their daughter, Mrs. Herbert Shipman, whose plans to sail for Europe were interrupted by the war, in this city before going to Washington, D. C.

Miss Greta Hostetter, daughter of Mrs. Anson Wod Burchard by a former marriage, and Glenn Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Glenn Stewart of Pittsburgh, Penn., will be married on Oct. 21 at Birchwood, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Burchard at Locust Valley, L. I. Miss Hostetter made her début two years ago, and was presented at the Court of St. James's in London the same year.

A subscription list has been opened by Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting and Mrs. Richard Mortimer in connection with the bazaar for the benefit of the Red Cross Relief Fund, which is to be held at the Tuxedo clubhouse on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10. Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. J. Murray Mitchell, Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, Mrs. Schuyler Schieffelin, and Mrs. Samuel Spencer are among the society women who will have charge of the bazaar tables.

Nov. 10 is the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Sybil Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Young, to Lyman Northrop Hine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Hine of this city. It will take place in St. Thomas's Church. Miss Young's engagement was announced last May.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson plan to spend the Autumn at the White Sulphur Springs, West Va. They will open their town house, 3 East Sixty-fourth Street, early in November.

Evelyn Thaw is to become a cabaret performer and, beginning Oct. 1, will be seen with Jack Clifford in dances on the New York Roof.

Commencing next Wednesday night the Forty-fourth Street Theatre will be given over to moving pictures. The first film drama to be shown there will be "Ireland, a Nation."

The Gaiety Theatre will reopen a week from next Monday, when Henry Miller will present there Ruth Chatterton in "Daddy Long Legs."

'ON A HOODOO SHIP' A YARN OF THE SEA

Traveler from Shanghai Tells About Smallpox and Mutiny and Things.

BUT IT ALL ENDED WELL

For It Was on the Van Linschoten of the Koniklikje Paketvaart Maatschappy.

"The nearest to a hoodoo ship I have ever sailed in," said Joseph Keegan of Shanghai and elsewhere at the McAlpin, "was the Van Linschoten of the Koniklikje Paketvaart Maatschappy. Lest that last name make you think it was a hoodoo in itself, let me explain that the worst it signifies is 'Royal Steamship Company.'

"I was at Sydney, bound for Batavia, in September, 1911. When the Van Linschoten arrived she was flying a yellow flag. A Dutch Baroness from Java was down with smallpox. After the ship had been fumigated they had to offer an Australian Captain £100 to bring her to her dock with an emergency crew, her own officers and crew being in quarantine.

"The Australian skipper was to have been married the next day. Just after he had docked the vessel he fell down an open hatch and broke his neck.

"All those who took passage on the Van Linschoten were warned that they should be vaccinated, but my traveling companion and I and our Arab servant, Houssain, declined. The only stateroom we could get was the one in which the Baroness had been sick. However, we were pretty comfortable and were the only passengers to keep well on the voyage, for those who did not suffer from vaccination were ill from some other cause.

"We stopped at Port Moresly, British New Guinea, and were some eight or nine hours out one calm, lazy afternoon, when a mutiny took place. My friend and I were sitting in our stateroom, forward near the bridge, when in came Houssain, with his dark face several shades lighter than usual.

"'Master,' he said, 'thinking Malay man being stabbed. Many sahibs chasing crew down with revolvers.'

"Just then a man staggered past, leaving a trail of blood. We ran out. It proved to be the 'serang,' or native boatswain. He had his hand pressed to his breast. When he reached the steps of the bridge he had run the whole length of the vessel with a knife wound in his heart. He saluted the Captain, reported that he had been attacked, and gave the names of the men who had done it, fell forward, and died.

"Two men had held him while a third had driven a Malay kris into his heart, and this had been the signal for twenty-seven men of the native crew to attack the white officers and seize the ship. However, the officers had acted quickly, and in a few minutes the ringleaders had been caught and shackled and brought up under the bridge.

"The assassins squatted about near the body of the murdered bos'n while the Captain and the other officers cross-examined them. The purser cuffed and kicked the prisoners as they were asked questions, for the reason, he told me, that he wanted to provoke resistence so that there would be a pretext for shooting them. The Captain asked us what we thought ought to be done, and we suggested that the three men be strung to the yardarm. However, he said he could not do that. Thursday Island, a British possession, was only thirty-six hours away, and they could be tried and hanged there.

"But when we had made Thursday Island the officials there insisted that as the crime had been committed between the three-mile line of British New Guinea and that of Thursday, it had occurred on the high seas and beyond their jurisdiction. They refused to take the prisoners. Therefore we had to carry them all the way to Macassar, on the Island of Celebes. That trip took nine days, and at no time were we certain that there would not be an outbreak. All night long the officers, heavily armed, patrolled the deck, and strict watch was kept over the crew.

"When we reached Macassar, the native officials came on board, and the trial took place in the ship's smoking room, the Judges and most of the spectators squatting about in semi-circles. At the request of the Captain, we had taken photographs of the murdered man and the scene of the crime, and these were used at the trial. And so lightly is human life valued that the actual assassin was sentenced to only three and a half years in prison, while the accessories were let off with two and a half years apiece.

"However, the three men had had something mediaeval meted out to them in the way of punishment on the way from Thursday Island to Macassar. They were kept shackled on the bridge and got only one meal a day of bread and water. When the crew was fed, the men were compelled to come and sit with their bowls of steaming 'chow' within nine feet of the prisoners and eat there. At Macassar we decided we had had enough of the Van Linschoten, and went ashore and waited for another steamer."

CITY BREVITIES.

Alexander Bradley of 240 West Tenth Street, who says he writes moving picture scenarios, was arrested yesterday on a charge of giving a worthless check for a moving picture camera, which he afterward sold.

A man registered at a Mills Hotel as Charles H. Barnes committed suicide yesterday by jumping into the courtyard from the seventh floor. He was about 60 years old.

Dominic Cechetti of 106 Mulberry Street was instantly killed yesterday morning when the handle of a hydraulic jack he was using in the Subway hit him.

District Attorney Cropsey of Kings County yesterday appointed Ralph E. Hemstreet as an assistant to succeed Edward A. Freshman, who has been appointed an Assistant Corporation Counsel. Mr. Hemstreet is a Republican, a graduate of Cornell and the New York Law School.

Boys playing around a bonfire at Manhattan Avenue and Powers Street, Williamsburg, yesterday, pushed four-year-old Max Forser of 211 Manhattan Avenue into the flames, and he was mortally burned. He was taken to St. Catharine's Hospital.

Man Who Took Bichloride Improving

David R. Beach, a real estate broker who lives in the Vendome apartments at Grand and Gates Avenues, in Brooklyn, and who took twenty-two grains of bichloride of mercury on Monday night by mistake, was said to be improving yesterday afternoon at Dr. Pilcher's Sanitarium at 145 Gates Avenue. Dr. Raymond Clark of 310 Clinton Street said it was too early to determine the patient's chances of recovery. Mrs. Beach visited her husband yesterday and he seemed to be cheerful.

STOPS RAILROAD FIRES.

New York, New Haven & Hartford Clears Its Right of Way.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company says it has reduced the number of forest fires on Cape Cod by clearing wide strips along its right of way. A report which has just been made public shows that the number of fires this Summer was less than last year. This year from May to August inclusive there were only eleven fires attributed to locomotive sparks and the territory burned over amounted to not more than six and a half acres. In the same time last year there were 150 forest fires and they raged over an area estimated at 2,000 acres. In 1912 there were 112 fires which burned over 480 acres. In 1911 there were 59 fires covering about 475 acres.

Through all the wooded parts of Barnstable County, where so many destructive fires occurred, a strip varying in width from 60 to 130 feet has been cleared on either side of the railroad's right of way. This plan was decided upon last Fall as an experiment, following complaints of damage done by fires on the Cape. The work of clearing the strip has been actively prosecuted since last February, and about forty-five miles are now cleared. Nine miles of this were on the Wood's Hole branch, four miles on the Chatham branch, and the rest on the main line between Buzzard's Bay and Provincetown. Pine trees are left standing to act as a screen, but all other trees and all underbrush have been removed.

About half of the burned-over area this year was woodland, and half was grassland. In previous years the fires caused great damage in the destruction of fences, cut wood, cranberry bogs, and houses.

Figures recently presented to the Public Service Commission of Massachusetts show that between June 24 and Sept. 1 there were two fires on Cape Cod due to locomotive sparks, as compared to 106 last year. From July 26 to Sept. 1 not a single fire was reported, as against sixty-nine fires the year before. This year there were two fires in May, seventeen in June, two in July, and none in August. Last year there were twenty-nine fires in May, seventeen in June, forty-four in July, and sixty in August. Though the weather has been somewhat more favorable this year, the railroad officials believe the prevention work was the principal cause for the reduction in the number of fires.

EDW. J. HALL DEAD; TELEPHONE PIONEER

Vice President of American Telephone and Telegraph Company Succumbs at 61.

DEVELOPED LONG LINES

Chairman of Executive Committee of the Western Union and a Director in Many Concerns.

Edward J. Hall, Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Western Union Telegraph Company, died yesterday at Watkins, N. Y., at the age of 61. Mr. Hall had been in ill-health for several months and had not been as active as formerly in the telegraph and telephone companies.

Mr. Hall was born in Perth Amboy, N. J., on March 31, 1853. He was the son of Edward J. Hall, a Perth Amboy manufacturer, and Mary H. Hall. In 1866 the elder Hall moved his business to Buffalo and the family went there to live. The son entered Yale, and in 1873 was graduated from Sheffield Scientific School. Upon his graduation he went to Buffalo and entered business with his father.

When the parent company of the Bell system was organized, in 1877, Mr. Hall saw the possibilities of the development of the telephone system. The following year he obtained the right to operate in Buffalo under the patents owned by the Bell company and organized a telephone company of which he became Vice President and General Manager.

When, on Jan. 1, 1885, Theodore N. Vail, then General Manager of the American Telephone Company, was developing the project to organize the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, he asked Mr. Hall to take charge of the development of the new system. At that time the development of long-distance telephone lines was still in its infancy, but Mr. Hall saw the possibilities in the development of this branch of the service and undertook to carry it out on a large scale. On Jan. 1, 1887, under Mr. Hall's direction, the line from New York to Philadelphia was opened to the public.

Mr. Hall often expressed belief in the use generally of telegraphs and telephones. He was greatly interested in the development of the night letter and day letter telegraph service.

Mr. Hall's home was in Morristown, N. J. In 1875 he married Louise Winne in Buffalo, who survives him, with two daughters and a son, Mrs. Joseph Winterbotham, Jr., of Chicago, Gertrude S., and Edward B. Hall. Sherman B. Hall, Vice President of the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Company, is a brother.

He was a Director in the American Telegraph and Cable Company, the Atlantic Terra Cotta Company, the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Market and Fulton National Bank, the New York Telephone Company, the Southern Bell Telegraph and Telephone Company, and the Western Electric Company.

Mr. Hall's clubs were the University, New York Yacht, Lawyers and Railroad Clubs of New York, the Larchmont Yacht Club, the Morris County Golf Club, and the Morristown Club.

GIANTS AND BRAVES WIN THEIR GAMES--YANKEES DEFEAT WHITE SOX--WOMEN'S GOLF

DOUGLASS FORCES GAME ON GIANTS

Red Pitcher Wild and New York Wins, 10 to 1, on Nine Hits and Eight Passes.

The Giants made a mistake yesterday in wasting ten perfectly good runs in one game with Charlie Herzog's German horde, when two would have been quite sufficient. The eight useless runs in the 10 to 1 score by which New York won might have been utilized at some other time to better advantage, for runs are none too plentiful for the Giants these days.

It is only fair to admit, however, that they might have had to exercise a lot of ingenuity to get away from many of their tallies, and they would probably have made Philip Douglass, who seemed out of place among his Teutonic teammates, feel that he wasn't being appreciated. "Dug" never seemed to be happy unless two or more of McGraw's men were on the bases. He gave so many bases on balls that the Giants were in danger of running themselves to a state of exhaustion. Douglass probably figured that if he got them sufficiently wearied the Reds might make a grand rally and win out. Herzog apparently didn't have confidence in this theory for he took Philip out after seven innings of violent exercise.

The fact that Matty was out on the firing line is one good excuse for the Giants' exuberance, and it made a fine little field day in his honor. The victory didn't put them any nearer the lead, as the Braves were trouncing the Cardinals at the same time.

The Giants, with the aid of Douglass, performed the very notable feat in the fourth inning of scoring three runs without a hit. Douglass just outdid himself in this inning. He handed out four bases on balls, three of them in a row and the last one as an afterthought. Doyle, Burns, and Fletcher were the first to be honored by Douglass, and they had the bases pretty well crowded when Davie Robertson came up to the plate, swinging his bats and looking vicious. Davie evidently planned to hit a home run or at least a triple, but what he really did was to dribble an easy bounder to first base. Robertson went out, but Doyle scored. Harvard Eddie Grant followed with another slow bounder to Groh, upon which he also went out, but provided an opportunity for another runner to score. Then Fred Merkle came along and took another base on balls.

Merkle and Fletcher worked the old double-steal stunt with variations of Merkle's own invention. Merkle started down to second, but halted between the bags when Gonzales threw to Herzog. Herzog, Groh, and Kellogg started to run him down and he tripped and fell on his hands and knees. He kept jumping around like a kangaroo, however, and managed to keep out of the way of all three until Fletcher had scored. Very clever!

Little George Burns enlivened the afternoon's sport by making a home run in the seventh inning, which scored himself and two of his team-mates. George had a rather lucky day at the bat, although the homer was his only hit. Every other time he drew a base on balls. After making the homer McGraw rewarded him by giving him the rest of the day off. At the same time he gave Larry Doyle and Chief Meyers a rest and sent in some of the reserves, consisting of Outfielder Piez, Milton Stock, and Catcher Johnson, to finish the game.

The latter gentleman showed something new in the base-running line after making a two-base hit in the eighth inning. He made a fine drive to right field and slid into second base with lots of room to spare. Johnson did not go in feet first, however, which is according to Hoyle, but tried a sort of a side roll. He reached the bag all right, but he did not stop there. He kept right on going, and would probably have gone on to third base had not he collided with Charlie Herzog's feet. He was tagged out before he could get back to the base. Score:

Phillies Rout the Pirates.

PHILADELPHIA, Seut. 17.—Philadelphia won two games from Pittsburgh today and ousted their opponents from fifth place. The scores were 6 to 3 and 2 to 0. The first contest was won by hitting Harmon's delivery hard in three innings and by Mattison's good twirling after he succeeded Jacobs in the fourth inning. The second game was a twirling duel between Tincup and McQuillan, and was won in the sixth inning on two passes, Luderus's double, and an error by Siglin. The scores:

DODGERS BEATEN IN TENTH.

Cubs Bat Reulbach for Five Hits and Four Runs in Extra Inning.

Ed Reulbach held his former teammates, the Chicago Cubs, to six scattered hits and one run for nine innings at Ebbets Field yesterday, but the game went ten sessions, and in the extra inning the big Brooklyn pitcher was batted for five safeties and four tallies, and the Westerners were returned winners by a score of 5 to 1. Reulbach and Jim Vaughn engaged in a pretty pitching exhibition for the regulation period, with Reulbach having a shade the better of the duel in the matter of hits. Vaughn allowed eight safe blows in nine innings, but he received airtight support.

The former Yankee did not allow more than one hit in any inning, and after the second not a Dodger reached third. He was very wild at the start, passing four of the first seven men to face him, but except for the second inning, when a pass, an error, and singles by McCarthy and Daubert netted the Superbas their lone tally, he was invincible.

Schulte doubled to start the tenth frame, and went to third when Fisher, the new Chicago shortstop, beat out a bunt, his third hit of the game. Sweeney singled, scoring Schulte, and Archer's intended sacrifice was fumbled by Reulbach long enough to give the Cubs' catcher a life. Vaughn fanned, but Tommy Leach came through with a long fly to Myers, on which Fisher crossed the plate. As Fisher slid into the base McCarthy accidentally spiked him going into the air after Myers's throw, and he was forced to retire from the contest, Red Corriden taking his place. Good singled, registering Sweeney, and on Saier's blow to left for a base, Archer tallied. Zimmerman, who suffered no punishment for his actions of the day previous in throwing a ball over the grandstand, ended the inning by forcing Good to Getz, unassisted.

The O'Dayites scored their first run in the seventh inning when Zimmerman singled and Fisher tripled after two were out. Myers prolonged the game at this stage by making a neat running catch of a long drive by Sweeney. The score:

Meara Goes to Cincinnati.

Charlie Meara, the outfielder who was tried out by the Yankees and later got into a controversy with the club over the payment of his salary after leaving the team, was signed yesterday by the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Herzog thinks he can use Meara, who is reputed to be a hard hitter. He really did not get a good chance to show his ability with the New York team.

BRAVES KEEP IN WINNING STRIDE

Rudolph in Fine Fettle and Allows the Cardinals Seven Scattered Hits.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—Cutting out frills and playing hard and steady baseball against Miller Huggins's Cardinals, the Braves this afternoon were able to keep up their winning gait behind Dick Rudolph's pitching. The leaders made no such score as the Giants registered against the Reds today, but 5 to 1 was a satisfactory enough margin for George Stallings, who was celebrating something like his forty-eighth birthday.

The Cardinals' only run was gathered in the first inning, and was the product of a couple of hits made by the batting-list leaders, and on the first two balls served to the plate by the youngsters McGraw so often regrets having discarded. The Braves then came back to tie the score in their own first inning, and later, by bunching hits against "Slim" Sallee, and later Robinson, provided a couple pairs of runs to make the final score.

Rudolph was in fine fettle, only five hits being made against him after the opening inning. In fact for the last eight innings only seven visitors reached first base, and just one of these was allowed to wander so far as Red Smith's corner.

Sallee worked well enough to win an ordinary game, or one in which there was any kind of hitting behind him. Seven of the Braves' nine hits were registered in the eight innings Sallee pitched, but three were ripped off in the fourth session, being enough to win the game. Robinson pitched only one inning, the Braves' eighth, and was hit for two doubles after he had driven one of his pitches against a batter's ribs.

The Cardinals' opener came quickly on Dolan's double to left, Huggins's short single and a sacrifice fly to Whitted by Lee Magee. After this the visitors' hits were scattered, except in the second inning, when two came together, but for no result.

Boston tied the score in the first inning on a pass to Mann, Evers's sacrifice and a clean hit by Cather, who was then nipped trying to steal. There was no more scoring until the fourth, but then the Braves counted twice, Schmidt and Smith getting singles, moving along on Maranville's fly to right field, and both runners racing home on Whitted's drive to centre, on which no play to the plate was possible.

Maranville doubled for the Braves in the seventh, but was caught at third on Whaling's bunt to Sallee, who in the Cardinal's eighth made way for a pinch hitter. Robinson then took the St. Louis' service in Boston's half and started by hitting Cather. Whitted pushed the former Cardinal along with a sacrifice, and then Schmidt's double to left field was followed by another two-bagger to left centre by Schmidt, the combination netting two runs.

The Cardinals hustled every moment today, and played better ball than the Braves faced when against the Phillies and Dodgers. The home team, however, has come out of its uncertainty in the field, and today looked even better than yesterday. Score:

New Pitcher for Brookfeds.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—Finis Wilson, member of this year's pitching staff of the New Orleans Southern Association baseball team, wired here tonight from his home in Kentucky that he had signed with the Brooklyn Federals and would report for duty Monday.

Birmingham Pennant Winner.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 17.—The Birmingham (Ala.) Club of the Southern Association won the pennant for the 1914 baseball season which ended today. Mobile finished in second place and New Orleans third.

Fast Infielder for White Sox.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The drafting and signing by the White Sox of Buhler, the fast and accurate little second baseman of the Minneapolis team, was announced here today.

Too Hot for Carlisle Footballers

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Sept. 17.—Hot weather again prevented the Carlisle Indians from indulging in strenuous football practice today, but in addition to the necessary elementals Coach Warner tried out his first team against an imposing array of scrubs for a twenty-minute scrimmage. The 'Varsity eleven, whose composition is by no means permanent, stayed the offensive of the second string candidates and made some little headway on offense themselves. A good showing was made by the new tackle, Fly and Hawk Eagle, an unassuming, but effective, guard, and Winnishek, the former substitute centre, all of whom earned Coach Warner's commendations. If Guyon arrives tomorrow he will be allowed to play Saturday against Albright College.

English Soccer Results.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Three interesting Southern League soccer games were decided today. Watfords journayed to Brighton in fear of losing their unbeaten record, but by sharing the points in a goalless draw with Albion take a slight lead over Milwall at the top of the table for the first time in the club's history. Queens Park Rangers scored a surprise at Luton, beating the Town Club by 4 to 2, while Swindon Town came into their real form by disposing of Bristol Rovers, 4 to 1, before their own supporters. Scores: Brighton & Hove 0, Watford 0; Luton Town 2, Queens Park Rangers 4; Swindon Town 4, Bristol Rovers 1.

Five Coaches Drilling Rutgers.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 17.—Five coaches are now preparing the Rutgers football team for the Princeton game. They are George Foster Sanford, Carl Flanders, Howard Gardan, Harry Vaughn, and Bob Lorse. All of last year's veterans are back. Secret practice has been frequent for the past week. Rutgers' first game is with Princeton a week from next Saturday at Princeton.

WILL IGNORE "OUTLAWS."

Major Leagues Will Not Answer Federal Request for World's Series.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The World's Series challenge of President Gilmore of the Federal League to the National Commission, is accepted here as merely completing the record of Gilmore's campaign to receive official recognition of his organization as being of major league calibre.

That the challenge would be sent was announced a month ago, and while President Johnson of the American League and President Comisky of the White Sox could not be located here today, it was recalled that both of them at the time of the announcement vigorously asserted they would have no relations with the "outlaws" except on a distinctly unfriendly basis.

This attitude has not been changed, which is no surprise to Gillmore. Anticipating that his challenge would be ignored, he said a month ago that in event of refusal he would play a series within his own league and declare the winner world's champions.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—"I have nothing whatever to say at present," said Chairman August Herrmann of the National Commission when asked today if he intended to answer the letter from President Gilmore of the Federal League requesting that the latter league be allowed to be represented in the world's championship baseball series.

"I have received Mr. Gilmore's letter, but have nothing to say in regard to it at present," continued Mr. Herrmann.

BROOKFEDS LOSE AGAIN.

Drop to Fifth Place After Fourth Defeat by Indianapolis.

Whatever hopes the Brooklyn Federal Leaue team entertained of winning the pennant were exploded yesterday when at Washington Park the Indianapolis team scored its fourth straight triumph over Bill Bradley's aggregation and sent them into fifth place, the first time in many weeks they have been out of the first division. The score was 7 to 5.

Four of the Wardmen's pitchers were sent against the Hoosiers, but the game was virtually lost after Tom Seaton was removed at the end of the first period. The Indianapolis players, who are tied with Chicago for the lead in the Federal League, found Seaton's curves easy to solve, and made four runs in the opening inning, a lead which young Whitehouse, a southpaw recruit who faced the locals, found ample to take liberties with.

Bluejacket went three innings with one run being scored by the visitors, but Marion, the Indian's successor, proved weak, and yielded two tallies in the eighth, enough to withstand the Brooklyn rally, which produced a pair of tallies in their half of the same inning.

Indianapolis scored four runs in the first on a pass, a hit batsman, an error by Seaton and hits by Kauff, Carr and Esmond. In the second they registered one off Bluejacket on McKetchnie's single, a stolen base, and a safety by Kauff. Successive hits by Shaw, Hofman, Westerzil, and Holt gave Brooklyn two in the fourth, and they added another in the fifth on a pass to Chouinard, a hit by Marion and Shaw's sacrifice. Both teams scored twice in the eighth. The score:

Cleveland Easy for Red Sox.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Boston opened its series here by defeating Cleveland, 8 to 1. Mitchell pitched poorly and was miserably supported. On the other hand, Foster was very effective and was splendidly backed up in the field. Barbare, recently of the New Orleans Club, made his Cleveland debut and drove in Cleveland's only run. Score:

Trotters Open Empire City Fair.

The Greater New York Fair was officially opened at the Empire City race track yesterday afternoon. Harness racing comprised the sporting feature. Three events were contested, and all were decided in straight heats. The opening event, for 2:20 class trotters, went to May Todd, owned and driven by W. S. Edelmeyer, which scored over Alonzia J., James M. Ryan at the reins, and Acora, the property of H. O. Benzer. May Todd led all the way in both heats and was timed in 2:23¼ and 2:24. There were only three starters. Only three went to the post in the second race, for 2:30 class trotters, which proved an easy victory for Regent's Boat, driven by W. S. Mangin. Estella Cord was second and Zada Oakland third. The time was 2:27 and 2:28. Roy, owned by George Gall, ran away with the third race for 2:25 pacers. Frances C. and Sir Thomas, the only other starters, finished in the order named far behind the winner in each heat.

McNamara Wins Open Golf.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Thomas McNamara of Boston won the open tournament of the Golf Association of Philadelphia at the White Marsh Valley Country Club today, with a score of 302 for the seventy-two holes. Isaac Mackie of Fox Hills was second, with 309, and Walter Hagen of Rochester, American open champion, took third place with 310. Other prize winners were Louis Tellier of Canoebrook, 311; Joseph Mitchell of Upper Montclair, 311, and Herbert Strong of Inwood, 312.

J. J. McDermott, former open champion, and J. M. Barnes, Western open champion, with 313 each, missed the money by only one stroke. Prominent players from all sections of the country competed in the tournament.

YANKEES WIN UNDER NEW LEADERSHIP

Jack Warhop Puzzles Chicago Batsmen, While Benz Is Hit Freely.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 17.—With Jack Warhop's subterranean delivery charming the White Sox, the Yankees opened their final invasion of Comiskey Park today by giving Joe Benz a merry lacing, 7 to 2. Excepting in one inning the South Siders were helpless against the Warhop, who outpitched the local boxman at every stage in the proceedings.

Entering the ninth inning with the count 3 to 2 in their favor, the Yankees suddenly fell upon Benz and mobilized four singles and a triple, which, blended with a squeeze play, sent four runners clattering home.

In the second, Peckinpaugh's followers profited by errors and scored twice. Daley opened with a single and Mullen was safe when Benz made a late heave to second base, trying to force Daley. Peckinpaugh sacrificed and Benz made a wild heave over first base, letting Daley register. Sweeney forced Peckinpaugh, Manda to Weaver, and Mullen scored when Fournier dropped Buck's throw for what should have been an easy double play. A wild pitch followed, but Benz managed to dispose of the next two hitters.

The Sox got back one run in their fifth turn at bat. Roth was hit in the ribs and was forced by Baker. Manda skied out and Benz was safe on Peckinpaugh's error. Demmitt singled, filling the bases, then Weaver slugged safely to right, scoring Baker. Colling's fly to Mullen stopped the rally. Daley's triple and a double by Mullen netted another run for the Yankees in their sixth session. Fournier made a triple in the home team's half, and scored on Baker's wallop.

With one down in the ninth, Boone and Warhop singled and Maisel tripled. Hartzell and Cook clubbed singles, after which Lathrop appeared. Daley bunted, executing a squeeze play to Fournier, and another run counted. The finish came when Blackburne tossed out Mullen. The score:

Grand Prix Cyclists Pick Pacers.

The drawing for pacemakers by the riders entered in the fifty-mile Grand Prix, to be run Sunday afternoon at the Brighton Beach Motordrome, took place last night. The riders were well pleased with the drawing, the lesser lights holding their own with the favorites in the draw, which makes the contest a more even race than previous ones. The riders and their pacemakers are as follows: Clarence Carmen, Jimmy Hunter; Bobby Walthour, Albert Morin; Vincinzo Madonna, Charley Turville; George Wiley, Carl Ruden; Manus Bedell, Freddie West; Percy Lawrence, M. Nason.

The buzz of the motors attracted a large crowd to the track yesterday, where most of the riders were working out with a full force of pacemakers. Only short trials were made, twenty-five miles being the limit, with Madonna and Walthour showing the better time. Carmen contented himself with two ten-mile dashes, covering the distance each time in less than 13 minutes. It is Carmen's plan to take a lead of a few laps Sunday in the first ten miles and hold it. Young Madonna, with Turville showing him the way, is predicted by the railbirds to be a surprise in the race, and he will not lack for rooters when he goes to the post. The races will start at 3 o'clock Sunday instead of 3:45, owing to the long programme. Motor cycle and amateur events will also be on the card.

CHURCH TO PLAY WILLIAMS.

Intercollegiate Tennis Singles Reach Final Round.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—R. Norris Williams, 2d, National champion and member of the Davis Cup team, will defend his intercollegiate tennis title tomorrow against George M. Church, Captain of the Princeton team and State champion of Delaware, in the final singles match of the intercollegiate tournament on the courts of the Merion Cricket Club at Haverford.

Both Church and Williams won their semi-final matches today with ease, the former defeating his team mate, A. M. Kidder, in straight sets, while Williams was vanquishing L. Vandevander, also of Princeton, even more swiftly and effectively.

Only two matches were played in the doubles today, but as Ball and Hopkins of the Yale teams defaulted, owing to Ball's twisted ankle, only one contest remains to be played in the semi-final round. This will be disposed of after the final singles match tomorrow, leaving Saturday open for the championship battle for the doubles title.

The feature event of the doubles was the match in which Williams figured, and which was watched by a gallery that completely surrounded the court. The international star and his partner, Richard Harte, also of Philadelphia, won the match in almost record time, defeating Law and Harvey of Princeton three straight sets in a little less than three-quarters of an hour. The losers won only three games. Summary:

Singles.—Semi-Final Round—George M. Church, Princeton, defeated A. M. Kidder, Princeton, 6—2, 6—2, 6—1; R. Norris Williams, 2d, Harvard, defeated L. Vandevander, Princeton, 6—1, 6—1, 6—1.

Doubles.—First Round—Law and Harvey, Princeton, defeated Ball and Hopkins, Yale, by default; Church and Kidder, Princeton, defeated Cunningham and Stoddart, Yale, 6—1, 4—6, 6—1.

Second Round—Williams and Harte, Harvard, defeated Law and Harvey, Princeton, 6—0, 6—1, 6—2.

THROCKMORTON A CHAMPION

Wins Singles and Selig and Wolff Doubles in Junior Tourney.

The first tournament for the junior metropolitan tennis championship closed yesterday on the clay courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, L. I. The tournament, with nearly 100 entries for the singles and 30 for the doubles, was concluded in four days. The singles title went to H. Throckmorton of Rahway, N. J., who defeated H. W. Forster of Yonkers in the final round in straight sets, 6—2, 7—5, 6—1, while L. Selig and A. Wolff of Lawrence, L. I., won the doubles, defeating R. B. Haines and G. E. Donnell of Horace Mann School in the finals, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

In the singles Throckmorton was not required to extend himself except in the second round, when Forster succeeded in gaining an advantage of 5—3 on the young Jersey player. The latter rallied and won the next four games in succession, allowing his opponent but five points in the four games. Forster won the first game in the third set, but failed to advance beyond this point, as his opponent won six straight games and the match.

Haines and Donnell really defeated themselves in the doubles. The former repeatedly double-faulted on his service, thereby losing many points, while Donnell was wild and drove many balls out of court. Selig and his partner played a steady, consistent game, and appeared to be willing to take full advantage of their opponents' misplays. The summary:

Junior Metropolitan Championship, Singles.—Final and Championship Round—H. Throckmorton defeated H. W. Foster 6—2, 7—5, 6—1.

Doubles, Semi-final Round—L. Selig and A. Wolff defeated T. Smith and H. L. Bowman 6—3, 6—2; R. B. Haines and G. E. Donnell defeated H. W. Forster and A. Dubois 7—5, 6—1.

Final Round—L. Selig and A. Wolff defeated R. B. Haines and G. E. Donnell 6—3, 6—7, 6—4.

Tennis by Electric Light.

Spirited play marked the progress of the men's doubles tournament at the Westfield Golf Club, Westfield, N. J., last evening.

The tournament is of unusual interest, as the games are played at night by electric light, and although the last few nights have been quite cool the gallery has been large. W. Merrill Hall and C. A. Campbell of the West Side Tennis Club came through to the third round, winning from Vandeventer and Ransome of Plainfield C. C., 6—4, 6—4, and Shaw and Messner of Bergen Point T. C., 6—1 and 8—6. Summary:

E. S. Cubberly and W. Livingston, Elmora C. C., defeated L. F. Ballard and B. Throckmorton, Sewaren T. C., 6—4, 6—1; W. R. Gomez and H. P. Randall, Westfield G. C., defeated A. Copeland and C. A. Brown, Rutherford T. C., 3—6, 9—7, 6—2; R. Brown and W. H. Brown, Clifton T. C., defeated N. F. Cowperthwaite and C. Nelson, Westfield G. C., 9—7, 6—2; A. D. Beers and H. J. Cochran, Plainfield C. C., defeated Kenneth Stern and R. Potter, Westfield G. C., 4—6, 6—3, 6—1; F. W. Shaw and M. Messner, Bergen Point T. C., defeated C. H. Bissell and A. H. Bissell, Westfield G. C., 6—4, 6—1; W. Merrill Hall and C. A. Campbell, West Side T. C., defeated J. N. Vandeventer and P. A. Ransome, Plainfield C. C., 6—4, 6—4; M. H. Long and T. O. Gavett, Park Club, defeated W. O. Titus and O. Hall, Stanley Oval Club, 6—3, 6—3; Gomes and Randall defeated Cubberly and Livingston, 7—5, 6—1; Beers and Cochran defeated Brown and Brown, 6—2, 7—5; T. Ernst and George Throckmorton, Sewaren T. C., defeated C. H. Sisserson and William Foster, Point o'Woods T. C., 6—3, 7—5; J. Cuppia and W. Throckmorton defeated G. L. Delatour and H. L. Scannel, 10—8, 6—3.

NO CUT IN HARVARD SQUAD.

Coaches Decide to Form Better Idea of Ability of New Men.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 17.—After a hard day's work on Soldiers' Field today the Harvard 'Varsity coaches have decided that it will be impractical to separate the eighty candidates into the 'Varsity and second team squads before the first of next week. As scrimmaging will begin on Tuesday, Percy Haughton is anxious to get his first-string men together, but to date it has been impossible to pick the 'Varsity, aside, of course, from the left-over material. The other candidates, both for line and back field, are all on about a par, there being few fellows who stand out distinctly as superior. The coaches feel that all they can do is to continue to work out the men, and that possibly by Monday they will be able to make the big squad selection with a minimum of mistakes and underestimates. The men out for the line from tackle to tackle are an unusually even lot, most of them strong, but mostly green. Many, though, were used on the 'Varsity squad last year, and are known to have limitations. Capt. Brickley today dodged in and out with several sets of backs and also paid a lot of attention to the kickers. Mahan is coming along in his former form as a punter, but today the best kicker is young Rollins, one of last season's halfbacks. Coach Fisher put his linemen through their paces with the charging machine, and the entire squad is fast getting into condition. The back field is working on a new wrinkle in starts and footwork. The work is still rudimentary.

MRS. BARLOW BEATS MISS HYDE AT GOLF

New York Girl Vanquished on Home Green in Women's National Tourney.

Three players of long competitive experience and one comparatively new worked their way to the semi-final stage of the women's national golf championship tournament at the Nassau Country Club yesterday. These are Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of Oakley, Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia, Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Philadelphia, and Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal of Ravisloe, and they will meet as named today.

Mrs. Jackson has been national champion, while Mrs. Barlow twice won the Eastern title. Mrs. Vanderbeck has held the Philadelphia championship. This is Miss Rosenthal's second appearance in the national championship. She is the only remaining Chicago representative.

The chief developments of the third round yesterday were the defeat of Miss Lillian B. Hyde and the equaling of the woman's record for the course, by Mrs. Jackson. She went around in 82. It was Mrs. Barlow who proved to be the stumbling block for the metropolitan champion, the contest being decided only on the last green. By far the largest gallery followed this match, and it was treated to an exhibition of pluck on the part of the winner. Miss Hyde was three up by the time the thirteenth was reached.

From this point on the match was almost dramatic, for Miss Hyde lost four straight holes through inability to make the most of her opportunities. Her tee shot at the fourteenth was pulled a trifle into a bunker, and she laid a fine shot out of the trouble to within four feet of the pin. Had she been able to run down the putt she would have halved the hole. However, she lost it. When one thing did not go wrong for Miss Hyde another one did, and in the meanwhile Mrs. Barlow was strictly on her game, and she won the fifteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth holes to square the match. Her three at the seventeenth was the most startling of the round, for the hole is 405 yards long. A good drive and a fine brassie reached the green, and she ran down a twenty-footer. A flubbed second shot cost Miss Hyde the match, for she might have won the eighteenth, whereas, she could only get a halve there, and as Mrs. Barlow was dormie it left her the winner.

Mrs. Jackson won her match with Miss Caroline Painter of Midlothian, by 3 up and 2 to play, and, although the girl from Chicago went along at a steady gait, she was up against a discouraging proposition in that Mrs. Jackson reeled off hole after hole in par figures. The former national champion was 4 up by the time the turn was reached. Miss Painter took a temporary brace at the twelfth and ran down a twenty-foot putt for a win, and she also won the fourteenth, when Mrs. Jackson got trapped, but, outside of the first hole, these were Miss Painter's only successes. Mrs. Jackson did not realize that she had equaled a course record until after she had finished.

Mrs. Vanderbeck easily disposed of Miss Ethel M. Campbell of Overbrook by a 6 and 4 margin, being always up. Miss Rosenthal, after being 3 down at one time, was able to square the match on the seventeenth hole against Miss Florence McNeely of Merion. The home hole was halved and on the nineteenth Miss Rosenthal although twice trapped, finally got a 5 by a good play-out, whereas, Miss McNeely's one visit to the trap cost her two strokes to get out, and in all six for the hole. The summary:

Third Round—Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, Oakley, beat Miss Caroline Painter, Midlothian, 3 and 2; Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia Cricket, beat Miss Ethel M. Campbell, Overbrook, 6 and 4; Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal, Ravisloe, beat Miss Florence McNeely, Merion, 1 up, (19 holes;) Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Merion, beat Miss Lillian B. Hyde, South Shore, 1 up.

News for the Golfers.

Under conditions entirely different than heretofore, the New York Newspaper Golf Club will hold its annual championship tournament over the links of the Dunwoodie Country Club. Instead of the method in use last year, wherein there was a qualifying round with subsequent match play, the entire field will play seventy-two holes, the first two rounds being scheduled for next Monday, and the two other rounds for the Monday following. At the end of the first round, all except sixteen of the contestants having the lowest gross scores will be dropped. After the second round only the eight contestants having the lowest gross scores will continue, the eight then dropped beginning match play for a consolation prize. On the second Monday the eight contestants remaining will play the third and fourth rounds at medal play, and the medalist will receive a gold medal and have the custody of the Press Cup, a donation from the members. George L. Cooper, W. W. Harris, and H. Grantland Rice are the committee in charge.

At a special meeting of the Board of Governors of the Somerville Country Club it was decided not to hold an open tournament this year. A month or so ago announcement was made that a tournament of this kind was planned.

Directum Paces Mile in 1:58 3-4.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 17.—Directum I., owned by James Butler of New York, paced an unusual mile here today in a trial against his record of 2 minutes as an exhibition in connection with the State Fair races. Driven by Ray Snedecker and accompanied by a runner driven by Tom Murphy, the chestnut stallion paced the first quarter in 30 seconds, the half in 1:01, the three-quarters in 1:30, and then paced the last quarter in 28¾ seconds, making the mile in 1:58¾, next to Minor Heir's mark of 1:58½, which is claimed to be the fastest mile ever paced in the open. Lord Dewey, in another exhibition trial failed to beat his trotting mark of 2:03¾. He made the distance in 2:04¼.

Besides the exhibition trials, three races were on today's programme. Brighton B. won the last three heats and the race in the 2:12 trot after Bertha Cary had taken the first two heats. Marta Bellini was an easy winner in the 2:10 trot and King Couchman won the $5,000 pace after it had gone five heats. Summary:

2:12 Trot, 3 in 5; Purse $1,050.—Brighton B. won; Bertha Cary, second; Fair Virginia, third. Best time—2:08¼.

2:10 Trot, 3 in 5; Purse $1,050.—Marta Bellini, won; Vanity Oro, second; The Wanderer, third. Best time—2:07.

2:11 Pace, 3 in 5; Stake $5,000.—King Couchman won; Camelia, second; Eel Direct, third. Best time—2:04¼.

J. E. SULLIVAN'S FUNERAL.

60,000 Schoolboys Will Line Route of the Procession.

Between fifty and sixty thousand boys, members of the Public Schools Athletic League, an organization originated and fostered by the late James E. Sullivan, will line the route to be taken by the funeral procession when the athletic leader's body is conveyed from his home, 540 West 114th Street, tomorrow morning to the Catholic Church of St. Aloysius, 132d Street and Seventh Avenue, where a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. This remarkable tribute to the deceased sportsman, whose loss is mourned throughout the country, as attested by the immense number of consoling telegrams received by Mrs. Sullivan yesterday, was arranged by Dr. C. Ward Crampton, head of the P. S. A. L., who was an ardent admirer of Mr. Sullivan. It was planned at first to have the youngsters follow the cortège from Mr. Sullivan's late home down Broadway to 110th Street, east to Seventh Avenue, thence north to the church, but because of the great number of participants it was deemed more advisable to have them line the funeral course instead, and have a guard of 200 medal and championship winners follow the hearse.

Arrangements were being perfected yesterday by many of the local athletic organizations, and other bodies, to attend the funeral. The Pastime A. C., of which Mr. Sullivan was a charter member, will attend in a body, and all other metropolitan clubs will be well represented.

Among the telegrams expressing sorrow over the death of her husband received by Mrs. Sullivan were those of W. F. Trevatt, representing the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union; Louis Rubenstein of the Montreal (Canada) Athletic Club; W. J. Liginger of Milwaukee, former President of the American Amateur Athletic Union; William Humphreys, President of the Olympic Club of San Francisco; A. S. Goldsmith, President of the Seattle Athletic Association; Roland G. Parvin, President of the Rocky Mountain Division of the Amateur Athletic Union, and Sidney P. Jones of the Southern Association. In fact, messages of condolence were received from every section of the country.

The New York Athletic Club paid its respects to the dead athletic ruler when a special meeting of the Board of Governors was called yesterday and a set of resolutions was adopted.

President Robert M. Thompson of the American Olympic Committee has decided to hold the meeting of his committee tonight instead of tomorrow morning.

Tentative plans were made yesterday for the raising of a subscription fund to erect a monument to Mr. Sullivan. Following the plan used in securing funds for the recent Olympic team, when every boy affiliated with a public school athletic organization throughout the country contributed one penny, the men who are interested in this movement hope to raise enough money to erect a monument to the late A. A. U. leader. It is also proposed to ask the city authorities to name one of the public playgrounds after Mr. Sullivan.

Lehigh Football Men Under Ban.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., Sept. 17.—The Faculty axe fell with a dull thud today, and as a result four Lehigh athletes will not play football this year. These men are Chenoweth, the sensational quarter back; Kuhn and Loux, half backs, and Tate, tackle. The cases of Jim Keady and Fred Green will be acted upon tomorrow.

Jockey Helridge Severely Injured.

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 17.—During the fifth race at Dufferin Park track today Jockey Helridge of Ogdensburg, N. Y., who was riding Margaret G., was so severely injured that he is not expected to recover. The surgeons fear his back is broken. Going to the dangerous north turn, the horse fell and rolled over Helridge. He was picked up unconscious.

SPILLS IN 'CHASE INJURE JOCKEYS

Gilbert and Jolley Knocked Unconscious When Horses Fall at Belmont Park.

What was to have been the feature race at Belmont Park yesterday, one that was designed to bring all the best of the 2-year-olds together—the Nursery Handicap—turned out to be as commonplace an affair as an ordinary selling race. All the "cracks" among the youngsters were declared out of it and a very commonplace lot ran for the stake. The only three contestants with any pretension to class were Sharpshooter, Coquette, and Charter Maid. The latter cut no figure in the six-furlong scrimmage, the fight being entirely between Sharpshooter and Coquette, both of which were in a bumping match when the race was nearly two-thirds run. Although Sharpshooter had all the worst of it, Young Karrick managed to straighten him so quickly that he won from Coquette by a head. The latter finished four lengths in front of the Whitney candidate, Dinah Do, which proved good enough to beat Charter Maid by a length.

A couple of spills in the steeplechase and the breaking down of Highbridge before half the journey was ended varied the monotony of the clean jumping which has been the rule of late. Approaching the fifth jump Fred Essen, which was in the lead, stumbled, and, "coming a cropper," threw his jockey, the horse going down directly in the path of Swish, which struck the prostrate horse after he jumped and fell also. There was a bad mix-up of horses and jockeys, but fortunately all the others jumped clear of the heap, except Highbridge, whose left foreleg gave way just as he reached the jump, his jockey dismounting and leading the limping animal off the field. The horses, Fred Essen and Swish, scrambled to their feet and followed what was left of the field over the course riderless. Jockeys Gilbert and Jolley were picked up in an unconscious condition, hustled into a waiting ambulance, and thence to the jockeys' room for surgical attendance. Gilbert, who seemed to have been the most seriously hurt—as his horse rolled over on him—actually escaped serious injury, as only the breath was knocked out of him. Jolley, rider of Swish, was badly hurt about the shoulder, and though the track surgeon could find no fracture of the collarbone, his employer, Thomas Hitchcock, had the jockey sent to his own physician in Hempstead, as he feared something more than the bad superficial bruises that were in evidence.

Syosset, which had been the favorite in the betting, won the race as he pleased after the accident, with only Roland Pardee and Overseer to beat. The latter finished a full furlong behind the others.

It was not much of a show of jumping therefore which William K. Vanderbilt, just returned from France, and Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., guests of Schuyler L. Parsons, had an opportunity to witness. Summary:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, which have not won at this meeting; selling; $500 added; one mile and a sixteenth. Time—1:46.

SHOW PONY RUNS AWAY.

Little Betty Stoddard Thrown, but Resumes Riding at White Plains.

The 5,000 visitors to the Westchester County Horse Show at White Plains, N. Y., yesterday had many thrills, as three jumpers fell in going over the hurdles, while a pony ridden by little Betty Stoddard ran away and threw the child. She landed on her feet and escaped injury. She later mounted the pony and continued in the exhibition of ponies under saddle. There were a number of distinguished visitors around the horse show ring, among them District Attorney and Mrs. C. S. Whitman, Supreme Court Justices Goff and Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mayor John J. Brown of White Plains, and Ernest Iselin.

In the class for saddle horses, Mrs. N. J. Hess was an easy winner with her Talisman. Her closest rival was W. H. Hanley on Sir Evelyn.

In the class for pairs of harness horses Emil Selig's Flashlight and Romance received a blue ribbon over Alfred Vanderbilt's Grace and Queen. B. F. Gregory's Duchess and Princess were third.

The judging of jumpers brought out a big field of horses, and it was during this exhibition that three horses fell and two of the riders had narrow escapes from serious injury.

The first prize offered by Alfred G. Vanderbilt for the best pony under saddle went to J. McE. Bowman's Sweet Briar, Powelton Farm's Aloui and Stella were second and third, respectively.

For a second time J. Campbell Thompson got a blue ribbon for having the best harness horse. He drove his Nestledown Chancellor to victory over Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Sir James. The latter horse was driven by Reginald Vanderbilt.

The class for four-in-hands brought out but two entries. J. Campbell Thompson again carried off the honors by driving his four with such skill that he was presented with a blue rosette and a special prize given by D. G. Reid.

*Apprentice allowance of five pounds claimed.

ANOTHER FREE MARKET.

Borough of Richmond Will Have One in Tomkinsville Square.

The interest in the new open markets and the work of the Mayor's Committee is attracting attention in many parts of the country according to letters inquiring as to particulars received by Joseph Hartigan, Commissioner of Weights and Measures. It was said yesterday by a man who had inspected the markets that they are in grave danger because of lack of proper supervision. No one seems to be in charge except the police. It is reported that at one market on one day the police kept out the truckman to whom had been assigned the work of delivering packages and allowed another truckman in.

Borough President Marks reports an increasing number of farmers in the markets. The Queensboro Bridge Market shows the greatest relative gain, where six farmers yesterday disposed of their produce in short order. Philip Heffner of Floral Park, L. I., came in the morning with a five-ton truck filled with mixed vegetables. In the afternoon he returned with another load and twenty barrels of potatoes. E. Smith, Treasurer of the Farmers and Gardeners' Association of Westchester, was at the Harlem Bridge Market yesterday. He said that eight members of the association will be at the market early on Saturday, each with a load of vegetables.

A farmer who owns 10,000 Long Island ducks has requested space in one of the markets. He said that he can sell at a lower price than the retailer and make a larger profit. John Parsons, a farmer of New Jersey, has notified the committee that he will put on sale a carload of vegetables in the Harlem Bridge market today.

Joseph A. Silver, agent of the Ossining and New York Passenger and Freight Line, will have on sale today at the Manhattan Bridge market a big shipment of apples, pears, and grapes.

Richmond is to have a free open market, which will be opened in Tompkinsville Square on Saturday, Sept. 26. The market will be modeled after the new ones in Manhattan, and will aim to lower the cost of living by bringing producer and consumer together.

Borough President McCormack issued a statement to the people of Staten Island yesterday, asking both the housewives and the farmers to patronize the new market.

CONFESS BIG SILK THEFTS.

Clerks Say "Fence" Gave Them $6,000, One-fourth Real Value.

Two boys who say they stole silk worth $20,000 in the last ten months from their employers, Charles Schoolhouse & Sons, at 248 Fourth Avenue, told how they did it yesterday to Assistant District Attorney Van Rensselaer. They were remanded without bail to Police Headquarters by Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Tombs Court.

Otto Kossuth, nineteen years old, of 304 East Seventy-first Street and Isidor Klein, twenty years old, of 439 East Houston Street have been working for the silk dealers for seven years. Kossuth was employed as a velvet man and received $18 a week. Klein was in the shipping department and got $10 a week. Vague suspicions, increasing recently, that the firm was being robbed led the partners to make an investigation. Mr. Schoolhouse, the head of the firm, on Tuesday called Kossuth into his office. He made a confession and Klein, who was called in later, also confessed. Yesterday afternoon Kossuth and Klein were taken to Mr. Van Rensselaer's office. There they told the full story of their thefts and signed a written confession, the District Attorney says.

According to the stories, which are borne out by an investigation made by Detectives Thomas and Kling of the District Attorney's office, the boys had been honest employes up to November, 1913. At that time both of them got into trouble and needed money. The idea of robbing their employers was suggested through an acquaintance, who was a clerk with another silk firm. This clerk said he knew a "fence" to whom they could sell silk and took them to see him. Kossuth and Klein were told that stolen silk would be bought at a price about one-fourth of the value of the goods. A few days later the boys stole five pieces, for which they received $300. They kept on stealing silk up to Sept. 11.

The boys told Mr. Schoolhouse that they had spent a large part of the money which they received from the stolen silk in gambling and entertaining women, but that they had some of it left. Out of a total of $6,000 Kossuth had $2,200 left, of which $1,900 was deposited in the German Savings Bank. Klein had $1,000 in the German Savings Bank.

The boys said that the goods were delivered to the "fence" through Klein, who had the goods consigned to him through the shipping department. Klein covered his thefts by destroying receipt slips. Kossuth & Klein will be arraigned this morning in the Jefferson Market Court.

URGE LOYALTY ON MOOSE.

Roosevelt, Straus, and Hotchkiss Call for Support of Davenport.

A mandate not to support William Sulzer for the Gubernatorial nomination in the Progressive primaries went out last night to enrolled Progressives from the Bull Moose State Headquarters in this city. It was in the form of the following letter, which was sent to all the County Chairmen with directions to forward copies to the enrolled Progressives in their respective districts. Here is the letter:

Dear Sir: The Progressives of New York State owe a duty of leadership to the whole nation. Their nominee for Governor should be a man whose whole public life has been such, whose character and ability and standing are such, that after primary day all right-minded men throughout the State may heartily rally to his support. Frederick M. Davenport is such a man, and should certainly be nominated. We urge you to go to the primaries in your respective localities on Monday, Sept. 28, between the hours of 3 and 9 P. M., and vote for Frederick M. Davenport.

WILLIAM H. HOTCHKISS,
OSCAR S. STRAUS,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

William Sulzer was campaigning up State yesterday, but it was said at his headquarters in the Hotel Navarre that a redhot answer to the Bull Moose letter would be forthcoming before night. Mr. Sulzer will campaign through Long Island today and tomorrow.

Frederick M. Davenport will speak in this city, Westchester, and Long Island during the last three days of next week. So far he has addressed no public meetings.

HITS DAVENPORT AGAIN.

Sulzer Gets Another Court Order Alleging Fraud in Petition.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Frederick M. Davenport, Progressive primary candidate for the nomination for Governor, must show cause on Monday why his name should not be removed from the primary ballot. Supreme Court Justice Rudd today issued an order to this effect upon petition of counsel for William Sulzer.

The petition was based upon allegations that enough signatures on the Davenport designation petitions were fraudulent to invalidate his designation. The order is returnable before Justice Rudd in Sullivan County.

Three Mail Ships Sail Tomorrow.

Three steamships will sail for European ports tomorrow with mails. The Finland will carry mails for Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, Africa, and the East Indies; the Ancona for Italy, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, Servia, Rumania, Turkey, Switzerland, and Greece, and the Touraine for France, Egypt, and the Mediterranean.

NEW HAVEN FILES ANSWER IN U. S. SUIT

Says Public Policy Forced Combination of Lines and Holds That This Was Legal.

AGREED DECREE TO BE FILED

Terms of Settlement with Government to be Kept—Answer Purely Formal, Says Elliott.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and the New England Navigation Company filed yesterday in the Federal District Court their joint answer to the Sherman law suit brought against them by the Federal Government. Since this suit is to be settled in accordance with an agreement reached between the New Haven's Board of Directors and Attorney General McReynolds on Aug. 11, whereby the combination of which the Government complained is to be dissolved, the filing of this answer was largely formal. It is interesting, however, as there are still criminal proceedings pending against the New Haven Directors.

Howard Elliott, Chairman of the New Haven, said last night that the answer was filed according to a prearranged plan.

"The Government," he said, "has had its say in its complaint, and we now have ours. We shall go before a Judge of the Federal District Court with an agreed decree, and he will sign it, and that will be the end of the proceedings."

"When will that be?" Mr. Elliott was asked.

"In a few weeks, perhaps; I don't quite know when. That is in the hands of the lawyers."

The decree will provide for the dissolution of the control by the New Haven of the New England transportation properties according to the bargain struck between the company and the Government.

Admit Combination; Deny Guilt.

The railroad and navigation companies admit in their answer that they acquired and do now control a number of railroad, trolley, and steamboat lines, but they assert that thereby they have built up New England and have provided it with a transportation service such as it never had before. Moreover, they assert that in acquiring the lines of which complaint has been made they acted in strict accordance with the statutes of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New York, and in accordance with the public policy of those States. If there was any competition between the lines acquired it was not, they declare, substantial, and even now after they have obtained control of them there is not unreasonable restraint of commerce within the meaning of the Sherman law.

The defendants also assert that some of the transactions mentioned took place more than three years ago, and consequently the right to maintain action on account of them is barred by Federal statute. Furthermore, they hold it to be unconstitutional to invoke the Sherman law concerning the purchase of properties entirely within the boundaries of any particular State, and since none of the trolley lines referred to in the complaint crosses a State line, it is contended that it is impossible to apply the Sherman law to their acquisition. Finally, the companies deny that they have indulged in any unlawful combination or conspiracy.

Public Policy Demanded It.

That part of the Government's case which concerned water transportation excluded all consideration of the steamships which ply between Europe and New England, all ferries and short local boat lines, all tramp steamers and barges and sailing vessels carrying coal, lumber, stone, and so on. It was only by arbitrarily omitting these agencies, it is asserted in the answer, that the Government was able to charge the New Haven with monopolizing New England's water transportation, for if these were considered it would be found that the railroad company controlled only 6.1 per cent. of the water traffic of New England.

The New Haven contends that, practically speaking, its steamship lines are merely extensions of railroads, and are essential to the convenience of the public, and, in any case, the question of the propriety of its control of these steamship lines is now before the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has exclusive jurisdiction over it.

The New Haven asserts that no small part of the growth and development of New England has resulted directly from its policy of developing its transportation service. As a result it has produced transportation conditions unlike those of any other part of the country. The population is so dense and the cities are so numerous there is a most unusual shortness of haul for both freight and passengers. Consequently, public policy demanded the elimination of the inconvenience due to the existence of many separate and independent lines of railroads, trolleys, and steamboats, and dictated their combination under a common management and control.

So clearly is this recognized, the answer sets forth, that all the New England States have at various times taken steps in their own interests to bring about this common management and control, and the same public policy has been promoted by Boards of Railroad Commissioners and Public Service Commissioners, by legislative committees, and other public bodies.

Westchester-Port Chester Deal.

In the last ten years, the New Haven says, it has made such reductions in its freight rates as would have brought it in during the year ended June 30, 1913, $1,800,000. Moreover, it has had to bear large advances in wages and taxes, it has had heavy burdens laid upon it by State and Federal legislation, and it is losing $700,000 a year which the Government should pay it for carrying the parcel post. Consequently its revenues have been largely decreased, and it believes it ought to receive larger amounts from its freight and passenger transportation.

Taking up the allegations of the Government with reference to the New York, Westchester & Boston, the New Haven asserts that so far from opposing its application before the Public Service Commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity it favored it. It denies harassing the New York & Port Chester Company or that it was threatened by the competition of either of these companies.

It was, it asserts, well known that neither the Westchester nor the Port Chester could raise sufficient capital to complete their lines, and that for many years they were insolvent and helpless. It acquired the control of the Port Chester, which in turn controlled the Westchester & Boston, it states, with the express idea of obtaining a new and cheaper entrance to New York City than through the Grand Central terminal, for the use of which the charges paid by the New Haven have increased greatly in the last few years.

Then it discovered that the Westchester & Boston had the more satisfactory route, so the two companies obtained authority to merge, and the new lines were built over the routes which seemed the best. Such an acquisition of the Boston & Westchester and the Port Chester Companies, the New Haven asserts, was not pursuant to any general policy of monopoly, and was not intended to prevent these companies from becoming portions of interstate systems.

Old Soldiers for Hedges.

Veterans who fought in the civil war or in the Spanish war have formed the "Hedges Invincible Legion," hoping for a Hedges victory in the primaries and on Election Day. Brig. Gen. George Moore Smith commands the legion. Gen. Anson G. McCook is head of the War Council. Col. Henry L. Swords is Adjutant General and Lieut. Richard C. Daniel Assistant Adjutant General. Other names on the roster are Cols. John W. Vrooman, William S. Cogswell, George B. Schoeffel, Clarence E. Holmes, and Frank M. Clements; Majors Hugh White Adams, George E. Dewey, Hiram R. Steele, John J. Lyons, Arthur M. Tompkins, George W. Jean, and Commodore Edward Treachard.

PLANS FOR COLONY CLUB.

Modern Building Will Be Erected at Park Ave. and 62d St.

Plans for the new home of the Colony Club, to be erected on the northwest corner of Park Avenue and Sixty-second Street, at a cost of $400,000, were filed yesterday in the Building Bureau by the architects, Delano & Aldrich. The present home of the Colony Club, at 122 Madison Avenue, near Thirtieth Street, has been placed on the market, but if not sold before the new building is ready for occupancy, the club will reserve the privilege of remaining there until the Park Avenue clubhouse is finished.

The new house will be seven stories high, in Colonial architecture, ornamented with massive composite columns at the second and third stories. In the basement will be a swimming pool, 26.6 by 54 feet. A large ballroom will be the feature of the first floor, which will also contain a supper room, guests' room, and members' sitting rooms. On the second floor will be the library, lounge, private dining, and card rooms and the board room. The main dining room will be on the third floor. The gymnasium will occupy the greater part of the fifth and sixth floors, and on the top floor will be two squash courts.

J. B. HAGGIN LEFT $15,000,000 ESTATE

Mine Owner Divides His Property Among His Widow and His Children.

SON GETS NEW YORK HOME

Bequests Are Made to Daughters-in-Law and to His Grandchildren Also.

The will of James B. Haggin, the mine owner, who died on Saturday, was filed yesterday. It disposed of an estate worth $15,000,000. Mr. Haggin had homes at 587 Fifth Avenue in this city, in San Francisco, where he owned much real estate; in Woodford County, Ky., and in Newport, where he died.

The value of the estate was not given in the will, but Allen McCulloh, a lawyer, of 165 Broadway, set the figure for the property, which consisted of an interest in the Cerro de Pasco mines in Peru, the Homestake mines in South Dakota, lands in Kern County, Cal., and the great estate near Lexington, Ky., where prize Jersey cattle, tobacco, and hemp were the chief products. Mr. McCulloh asserted that Mr. Haggin's interest in horses was "only his amusement, not his business."

The will gives $50,000 each to a sister, Mrs. Laura E. Read, widow of Thomas Y. Read of Stockton, Cal., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Laura E. Amsden, widow of J. P. Amsden of Woodford County, Ky. Two other sisters-in-law, Mrs. Edith S. Hunter and Mrs. Ezza S. Railey of Woodford County, Ky., get $25,000 each, and his son, Louis T. Haggin, gets the house at 441 Madison Avenue in this city.

The residuary estate is then divided into five equal parts, of which one-fifth goes to the widow, Mrs. Margaret B. Haggin, in lieu of dower, and another fifth goes to the son, Louis T. Haggin. One-fifth, less $225,000, goes to a daughter, Mrs. Edith H. Lounsbery; of this $225,000 an item of $125,000 represents the value of the house at 14 East Fifty-second Street, which was a gift, and $100,000 is to be divided equally between Mr. Haggin's grandson, Richard Lounsbery, and his granddaughter, Mrs. Edith Lounsbery Perry.

Another fifth, less $50,000, is to go to a granddaughter, Mrs. Mabel McAfee Preston, daughter of Mrs. Adeline Ben Ali McAfee, who is dead. The $50,000 is to go to a grandson, Ben Ali McAfee. Out of the remaining one-fifth the executors are to set apart sufficient money for a net annual income of $15,000 for the benefit of a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lee W. Haggin, widow of Mr. Haggin's son, James Ben Ali Haggin. The remainder of this one-fifth is to go in equal shares to grandsons, James Ben Ali Haggin and Louis Lee Haggin. The last paragraph of the will reads:

"Since my marriage with my present wife I have given to her jewels of considerable value, which are at present kept either in the safe dposit vault at the Windsor Trust Company or in the safe at my home at 587 Fifth Avenue or in the personal possession of my said wife, and it is my will that no part or portion of these jewels shall be considered as any part or portion of my estate. They are gifts made to my wife from time to time and to which she has the exclusive right and title."

The widow is made executrix and the executors are the son, Louis T. Haggin, Allen McCulloh, and H. Esk Moller. The will is dated Jan. 13, 1913.

OSTRICH FEATHER TRADE.

Raw Material Cheap, but Finished Article Keeps Dear.

Although manufacturers of ostrich feathers in this market report that business booked for the Fall has been more satisfactory than in over a year's time, with every indication that it will improve as the season advances, Consul E. A. Wakefield writing from Port Elizabeth, South Africa, says that never since the ostrich feather industry assumed commercial importance has the present depressed condition of the local market been equaled.

This situation can scarcely be attributed entirely to the war, since before the outbreak of hostilities the London sales opening scheduled for July 27 was postponed. Stocks on hand at that time were large. Berlin and Vienna, it was then understood, would be the principal buyers, with great probability that the goods could not be shipped through, or even if delivered, paid for. This country under normal conditions takes about 40 per cent. of the world's supply, and if conditions are especially good, 60 per cent. With the raw materials and finished product then in stock, manufacturers both here and abroad were scarcely in a buying mood, so that it was considered best to delay the sales. But in the meantime production still continued on the usual scale in South Africa, with the result that prices have suffered a severe depression.

Consul Wakefield cites a case where twenty ostriches were sold at $1.25 each, where "a year ago any living thing that could grow an ostrich feather would easily have brought ten times that much." Several of the most prominent feather houses, he adds, have discharged their employes and for the time being ceased business.

Passing from the consideration of the raw product market, the manufacturers here find that the light buying featuring the opening of the Fall season in July has been succeeded by good, substantial orders. On the grades of goods demanded, prices that are asked are obtained, and in certain instances where the call has been especially strong better prices have been realized. On the average, however, the drop in raw material prices has been about 40 per cent. But, with fashion dictating the use of certain kinds of ostrich, the manufacturers do not favor the idea of making corresponding concessions, since they figure that fair profits are now due them after a year's inactivity.

SIEGEL DEPOSITORS MEET.

Plans Discussed for Telling Their Woes to Livingston County.

Eighty depositors in the failed bank attached to the Fourteenth Street Store of Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel met last night in the University Settlement, at Rivington and Eldridge Streets, and discussed the raising of funds to send a committee of depositors to Geneseo, where the grand larceny cases against Siegel and Vogel are to come up on Nov. 9.

The depositors seemed to fear that public opinion in Livingston County would favor the defendants, and it was decided to try to raise money to provide representation for the depositors. Among the methods suggested for raising money were an assessment on depositors, and a request to managers of theatres on the east side to give a part of their receipts.

Speakers were not lacking who thought that those who went to Geneseo ought to pay their own way, and several volunteered to do so. All the speakers agreed that further publicity of the wrongs of the depositors was demanded, and it was resolved to print circulars containing statements of the suffering consequent on the failure of the bank and spread them by mail throughout Livingston County. It was also suggested that advertisements be inserted in the Geneseo papers.

Another meeting was appointed for next Thursday night at the same place. Action will be taken then on the proposed parade before the Hotel Majestic, where Henry Siegel lives.

PROMOTER ACCUSED.

H. W. Hoops Causes Arrest of J. C. Smith for Stock Deal.

Herman W. Hoops, the candy manufacturer, caused the arrest yesterday of John Condit Smith, a promoter, whom he accused of having sold him $5,000 worth of the stock of the Battey Self-Threading Sewing Machine Company on false representations. Mr. Hoops said that in 1907 Smith told him that the capital stock of the company was all paid in, that the company was free of debt and that it owned the patents of the device which was to be put on the market.

Sampter B. Battey made an affidavit saying that he owned all the patents and that in 1906 he entered into an agreement with Smith to lease him the patents on the payment of $13,000. Mr. Battey said the payment was never made and that the agreement, therefore, became void. Smith was held in $5,000 bail.

Customs Collectors Dine.

Collectors of Customs and their deputies to the number of nearly one hundred, who are here attending their second annual convention, had a dinner last night at the Hotel Astor. Frank E. Fitzsimmons, Collector at Providence, acted as toastmaster. The speakers included Andrew J. Peters, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Frank M. Halstead, Chief of the Customs Division; Collector Malone, M. A. Franklin, Hawaii; John B. Elliott, Los Angeles, and Norman R. Hamilton, Virginia. The dinner was in charge of George J. Smyth, New York; Maurice Maschke, Cleveland; J. F. C. Griggs, Jacksonville, and Thomas E. Burke, Portland, Ore.

OPERATORS PARTLY ACCEPT

But Want Conference with President on Colorado Truce Plan.

DENVER, Sept. 17.—Acceptance of certain features of President Wilson's proposal for a three-year truce in the Colorado coal miners' strike was announced today by J. F. Welborn, President of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, also that some of the coal Presidents had asked for a conference with President Wilson to discuss those provisions which they were not prepared to accept. Mr. Welborn said:

"The coal operators will make individual replies by letter to the President's proposal. Certain features of the plan will be accepted. In addition a conference with the President has been asked by several of the operators in order to discuss with him certain practical difficulties in applying the proposed plan to local conditions."

Mr. Welborn declined to give any further information. A meeting of the operators of the State has been called for Saturday, at which time it is expected the details of the corporations' attitude will be decided. The union miners already have voted to accept the truce.

SILK TRAIN AFTER RECORD.

Cargo from Orient Worth $2,000,000 Being Rushed Across Continent.

A special train is now on its way across the continent bearing more than 500,000 pounds of raw silk worth slightly more than $2,000,000. The silk, imported from the Orient, was landed by the Great Northern steamship Minnesota, which arrived at Seattle last Sunday.

The Great Northern Railroad handled the silk by special train to St. Paul, and it is being handled by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and New York Central to New York. It is expected the train will make the fastest time on record from Seattle to this city.

Active Demand for New York City Issues—Many European Inquiries--Exchange Declines.

Highly gratifying response has been made to the public offering of the one, two and three year 6 per cent. obligations of New York City put out at par. One-half of the amount was reserved for the banking institutions which cooperated to finance the city, and in practically every case the banks and trust companies availed themselves of the opportunity to retain that proportion of the issue for investment. The public demand which developed yesterday made it plain that the bankers handling the transaction could place the entire amount among institutions here and elsewhere and with private investors who are attracted by the opportunity to obtain a short-term obligation of New York City on a 6 per cent. basis.

No definite figures were available yesterday by which to measure the possible demand for these issues in Europe, but many inquiries were received from the other side, and it was expected that a substantial amount would be placed abroad. It was believed, however, that the amount to be taken would be by no means as large as it would be if certain allowances in the way of insurance and commissions could be made. Such allowances can hardly be made in the present instance in view of the fact that the issues are being offered to the public at the price at which they were sold by the city. The syndicate is receiving a commission for its assumption of the exchange risk, but the net amount to be realized by the syndicate out of that commission cannot yet be determined.

The applications from abroad, although limited by the circumstances of the case, were sufficient to have some effect upon exchange rates, which were also favorably influenced by the gold shipments which have already been made, and by the arrangements which were making for the shipment of $4,000,000 more next week and probably an equal amount the week after. Improvement in the exchange market went yesterday at a more rapid pace than on any day since the present decline in rates began. Demand sterling dropped over two cents to 4.94½, Paris cables sold as low as 5.11, and mark cables were in the market as low as 96. Thus German exchange is closer to normal than any of the other European exchanges. This rather curious fact is due apparently to the fact that the exchanges between the United States and Germany were more nearly than the exchanges on either France or England on a purely commercial basis. There were thus no large financial operations outstanding between the German market and our own, such as those which have had an important part in shaping the recent course of French, and more particularly of English, exchange.

Our bankers are finding it somewhat easier to arrange discounts in London, where rates as low as 3 per cent. are quoted in some instances, while in others they range as high as 4 per cent. The nature of the bill affects the rate just now more than in normal times. The bank of England reported another large gold gain in its statement and a further gain on the day's bullion movements, thanks in a large measure to the deposit of American gold in Ottawa and the taking into the Bank's accounts of the new gold retained in South Africa. The return for the week showed a proportion of reserve to liabilities of 21.17, by far the largest percentage of reserve reported since the outbreak of the war.

Progress in clearing up the stock position here is indicated by the fact that in some instances loans are now being voluntarily paid off. The Stock Exchange still has some commitments left over from the July market to clear up, but the amount is relatively small and it is considered probable that the few who have not delivered stocks or taken them up will be required to do so shortly. It is likely, too, that from now on more thought will be given to the question of reopening trading on the Stock Exchange, probably on a limited scale and under restrictions. In high banking quarters the view is spreading that the reopening of trading in securities should not be delayed any longer than can be helped.

$25,000,000 R. I. BONDS IN.

Holders of $46,000,000 More Urged to Deposit Them at Once.

The committee looking after the interests of holders of the 4 per cent. collateral trust bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company announced yesterday that about $18,000,000 of the $71,300,000 bonds outstanding have been deposited in this country, while $7,000,000 are in charge of an auxiliary committee in Holland. The Central Committee proposes to purchase the stock of the Rock Island Railroad Company, which is pledged behind the bonds, in case the courts decide that the shares may be sold.

To insure the success of the proposed purchase, the committee urges that all bondholders deposit their holdings as soon as possible. James N. Wallace, President of the Central Trust Company, is Chairman of the committee.

To Bar Stocks in Enemies' Names.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The London Stock Exchange Committee today announced that it would shortly fix a date after which American stocks in the names of alien enemies would cease to be good for delivery. Members of the exchange holding such certificates are advised to take steps for their registration.

BIG FOUR PAYS TAXES.

Turns Over $31,631 as Corporation Assessment, but Government Sues for More.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 17.—The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad recently paid into the United States Internal Revenue office in this city $31,631 as its assessment for the Government corporation tax of the year 1909. The amount was the 1 per cent. excise on the road's more than three-million-dollar earnings for the year.

Notwithstanding this, a suit has been filed by United States District Attorney McPherson, in which the road is asked to hand over an additional $12,796, which is claimed to be due as part of the same account.

According to the Government, the reason for this proceeding is that the road omitted from its tax returns certain items which would have swelled its showing of earnings by $1,309,871.

WISCONSIN BANK CLOSES.

Racine Institution, Solvent, Suspends Because of Decrease in Deposits.

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 17.—The Commercial and Savings Bank closed here today. A statement issued late this afternoon gave the assets as $3,150,000 and the amount due depositors as $2,500,000.

The announcement declared that the bank had taken "this precautionary measure" because of the large decrease in deposits, the inability to call in the larger loans, heavy withdrawals and close collections. It was stated that there was no danger to depositors and that the bank was solvent.

The bank was organized in 1894 and the capital stock is $400,000.

Two other financial institutions in the city are National banks. There has been no indication of a run on them as a result of the closing of the Commercial.

Texas Pacific Earnings Improve.

The report of the Texas Pacific Railway Company for the year ended June 30, 1914, issued yesterday, shows operating revenue of $18,652,685, as against $18,078,783 the year before, and operating expenses of $14,238,007, as against $14,772,280. Net income was $1,485,847, equal to 5.94 per cent. on the second mortgage bonds, as against 2.37 per cent. the year before. Deductions for additions and betterments left a surplus of $377,779, as against a deficit the year before of $760,341.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Call money stands at 6@8 per cent. Mercantile paper was quoted at 6@7 per cent. for the best names.

Sight drafts on London were quoted about $4.96.

Cable transfers were quoted at $4.96½.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Felix M. Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. was elected a Director of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company yesterday to succeed his brother, Paul M. Warburg, who resigned from the board when he became a member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Holders of the first mortgage convertible bonds of the Ohio Copper Company have formed a Bondholders' Protective Committee, consisting of Frank V. Baldwin, Charles A. Marshall, and Gilbert Elliott. The Mutual Alliance Trust Company has been selected as depository for the bonds.

Jesse I. Straus of the firm of R. H. Macy & Co. was elected a Trustee of the Lincoln Trust Company yesterday.

Paul S. Sheldon of the Stock Exchange firm of Sheldon, Morgan & Co. has bought a seat on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Walter Farrington Wells, Vice President of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn, has been elected President of the Association of Edison Illuminating Companies.

BANKERS WILL URGE ACTION ON GOLD POOL

Committee on Foreign Exchange to Confer Again with the Federal Reserve Board.

QUICK DECISION IS SOUGHT

Mere Availability of a Fund of $150,000,000, They Believe, Would Help to Clear the Situation.

James B. Forgan, President of the First National Bank of Chicago and Chairman of the Bankers' Committee on Foreign Exchange, which was formed to devise ways of meeting the country's obligations abroad, conferred with a number of bankers of the financial district yesterday about the situation, and late in the day it was learned that the committee would go to Washington today to meet the members of the Federal Reserve Board. The local member of the committee is Benjamin Strong, Jr., President of the Bankers' Trust Company. President Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank, will attend the conference at Washington on his own account.

Bankers especially interested in the foreign exchange problem said that the proposal made a few days ago for the formation of a pool of banks all over the country to raise $150,000,000 in gold would be broadly discussed. While none would state that such was the fact, it was learned that pressure would be brought to bear by the committee, when the bankers and the Reserve Board have gone over the ground thoroughly, to have joint action taken immediately to raise the gold. The plan originally called for the appointment of numerous committees over the country, whose duty it would be to arrange with individual banks for a pledge of gold to the fund on a pro rata basis and to deliver the metal to a central committee in New York as there was need for it, or its equivalent in foreign exchange.

While the local bankers were distinctly pleased with the success of the city's sale of notes and the steps taken to meet its obligations maturing in Europe, they believed that other remedial measures would have to be taken to ease the foreign exchange market. The fall of exchange rates as the result of the transfer of gold to Ottawa and of exchange to London in course of settling the city's September maturities was considered satisfactory, but the bankers desired to bring about a further decline. At 4.94½ sight bills on London showed a decline of nearly three cents to the pound for the day, yet the exchange experts reported a heavy demand, and in some quarters it was thought that unless more gold was made available for the payments of our debts in Europe there would be a repetition of last week's increase in rates.

Bankers who discussed the exchange situation thought that no more than a moderate amount of the proposed gold pool of $150,000,000 would be needed for actual shipment. As time passes the supply of exchange is gradually increasing from the slow expansion of exportations to Europe, and the mere availability of the metal is expected to have much influence in reducing quotations. One foreign exchange house reported yesterday that a fair number of cotton bills were appearing every day, and an increasing number of finance bills have come into sight daily this week, as credits have loosened in London.

Against this gradual expansion in supply of exchange, the bankers point to the extensive demand which, they assert, will tend to grow greater as due dates come for making payments on debts in Europe. The Federal Reserve Board has been studying the exchange problem carefully since the $150,000,000 pool was suggested, according to bankers in close touch with Washington, and the joint meeting will have plenty of data to consider. The Reserve Board can take no official action on the matter as yet, but the bankers count upon its influence in completing the details of any plan to break the foreign exchange deadlock that may be formed.

John H. Allen Soon to Sail.

John H. Allen, the manager of the branch of the National City Bank to be opened shortly in Buenos Aires, will sail with his wife and four children on the White Star liner Olympic on Sept. 26, accompanied by eight members of the staff, and G. A. Gordon and H. R. Wilson, two engineers going down to inspect the new bank building. Kermit Roosevelt and his wife are going with the party on the Olympic.

REPORTS ON CLOSED BANKS

Supt. Richards Gives Assets of Four Private Institutions.

Eugene Lamb Richards, State Superintendent of Banks, announced yesterday the results of preliminary examinations of the affairs of four private banking concerns taken over recently and closed.

The assets of M. & L. Jarmulowsky, 165 East Broadway, are put at $654,000, and the liabilities at $1,703,000, leaving an excess of liabilities of $1,050,000. The condition was found to be due to unfortunate investments in mortgages on properties which had to be taken over. It is planned to avoid an immediate sale of the assets at a big sacrifice.

The assets of Max Kobre, 41 Canal Street, Manhattan, 1,783 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, and 81 Grand Street, Brooklyn, are put at $3,041,000, and the liabilities at $3,844,000, leaving an excess of liabilities of $808,000. An extensive real estate business was carried on and building loans and other contracts will require an immediate cash disbursement of $300,000. An immediate sale is to be avoided.

The assets of A. Grochowski, 292 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, Seventh Street and Avenue A, Manhattan, and Sylvester Avenue and Rockaway Road, Jamaica, are put at $411,000, and the liabilities at $735,000, leaving an excess of liabilities of $324,000. Investments in real estate that have suffered heavy depreciation was found to be the cause of the difficulties. Payment of a cash dividend soon and the deferment of the liquidation of the real estate is planned.

The assets of Deutsch Brothers, 319 East Houston Street, are put at $223,000, and the liabilities at $351,000, leaving an excess of liabilities of $28,000. The condition was found due to a lack of cash and depreciation of real estae. The receipt of $100,000 from the surety company on the bankers' bond is expected to put the department in a position to pay a substantial dividend to depositors. The realty is income-producing, and it is planned to hold the properties for the benefit of depositors until the market is more favorable for their disposition.

PASSES COMMON DIVIDEND.

International Harvester Corporation Feels Effect of War.

Directors of the International Harvester Corporation, which handles all the foreign business formerly conducted by the International Harvester Company, yesterday passed the common stock dividend of 1¼ per cent. for the present quarter. President Cyrus W. McCormick said after the meeting that the direct cause for this action was the fact that business had been brought nearly to a standstill by the war in Europe.

"From recent advices," he added, "we believe the corporation's losses in the countries at war will be less than we feared at first, but the situation in Europe makes it practically impossible to collect at this time a large portion of the money due us there."

The usual quarterly disbursement of 1¼ per cent. on the common shares of the International Harvester Company was ordered paid on Oct. 15 to stockholders of record on Sept. 28.

American Express Cuts Dividend.

The American Express Company yesterday reduced its quarterly dividend to 1 per cent. from 1½. Payment will be made on Oct. 1 to stockholders of record on Sept. 19. The company paid 12 per cent. a year for a long period before the Parcel Post and forced rate reduction cut into the income of the express companies.

Lake Superior Corporation Income.

The report of the Lake Superior Corporation for the year ended June 30, 1914, issued yesterday, shows income from subsidiary companies of $437,880 and other income $10,174, a total of $448,054. Expenses were $424,644, leaving a balance of $23,410.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

After the violent activity of Wednesday's market, yesterday's operations in wheat seemed rather tame, although there was a fluctuation of 3c a bushel, the close showing from 1¾c to 2c net decline. The Liverpool market was 1d to 1½d net higher, which was hardly a full response to the strength here on Wednesday. Cash prices in the local market were as follows: No. 2 red, $1.11½; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.11¼; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.16; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.16¼, all nominal, cost, insurance, and freight, Buffalo.

CORN.

Selling pressure was rather aggressive throughout the day, and prices declined steadily, closing 1⅝ to 1¾c under the previous night. The Liverpool market was ½d higher, due to firmness of Argentine markets and lighter offerings. In the local market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 85½c, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive, and Argentine strictly prime, 80c nominal delivered.

COTTON.

An announcement from the Conference Committee issued at the Cotton Exchange early yesterday morning indicated that 300 bales of December contracts had been liquidated by ballot at 9.90 for December, presumably as a result of Wednesday's operations in Liverpool. It was reported late in the afternoon that there would be further liquidation of 500 bales at the new price of 9.50 for December. The price of spot cotton has been marked down 20 points in Liverpool in keeping with the reduction in contracts, which should make the cotton more attractive to the spinner, and the Conference Committee here took occasion during the day to reiterate the rule that any member selling by ballot in Liverpool must either buy an equal amount in New York or show that the Liverpool sale was of an unhedged contract or against a special spot transaction. On the whole, therefore, the day's developments were rather more favorable for liquidation under the plans of the conference, while expectations of speedier relief from old contracts were increased by the statement of President Cone of the Exchange that the syndicate plan was being worked on, and that an announcement would be made in the very near future. The market at Augusta was steady at an advance of ⅜c, to 8⅞c, while Memphis reported an advance of ⅛c, to 8⅛c, with sales of 500 bales.

COFFEE.

Rather a more divided sentiment appears to have developed in the coffe market during the past few days. Only here and there does there appear to be any great confidence in advancing or even sustained values, but a fair demand has been reported in the cost and freight market around the present level of prices, and the impression is that Brazilian shippers have become rather firmer in their attitude. There are now something like 495,000 bags of coffee afloat for the United States, against 380,000 at this time last year, bringing the visible supply up to about last year's figures. In the local spot market Rio 7s were quoted at 6⅝c and Santos 4s at 11½c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 9,525 packages. Very quiet trading and a little too easy feeling on most grades of creamery, though prices are held about as of late. Process, ladles, and packing stock dragging, with values in buyers' favor. Creamery, extras, 32@32½c; firsts, 28½@31½c; seconds, 26@28c; thirds, 24@25½c; State dairy, finest, 30c; good to prime, 27½@29c; common to fair, 23@27c; process, extras, 26@26½c; firsts, 24½@25½c; lower grades, 22½@24c, imitation creamery, firsts, 24@25c; ladles, current make, firsts, 23½@24c; seconds, 22½@23c; lower grades, 21@22c; packing stock, June make, fine, 22@22½c; current make, No. 2, 21@21½c; lower grades, 19@20½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 19,965 cases. Some of the highest qualities of fresh stock are held unchanged, but the average prime stock and all medium and lower grades are dragging at lower and irregular prices. Storage eggs very quiet and values somewhat nominal. Near-by eggs in moderate supply and strictly fancy qualities are sustained, but the defective lots, which comprise the large part of the supply, are moving slowly. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 29@31c; extra firsts, 27@28c; firsts, 25@26c; seconds, 23@24c; thirds and poorer, 21@22c; dirties, No. 1, 22@22½c; No. 2 and poorer, 17@21c; checks, good to prime, dry, 21@22c; undergrades, 15@20c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 25c; firsts, 24@24½c; seconds, 23@23½c; undergrades, 20@22½c; State, Pennsylvania, and near-by hennery whites, fancy, large, new laid, 39@40c; hennery whites, defective, 33@38c; gathered whites, as to size and quality, 30@38c; Western, gathered whites, 27@32c; State, Pennsylvania, and near-by hennery, browns, 32@33c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 27@31c.

Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company

To the Holders of Collateral Trust Bonds of 2002:

1. The Committee announces that there have been deposited (or agreed to be deposited) under the Agreement of February 26, 1914, substantially $18,000,000 bonds, and that approximately $7,000,000 bonds have been deposited in Holland with a Committee formed there and with which this Committee is in communication.

2. The Trustee has declared the principal of the bonds to be due and has brought an action which is now pending, to foreclose the Trust Agreement and for the sale of the pledged stock.

3. The Trust Agreement provides, in case of default, for a sale of the pledged stock, and, in the absence of directions to the contrary by sixty per cent. in amount of the bonds, that at any sale at public auction, whether made by the Trustee or in pursuance of judicial decree, the pledged stock shall be sold in one block or parcel. No distribution of the pledged stock to bondholders is possible except through purchase under foreclosure.

4. It is impossible under existing conditions to carry through a plan making adequate provision for the future financial needs of the Railway Company. Accordingly the Committee is engaged in the preparation of a plan which will provide for the purchase under the plan of the pledged stock at foreclosure sale, but which will not deal in any way with the financial requirements of the Railway Company.

5. The Committee desires to make it perfectly plain to the bondholders that such a plan will require for its successful carrying out the concurrence of practically all the bondholders who on the acquisition and distribution pursuant to the plan, of the pledged stock, will, as stockholders, be entitled to full voting rights and to take action as they may deem best, for future financing. The plan above referred to is under preparation and its formal announcement may be expected next week.

BLAKE & KNOWLES STEAM PUMP WORKS

To the Holders of Preferred Stock:

The undersigned, owning and representing a large majority of the total Preferred Stock, have at the request of the majority holdings consented to act as a Committee for the protection of their interests, and hereby invite the outstanding holders to deposit their certificates of stock, endorsed in blank, with the BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City, not later than September 25th, 1914, under the terms of a Deposit Agreement, copies of which may be had on application to the Depositary or the Secretary.

Owing to the omission to pay the preference dividend for the first time in upwards of twenty years and to the appointment of Receivers of the International Steam Pump Company, which by virtue of its ownership of the common stock controls your Company and to the assertion by the International Company of a large debt against your Company, immediate action on your part is necessary for the protection of your interests.

PLAN TO LIQUIDATE O'NEILL-ADAMS CO.

Submitted to Associated Merchants' Company, Which Owns Control.

GUARANTEE GOES WITH IT

Also the Transfer of a Trading-Stamp Subsidiary—Plan Tentatively Approved.

The Directors of the Associated Merchants' Company met at 2 Wall Street yesterday and received a report from its Executive Committee outlining a plan for the settlement of the indebtedness of the O'Neill-Adams Company to the H. B. Claflin Company, amounting to $3,900,000. The Associated Merchants' Company owns the control of both the other companies, and its Executive Committee has been at work for several weeks with the Claflin receivers and representatives of the creditors of the Claflin Company on plans for the compromise of this claim.

This debt of the O'Neill-Adams Company, which is partly for merchandise but chiefly for money advanced, was an open account, which was not being pressed by the Claflin Company up to the time it went into receivership. It then became one of the largest single assets which it was the duty of the receivers to collect or compromise.

One element in the Noteholders' Committee contended that the Associated Merchants' Company, owning 80 per cent. of the O'Neill-Adams stock, was liable for the debt, but this contention was dropped upon the holding company agreeing to guarantee the realization of a certain amount from the liquidation of the O'Neill-Adams business.

The plan submitted to the Associated Merchants Directors yesterday was the result of the negotiations among the various interests. It contemplates the liquidation of the O'Neill-Adams Company. The plan has not been reduced to writing, but represents a tentative understanding. It provides that the Associated Merchants' Companay shall buy from the O'Neill-Adams Company for $500,000 the Surety Coupon Company, a trading-stamp subsidiary. This $500,000 will be applied by the O'Neill-Adams Company to its indebtedness to the H. B. Claflin Company. The Associated Merchants' Company is also to guarantee that the receivers of the H. B. Claflin Company will realize $1,000,000 from the liquidation of the O'Neill-Adams business.

The plan provides that the indebtedness of the O'Neill-Adams Company for merchandise, which amounts only to about $150,000, shall be paid ahead of other claims. Its bank indebtedness is understood to be about $450,000, partly secured.

The Associated Merchants' Directors at their meeting yesterday approved the action of the Executive Committee and authorized it to continue its negotiations for a detailed agreement on the lines indicated. They will meet again today, when the plan may be ready for final action. As soon as it is finally closed it is expected that the receivers for the Claflin Company, J. B. Martindale and Frederic A. Juilliard, will apply to the United States District Court for authority to accept it.

NEW POWER FOR NEW HAVEN

Following the monthly meeting of the Directors of the New Haven Railroad yesterday it was announced that the officers had been authorized to contract for additional electric power sufficient to increase the number of trains operated by electricity between New York and New Haven from the present 37 per cent. to 70 per cent. of the total. Full electric operation, it was stated, would require the purchase of additional equipment, which could not be undertaken under present financial conditions. An appropriation of $51,568 was authorized for improvements to the signal system in connection with the electric work.

It was also announced that the Interstate Commerce Commission planned to begin valuation work on the New Haven on April 1, and that the company had its data in shape for submittal.

The Directors of the Central New England accepted the resignation of James H. Hustis as Director and Vice President, due to his election as President of the Boston & Maine. J. M. Tomlinson, General Auditor of the New Haven, was elected in his place.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..6@7 per cent. for the best names.
Wednesday.6@7 " " " " " "
The quotation is for six months' paper.

The Raw Silk Summary.

Business is rather quiet in the local raw silk market, as buyers are limiting their purchases to actual needs. Prices are irregular and slightly lower than last week. Curtailment by the broad silk mills is affecting business adversely. According to H. L. Gwalter & Co., the Milan reelers, show a willingness to resume shipments to this country, but Italian silks are high and out of proportion to Asiatic raws. The Yokohama market is not very active, and prices continue easy. Sales for the week there amounted to 3,000 bales. No silk was shipped to Europe. Few quotations are received from the Canton market, and Shanghai contiues quiet with prices more or less nominal for steam filatures and tsatlee silks.

Gray Goods Buying Lags.

There was not a great deal of activity in the local gray goods market yesterday, but prices continued firm at recent levels. Many of the mills wanted more than the buyers would pay. Most of the printcloth trading resulted in contracts for deliveries running to the end of the year. There was not much buying of sheetings, but favorable prices on drills induced some trading and quite a little bidding. Fine yarn goods continued to move steadily. The day's closing printcloth prices follow:

| | |
|---|---|
| 39-inch, 80-80s....6c | 38½-inch, 64-56s..4c |
| 39-inch, 72-76s....5⅝c | 38½-inch, 60-52s..3⅞c |

War and the French Ribbons.

Pascal Tavernier, President of the St. Etienne, France, Chamber of Commerce, wrote this letter on Aug. 6 to Consul W. H. Hunt, who is stationed in that city: "The St. Etienne Chamber of Commerce would appreciate it very much if you would be kind enough to inform your Government of the present state of our ribbon industries, the progress of which is at a complete standstill on account of the conditions created by the European war. The ribbon manufacturers of St. Etienne would be glad if the United States Government could make it known to American ribbon buyers, through the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, that the present disturbed conditions will not hinder local manufacturers from accepting and filling American orders as usual."

Silversmiths' Business Good.

According to one of the most prominent silversmiths in the Maiden Lane district, there are more jewelry buyers in town at the moment than is usually the case at this time of the year. Most of them are from the South and Middle West, though some of the Far-Western buyers are reported to be coming in later than they usually do. Buying of silverware shows conservatism generally, especially so in Southern orders, but the aggregate business booked is said to compare very favorably with that of last year. Gold jewelry is apparently not faring so well, and the gem dealers are also having a somewhat dull period. Prices have not changed on gems, it is said, for the reason that the demand is not great enough to warrant a change. Road business coming in is said to be good, though it shows signs of the conservatism that marks buying by the merchants who are here.

For Holding Fur Auctions.

The general plan and scope of the movement to hold fur auctions in this city instead of London was discussed at a meeting of the Raw Fur Merchants' Association held yesterday at the Grand Hotel. Following this, a conference of the committee of eleven representing the allied fur interests in this city, of which O. Godfrey Becker of Becker Brothers & Co. is Chairman, took place at the rooms of the Fur Merchants' Credit Association. A draft of by-laws for the proposed $1,000,000 corporation to be formed to conduct the fur auctions was considered. Under the present plan the capital of this company will be subscribed and fully paid in by members of the fur trade of this country. The enthusiasm with which the idea of making New York a raw fur centre has been received indicates, it is said, the success of the movement. The meetings held yesterday will be followed up by others in the very near future.

Tobacco Dealers Disturbed.

Talk of a restoration of the taxing system which marked Spanish-American war times is causing some anxiety here on the part of the retail tobacconists. As the report has come from Washington, a dealer in tobacco whose annual sales exceed 50,000 pounds will have to pay a tax of $12, and the text of the regulation in the Spanish-American war days said that "every person whose business it is to sell, or offer for sale, manufactured tobacco, snuff, or cigars shall be regarded as a dealer in tobacco." Internal revenue officers say that the old text was construed to apply to retail cigar stores, but there are dealers here who say that no such tax was paid in those days. No one seems to know how the Government would know if a dealer did a business exceeding 50,000 pounds annually, and there is some wonderment as to whether, if the project is put through, the chain stores can cover all their shops with a single fee of $12 under cover of the word "dealer." The plan is looked on as a hardship for the small retailers, who are said to be having a hard fight for commercial existence.

Credit Men Hold Annual Meeting.

All the officers of the New York Credit Men's Association were re-elected at the annual meeting of that body yesterday at 320 Broadway. They include: President, E. D. Flannery of A. Steinhardt & Brother; First Vice President, W. F. H. Koelsch of the Bank of the United States; Second Vice President, E. S. Boteler of G. K. Sheridan & Co.; Treasurer, Owen Shepherd of the International Paper Company, and Secretary, A. H. Alexander. The Executive Committee of the association was increased to fourteen members, and Max L. Masius of Seeman Brothers and R. J. Wall of the National Lead Company were elected to serve two years with F. S. Flagg, U. S. Kelby, W. T. Black, W. E. Thatcher, and H. C. Bainbridge, Jr., all of whom have two years to serve on the committee. J. O. Hobby, Jr., of the American Locomotive Company and G. E. Chapin of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company were elected to the committee for one year to fill it and to even matters up. No reports were read. They will be published in the October issue of the association's bulletin instead. The membership is now 1,456.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The annual dinner of the New York Credit Men's Association will be held at the Hotel Astor on Oct. 15. Among the speakers will be Mayor Mitchel, C. E. Meek, President of the National Association of Credit Men, and, probably, John Barrett, Director of the Pan-American Union.

A meeting of the Directors of the Dry Goods Union will be held on Tuesday next at 55 White Street.

The American Manufacturers' Export Association will hold its first monthly luncheon of the season at the Whitehall Club today at 1 o'clock. A meeting of the Directors of the association will take place immediately prior to the luncheon to deal with the plans for the annual convention to be held at the Hotel Biltmore Oct. 22.

W. A. Graham Clark, Commercial Agent in charge of the Atlanta office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, has been assigned to the New York office, at 315 Custom House, for a week to supply manufacturers and exporters information in regard to foreign markets for cotton goods. Mr. Clark has made special investigations for the Department of Commerce in Japan, South America, and various other countries.

PELL FAILURE TO MASTER.

Judge Mayer Makes Orders in Cotton Firm's Affairs.

Judge Mayer in the Federal District Court yesterday sent a large number of preferential claims against the bankrupt firm of S. H. P. Pell & Co., many of which are against the securities in the hands of Theodore H. Price, Arthur R. Marsh, and Joseph M. Hartfield, the receivers, for adjudication to a Special Master.

On the ground that the bankrupt firm had no lien in the matter, Judge Mayer ordered the receivers to deliver to Willard H. Bronson 1,359 common and 400 preferred shares of Acme Graphite, a subscription for 16,725 Graphite 6s, 2 shares of Canadian Mining Company, 10 shares of Nickel common, 17,255 shares of Consolidated Arizona, $10,000 Consolidated Arizona 5 per cent. bonds, and a letter in relation to Christoble Sugar Company bonds.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

THE FEATURE PICTURE THEATRE COMPANY OF AMERICA, at Forty-eighth Street and Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $26,697 and nominal assets of $50,399, consisting of a lease of the property $50,000, cash in bank $244, cigars $50, and pictures $5. Felix Isman, President of the company, which was incorporated on Aug. 28, 1913, with capital stock of $50,000, is the largest creditor, $13,-883, for money lent.

PATTERSON & HARRAL.—John Waeldin and Francis Harral, doing business as Patterson & Harral, jobbers in hardware and cutlery at 88 White Street, had a petition in bankruptcy filed against them yesterday by Adolph Kastor & Brothers, $1,300; Foster, Merriam & Co., $2,177, and Herman & Dixon, $100. The liabilities are put at $50,000 and assets $40,000.

WOLCHONOK & PETTER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Max Wolchonok and Isidore Petter, who compose the firm of Wolchonok & Petter, manufacturers of furs, at 36 West Thirty-second Street, by Morris Weisser, $260; Benjamin Bohm, $800 and Max Peltzman, $50. Liabilities are $6,000 and assets $2,000.

MAX SILVER MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Max Silver, trading as the Max Silver Manufacturing Company, manufacturer of dresses at 68 and 70 Grand Street, by H. Abrams, $2; S. E. Converse, $460, and Frederick R. A. Stiefel, $200, all on assigned claims. Liabilities are $5,000.

ISAAC RUBINSTEIN, dealer in furniture at 83 Avenue B, has assigned to Marcus Helfand. A petition in bankruptcy was also filed against him by Monroe Table Company, $164; Empire Table Company, $130; Joseph Adisman, $150, and Berner & Berner, $283. Liabilities are $4,000 and assets $2,000.

VINCENZO MANZIONE.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Vincenzo Manzione, shoe dealer at 3,804 White Plains Avenue, Bronx, by Charles Fridenberg, $300, and A. Richard Shoe Company.

JOSEPH COHEN of Joseph Cohen & Sons, commission merchant at 1,182 Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $1,864 and no assets.

CHARLES ARONOWITZ & BROTHERS, importers of diamonds at 71 Nassau Street, have filed schedules which show liabilities of $176,582 and assets of $125,099.

LOUIS WEISS, dealer in clothing at Poughkeepsie, has filed schedules which show liabilities of $8,424 and assets of $1,450.

OHIO COPPER MINING COMPANY.—The order appointing Morris J. Hirsch and George C. Austin receivers for the Ohio Copper Mining Company of 100 William Street, was filed in the Clerk's office of the United States District Court yesterday. It was stated that there is 3,000,000 pounds of copper in the hands of the American Smelting and Refining Company, which has made advances on it of $45,000. A part of this copper, valued at $25,000, represented by warehouse receipts, has been pledged to the American Surety Company. The Bingham Central Railway Company has attached the property in Utah for $30,000. The Ohio Copper Mining Company has a claim against the Assets Realization Company for $15,000. Among the assets is $500 cash in bank.

THOMAS CALLAHAN.—Judge Mayer has appointed John W. Remer receiver in bankruptcy for Thomas Callahan, liquor dealer at 617 Third Avenue; bond, $500.

PLOXIN BROTHERS.—Judge Mayer has appointed E. A. Johnson receiver in bankruptcy for Ploxin Brothers, manufacturers of suit cases at 112 Franklin Street; bond, $500.

VALLEY FORGE CUTLERY COMPANY.—Randolph Perkins, receiver for the Valley Forge Cutlery Company of 105 Duane Street, has arranged with the receivers of Herman Boker & Co. for advances to complete partly finished product of the Valley Forge Cutlery Company, and to market the product. The Valley Forge Cutlery Company was owned by Herman Boker & Co.

NEW YORK HOLDING AND CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.—The New York Holding and Construction Company, concrete construction, of 15 East Fortieth Street, has assigned to Arthur N. Taylor. It is the successor to the Ribbed Concrete Building Company.

NEW YORK CONFECTIONERS' UTENSIL COMPANY.—The New York Confectioners' Utensil Company, manufacturer of ice cream cans at 71 Varick Street, has assigned to Julius J. Klein.

COHEN BROTHERS.—Jacob M. and Henry Cohen of Cohen Brothers, cigar manufacturers, at 345 West Broadway, have assigned to Hugo Levy.

THE GLOVE SITUATION.

Makers Facing a Strike on Hand and a Lack of Leather.

The importation of gloves for the Fall season is practically at a standstill except for some very light shipments being received from Italy. Importers will fill, they say, about one-third of the orders received. Manufacturers expect to be able to supply all the goods for which orders have been taken. They will accept no further commitments, however, unless the buyers allow for any delay in delivery that may occur.

The only raw material supply open to the domestic manufacturers, after having exhausted the stocks now held, will be the very low grade leathers that are produced here. These are unsuited, it is claimed, for use in manufacturing dress gloves.

The strike now in progress at Gloversville is another disturbing factor in a situation far from satisfactory. It leaves the domestic houses in a very little more advantageous position to supply the demand made upon them than that in which the importers are placed.

Advances in the finished product range all the way from 6 to 20 per cent. These increases were made necessary, it is said, by the fancy prices demanded by dealers who sold the factories in need of material.

Credit Men Laud Wilson.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Hotel Astor of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Credit Men, resolutions were adopted and sent to President Wilson expressing appreciation of his attitude toward the nations at war. The resolution recognized "with high regard the concern of the President of the United States and his apparent willingness to extend, as the nation's Chief Executive, its best offices for the restoration of order and good will, and all with a regard for our neutrality."

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS.
FRANCHISE MATTERS.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN PURsuant to law that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held June 19, 1914, the following petition was received:

To the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York:

The Steinway route of the rapid transit railroads bisects our North Shore Freight Yard. We are about to grant to the City of New York an easement for construction through our property. In order to do this it will be necessary for us to rearrange our yard, and the plan by which this will be done, which plan and rearrangement is a condition precedent to the easement grant, will require the occupation of public streets beneath the surface, as shown on map and plan hereto annexed, in red.

We, therefore, ask the consent of your Board to the end that we may occupy the streets as indicated and operate our railroad on tracks to be placed therein.

The existing tracks shown on said map and plan, hereto annexed, in white, beneath Vernon, Jackson and East Avenues, were constructed as part of the original charter route of the Flushing and North Side Railroad Company in or about 1868.

Your petitioner is at present occupying beneath the surface of Vernon Avenue 3,800 square feet and under East and Jackson Avenues 4,018 square feet. The existing tracks number four under Vernon Avenue and two under East Avenue and two under Jackson Avenue.

The Railroad Company contemplates construction and operation of four additional tracks under Vernon Avenue and two additional tracks under Jackson Avenue and under East Avenue.

The additional amount of subsurface to be occupied by these tracks is in the case of Vernon Avenue 3,300 square feet; in the case of Jackson and East Avenues combined, 4,986 square feet.

The proposed wall along the south side of 6th Street will occupy 6,567 square feet of the subsurface of that street and the proposed northerly retaining wall under Jackson and East Avenues will similarly occupy 1,972 square feet.

The changes in grade proposed for Vernon Avenue contemplate a maximum rise of 1.3' of the railroad and the total length of street affected is 300'. The change in grade proposed for 6th Street contemplates a rise of 1.7' at 6th Street and Vernon Avenue and the total distance throughout which change of grade is proposed is 290'. Change of grade at East Avenue contemplates a maximum rise of the railroad of 1.5' and the total distance over which change is contemplated is 195'. The change in grade of Jackson Avenue contemplates a rise of 1.8' of the railroad and 230' of street affected by the change proposed.

Dated, New York, June 10, 1914.
Respectfully submitted,
THE LONG ISLAND RAILROAD COMPANY.
By FRANK E. HAFF, Secretary.

State of New York, County of New York, ss.:

On the 10th day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, before me personally came Frank E. Haff, to me known, who, being by me duly sworn, did depose and say that he resided in Richmond Hill, Borough of Queens, City of New York, that he is the Secretary of The Long Island Railroad Company, the corporation described in and which executed the above instrument; that he knew the seal of said corporation; that the seal affixed to said instrument was such corporate seal; that it was so affixed by order of the Board of Directors of said corporation, and that he signed his name thereto by like order.

HARRY K. HOWLAND, Notary Public,
Queens County, No. 228. Certificate filed New York County, No. 46. Term expires March 30, 1916.

—and at the meeting of August 27, 1914, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The foregoing petition from the Long Island Railroad Company, dated June 10, 1914, was presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at a meeting held June 19, 1914:

Resolved, That in pursuance of law, this Board sets Monday, the twenty-first day of September, 1914, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and Room 16, in the City Hall, Borough of Manhattan, as the time and place when and where such petition shall be first considered, and a public hearing be had thereon, at which citizens shall be entitled to appear and be heard; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary is directed to cause such petition and these resolutions to be published for at least twice in two daily newspapers in the City of New York, to be designated by the Mayor, and for at least ten (10) days in The City Record immediately prior to such date of public hearing. The expense of such publication to be borne by the petitioner.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—ST. LUKE'S HOME FOR AGED WOMEN, Plaintiff, against FANNY GRUEN and others, Defendants.

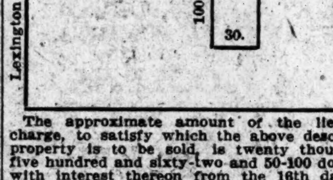
In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 2d day of September, 1914, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 30th day of September, 1914, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Charles A. Berrian, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the building and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, of the City of New York, in the County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southerly side of Ninety-sixth Street, distant one hundred and sixty feet westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly side of Ninety-sixth Street with the westerly side of Third Avenue; running thence southerly parallel with Third Avenue and part of the way through a party wall one hundred feet eight and one-half inches; thence westerly parallel with Ninety-sixth Street thirty feet; thence northerly and again parallel with Third Avenue, and part of the way through a party wall one hundred feet eight and one-half inches to the southerly side of Ninety-sixth Street, and thence easterly along the southerly side of Ninety-sixth Street, thirty feet to the point or place of beginning. Said premises being now known by the street number 170 East 96th Street.

Dated New York, September 8, 1914.
HENRY A. FORSTER, Referee.
NASH & JONES, Attorneys for Plaintiff, 63 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold, and its street number is 170 East 96th Street:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above described property is to be sold, is twenty thousand, five hundred and sixty-two and 50-100 dollars, with interest thereon from the 16th day of July, 1914, together with costs and allowance amounting to three hundred and thirty-five and 66-100 dollars, with interest thereon from September 2, 1914, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money or paid by the referee, is one hundred and ninety-eight and 80-100 dollars and interest.

Dated New York, September 8, 1914.

SUMMONSES.

CITY COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW York.—PHILIP A. ROLLINS, Alfred A. Wheat, Roswell S. Nichols, and William S. Woodhull, Plaintiffs, against FREDERICK A. MOORE, Defendant.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiffs' attorney within six days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated August 8th, 1914.
FULTON J. REDMAN,
Attorney for Plaintiffs,
32 Nassau Street,
Manhattan, New York City.

To Frederick A. Moore:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Honorable Alexander Finelite, one of the Justices of this Court, dated the 10th day of September, 1914, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the City Court of the City of New York, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York.

Dated New York, September 10th, 1914.
FULTON J. REDMAN,
Plaintiffs' Attorney,
32 Nassau Street,
Manhattan, New York City.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The southern storm passed inland during Wednesday night and Thursday night its centre was over Alabama. This disturbance has diminished greatly in intensity but during the last twenty-four hours it caused general showers in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, and during Wednesday night it caused strong shifting winds on the South Atlantic Coast.

Another disturbance is central off the North Atlantic Coast and is attended by unsettled weather and rains in Washington and Oregon. In other parts of the country the weather remained generally fair.

Temperatures have not changed decidedly in any section and are now near or slightly above the normal generally.

Except for showers in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States and the Far Northwest the weather will be generally fair without material change in temperature in practically all parts of the country during the next forty-eight hours.

Storm warnings are displayed on the North California Coast.

Winds along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate variable Friday and Saturday; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate variable but mostly east; South Atlantic Coast, moderate east and southeast.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND SATURDAY.

New York, New Jersey, New England and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday and Saturday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

| | 1913. | 1914. | | 1913. | 1914. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 3 A. M. | 60 | 65 | 4 P. M. | 70 | 81 |
| 6 A. M. | 60 | 64 | 6 P. M. | 68 | 77 |
| 9 A. M. | 67 | 66 | 9 P. M. | 67 | 75 |
| 12 M. | 70 | 78 | 11 P. M. | 66 | 70 |

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 74; for the corresponding date last year it was 66; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 66.

O'Donnell, art, $960; Mary Dennister, education, $960; Martha Hoerman, German, $960; Dora Askowitt, history, $960; Sally Kutz, physical training and hygiene, $960; Augusta Neidhardt, Ruth Collins, Amy Woodell, Mabel Ritti, physical training, $840 each; Blanche Brine, physical training, $720; Mary B. Joyce, history, $720.

The following additional Hunter College appointments have been made: Helen L. Tonks, asst. instr. in pedagogy, $1,160; Ida M. Hollis, tutor in history, $900; Doris Spier and Nellie Lodge, tutors in natural science, $900; Clara Wells, tutor in physics, $900; Helen E. Reed, tutor in music, $900.

A temporary license as asst. teacher of nature study in a training school for teachers has been granted to Jacob E. Clark of Roslyn Heights, N. Y.

A written examination for license as substitute teacher in high school in the following subjects will be held in the auditorium of the De Witt Clinton High School at 2 P. M. on Sept. 23: Biology, chemistry, commercial branches, economics, elocution, English, French, German, history, Latin, mathematics, physics, Spanish, stenography, and typewriting. The pay is $4 each day of actual service. An oral examination will be conducted on the same day, or later, at the call of the Board of Examiners.

The new evening high school on 145th Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, registered 1,000 pupils on the first three nights of this week. It is a mixed school. The school is in charge of John T. Nicholson, who is Principal of P. S. 186.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Sept. 30 to pay tribute to the memory of the late James E. Sullivan, who was Chairman of its Committee on Special Sessions and a member of its Committee on Athletics.

The annual meeting of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers will be held early in October; Dist. Supt. Grace C. Strachan will be re-elected President.

The term of office of Walter L. Hervey, one of the Board of Examiners, will end on Sept. 27. He has been renominated by City Supt. Maxwell to succeed himself. It is said that, as members of the Board of Examiners are appointed from a civil service list upon nomination of the City Supt., Mr. Hervey should obtain a place on the eligible list. For some time the work of the Board of Examiners has been under investigation by the Board of Education. Mr. Hervey will hold over until his successor is chosen. The term of office is six years.

STEUER EXAMINES KLAW.

Referee Holt to Send Physician to Examine Miss St. Clair.

Marc Klaw of Klaw & Erlanger was cross-examined by Max D. Steuer at yesterday's session of the hearing of charges of unprofessional conduct against Steuer before Referee George C. Holt.

Klaw's testimony in the suit by Miss St. Clair against Klaw & Erlanger was to the effect that Steuer had threatened an "ugly scandal" concerning A. L. Erlanger unless the contract was signed giving $25,000 to Miss St. Clair in ten annual payments. At the previous trial Klaw was also called to contradict the testimony of Steuer that he had been on friendly terms with Erlanger after the contract was signed.

Referee Holt decided yesterday that a physician should be sent to report on the condition of Miss St. Clair, who was to be the chief witness against Steuer. A physician's certificate that she was very nervous and could not be put on the stand for three weeks was submitted on Tuesday to Referee Holt.

Klaw will be the last witness called by Assistant District Attorney Manley and William T. Jerome, who are prosecuting Steuer before Miss St. Clair takes the stand. At today's hearing letters written by Steuer, the $25,000 contract, court records and other documents will be submitted.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Builder Buys Block Front in Bronx Borough for New Apartment Houses—Sale at Westbury—Buys Bronxville Dwelling Plot—Business and Residence Leases.

Apartment house activity, which has been one of the notable features of the Bronx recently, received another impetus yesterday in the purchase by John P. Boyland of the block front on the west side of Ryer Avenue, between Field Place and 184th Street, fronting 197.4 feet on the avenue, 75.2 on Field Place, and 52 on 184th Street. The property was sold through the agency of McLernon Brothers, who have lately made several important deals in the immediate locality.

The new owner intends to erect at once on the plot two five-story apartment houses. The site is close to the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, extending westerly to within nine feet of that broad thoroughfare, the small strip being the remaining portion of a 100-foot plot prior to the widening of the Concourse.

Bronx Sales.

B. H. Weisker has sold for Frederick H. Levey, to a builder, for improvement, a plot, 75 by 115, on the east side of Davidson Avenue, 150 feet north of 184th Street.

Cahn & Pittman sold for the Value Realty Company to Fannie R. Ross the three-story frame building, with store, on a lot 25 by 75, known as 844 Jackson Avenue.

Brooklyn.

Henry Pierson & Co. have sold the two-family dwelling at 210 Lenox Road, 20 by 130, for John W. Jones to a client for occupancy.

Long Island.

The Westbury Manor Company has sold through Henry Pierson a three-story dwelling, occupying a plot 60 by 100, on the corner of Butler and Henry Streets, to Robert Renners, for occupancy; also a plot of five lots on Henry Street to a client, who will build a dwelling.

The Windsor Land and Improvement Company sold, at Hempstead, to Catharine Lawless a plot, 40 by 125, on Willow Avenue, and to Eugene Brown a plot 40 by 104, at Grand and Acacia Avenues.

In the Fourth Ward of the Borough of Queens the New York and Suburban Land Company has sold a plot 60 by 100 on Oxford Place to Robert E. Heyman, a plot 40 by 100 on Sterling Place to Thomas J. Donnelly, a plot 40 by 100 on Kinsey Avenue to Elsie Sacks, and a plot 40 by 100 on Park Avenue to Albert Wendell.

New Jersey.

At Garwood, N. J., the New York and Suburban Land Company has sold a plot 40 by 100 on Hickory Avenue and plot 20 by 100 on Center Street to Mrs. Emma C. Hawkins, a plot 20 by 150 on Third Avenue to Louis M. Winczel, a plot 40 by 100 on South Avenue to J. M. Hicks.

Sale at Bronxville.

Fish & Marvin have sold for the Tanglewylde Company a tract of land at Bronxville to R. Carlton Fontaine of New York City. He will erect a building on the premises in the near future.

Commercial Leases.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company have leased for a term of years the store 801 Madison Avenue for Thomas Anderson Hawes to Lewando's French Dyeing and Cleaning Company of Boston, Mass.

Ludwig C. Traube leased the store at 1,256 Madison Avenue to Weintraub & Berkenfeld for a number of years. Also the store at 1,258 Madison Avenue to Frank Giaio.

Horace S. Ely & Co. in conjunction with Van Norden & Wilson, have leased the store, basement, and rear portion of the first floor at 151 Broadway to Louis Haines for a restaurant.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased in conjunction with Messrs. Goodale, Perry & Dwight 25 West Eleventh Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 20 by 103, to a client for occupancy.

Shaw & Co. have leased for the F. F. Freehold Estates the three-story dwelling 110 East 127th Street to Julia Mulhall.

The Houghton Company has leased for Charles A. Starbuck the five-story American basement dwelling 302 West Ninety-seventh Street to Joseph F. Gross for a term of years.

Kenneth Ives & Co. have leased for Frank Daniels his country place at Rye to Van Horn Ely. The property consists of a residence, cottage, garage, and about twelve acres, situated on the Boston Post Road.

Pease & Elliman have rented for W. W. Richards his home on Glenwood Avenue, Belle Haven, Greenwich, Conn., to Mrs. John O'Hara Cosgrave, and for Joseph M. Levy the three-story house, between Ninety-first and Ninety-second Streets, at 1,277 Madison Avenue, to Henri Conrad.

Fish & Marvin have rented for the Residence Company of Lawrence Park the property known as Valley View to Lee B. Durstine of New York, Vice President of the White Investing Company, and the Caesar property at Lawrence Park to Roy C. Andrews of the American Museum of Natural History.

Guarding Realty Interests.

The Legislative and Laws Committee, a subcommittee of the Board of Counsel of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, held its first meeting this week at the office of the council. Walter Lindner was elected Chairman and the following lawyers will serve upon the committee for the coming year: Everett V. Abbot, Henry R. Chittick, Julius Henry Cohen, John H. Kuhn, Louis Franklin Levy, Harold M. Phillips, William Allaire Shortt, John M. Stoddard, Seth Sprague Terry.

This committee will meet on Monday afternoons to consider constructive or existing legislation affecting real estate interest, or the repeal of oppressive real estate legislation, while during the legislative sessions attentive and analytic study of proposed legislation will be maintained.

The committee has recommended that the Advisory Council immediately endeavor through the committee to secure a change in the recent income tax decision of the Treasury Department to the effect that indebtedness secured by mortgage upon property to which the corporation has taken or is taking title, or in which it has an equity, is the indebtedness of the corporation, and the interest payments on such indebtedness cannot be deduced except to the extent that the whole amount of interest paid upon bonded or other indebtedness does not exceed an amount paid upon a sum not in excess of the paid-up stock outstanding the close of the year.

The original decision of the Attorney General under the former corporation tax law permitting deductions from the income tax returns for the interest paid by corporations, upon mortgages covering their property, when not made or assumed by the corporations, has been modified and superceded by this late decision which the committee believes is not in accordance with the language of the act.

Real Estate Notes.

Levin Brothers Company, Inc., have obtained the contract from William Soons of New Hampton, N. Y., for the general contract to reconstruct the four houses 1, 3, 5, 7 Walton Avenue, recently destroyed by fire.

The New York Mortgage and Security Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent., payable Oct. 1, 1914.

Louis Kamm, Vice President and Treasurer of the Newark real estate firm of Louis Schlesinger, Inc., has retired from that firm and has organized the firm of Louis Kamm, Inc., with offices at 16 Clinton Street, Newark, N. J. William W. Kamm has also retired from the Schlesinger firm and will be Secretary of the new realty concern.

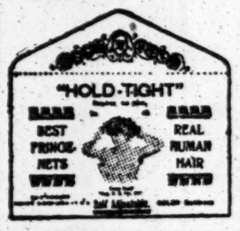
LEGAL NOTICES.

STATE OF NEW YORK, CITY OF NEW York, County of New York, ss.:

I, ADOLPH KLAR, doing business under the name and style of HOLD-TIGHT HAIR NET CO., hereby certify that I have my principal office and place of business at No. 221 Fourth Avenue, in the Borough of Manhattan, City and County of New York; that I import, pack, and put up for sale, hair nets in envelopes or packages, bearing the following trade mark label and name marked thereupon:



Said article is packed and put up for sale in the City, County, and State of New York, and I believe myself to be the owner of the trade mark and label sought to be filed herein; that no other person, firm, corporation or association, to the best of my knowledge and belief, has the right to use said trade mark or label either in the identical form or in any form similar thereto, that it may mislead or be calculated to deceive; that the fac-simile herewith of such label and trade mark shows the same as actually used upon the goods. Said trade mark (that is the figure, as shown in the center of the label) has been registered in Vienna, Austria, on the 24th day of May, 1910, as No. 42,657 by Leopold Pfeifer, and in the United States Patent Office by the said Leopold Pfeifer on the 3d day of January, 1911, as No. 80,544; that on the 26th day of August, 1913, said Leopold Pfeifer, in consideration of One Dollar and other good and valuable considerations to him in hand paid by me, sold, assigned, transferred, and set over unto me, my heirs and assigns, his entire right, title, and interest in and to said trade mark and the certificates or letters of registration therefor, together with the good-will of the business to which said trade marks were appropriated, and in connection with which the same were and are used; that said assignment was duly received and recorded on the 11th day of September, 1913, in the United States Patent Office, Department of the Interior, and recorded in Liber E93, Page 212, of Transfer of Patents.

Said label and trade mark, of which the title is "Hold-Tight" No. 43 "Self-Adjustable," is registered in the United States Patent Office, Department of the Interior, as No. 17,353, under date of the 11th day of September, 1913, in conformity with the Laws of the United States relating to copyrights.

Said trade mark (figure) has been actually used in my business since the 12th day of May, 1910, together with the trade mark, (Hold-Tight,) as per fac-simile. The figure represents a woman putting on a self-adjustable (cap shape) hair net in which way she lifts both of her arms. Where the hands rest, the fingers lightly touch the hair. The hair net is visible over the hair and hands before adjusting, and the way that the same should be slipped on and adjusted over the coiffure is readily seen.

The hands of the woman are bare, she wears a necklace consisting of three lines of pearls with a medallion attached. She also wears a brassiere with ribbon shoulder straps.

DESCRIPTIVE FEATURES OF THE LABEL.

The trade mark (figure) is placed in the center, over which the trade mark name, "Hold-Tight," appears in bold type, and immediately under this trade mark name, in small type, are the words, "Requires no pins, No. 43." On the left side of the figure are the words, "Best Fringe Nets," and on the right side of the figure, "Real Human Hair." On both sides the words are inclosed in ornaments. Directly below the figure are the words, "Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.," and directly underneath, in larger type, are the words, "Self-Adjustable." To the left and at the lower left hand corner are the words, "Made in Vienna (Austria)." On the flap in the center is an oval medallion with the initials "A K" with four medals on each side.

The trade mark name "Hold-Tight" has been used in my business since about October, 1909, in connection with the trade mark figure No. 76,375, which was registered in the United States Patent Office on January 11th, 1910, and assigned to me for a valuable consideration by the said Leopold Pfeifer, said assignment being recorded on the 11th day of September, 1913, in the United States Patent Office, Department of the Interior, in Liber E93, at Page 212 of Transfer of Patents.

The foregoing is made pursuant to Chapter 367 of the General Business Law for filing in the office of the Secretary of the State of New York and in the office of the County Clerk of the County of New York.

Dated New York, August 26th, 1914.

ADOLPH KLAR.

State of New York, City of New York, County of New York, ss.:

On this 26th day of August, 1914, before me personally came and appeared ADOLPH KLAR, to me known and known to me to be the individual described in and who executed the foregoing instrument, and he duly acknowledged to me that he executed the same.

DAVID SHAWFOROFF,
Comm. of Deeds, New York City.
Certificate Filed in New York and Kings Counties. Residing in Kings County.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF New York, County of Kings.—TIMOTHY HOLLAND, Plaintiff, against BARNARD MONHAN and "MARY" MONHAN, his wife, the name "Mary" being fictitious, her true Christian name being unknown to the plaintiff; the People of the State of New York; also the heirs, wives, widows, devisees, and assigns of the defendants herein or any of them, and all persons unknown to the plaintiff having an interest in or a general or specific lien upon the real property described in the complaint in this action, and the City of New York, Defendants.

To the above-named defendants:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated July 14, 1914.

WILLIAM C. ROSENBERG,
Attorney for Plaintiff.
Office and Post Office Address: 149 Broadway, Manhattan Borough, New York City.

To the defendants Barnard Monhan and "Mary" Monhan, his wife, the name "Mary" being fictitious, her true Christian name being unknown to plaintiff; also the heirs, wives, widows, devisees, and assigns of the defendants herein or any of them, and all persons unknown to plaintiff having an interest in or a general or specific lien upon the real property described in the complaint in this action:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of the Hon. Russell Benedict, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York for the County of Kings, dated the 15th day of September, 1914, and filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings in the County Court House in the Borough of Brooklyn, City and State of New York, on September 16, 1914, in which said clerk's office the summons and complaint were also filed on the 15th day of September, 1914.

Dated September 16, 1914.

WILLIAM C. ROSENBERG,
Attorney for Plaintiff.
Office and Post Office Address: 149 Broadway, Manhattan Borough, New York City.

ASSIGNEE NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY—In the matter of the assignment of BARRON CATERING COMPANY to MAURICE P. DAVIDSON, for the benefit of creditors.

To Whom It May Concern:

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will sell at public auction by Jacob H. Mayers, auctioneer, the restaurant and cafe business of the Barron Catering Company on the 29th day of September, 1914, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at No. 298 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

The property to be sold includes the following:

1. All the right, title, and interest of the assignee in and to the lease of store and basement of premises No. 298 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, dated the 29th day of January, 1914, and running for a period of three years, having an annual rental of $6,000.00, payable in equal monthly installments, subject to all arrears now due or which may become due under the terms of this lease.

2. The portable furniture, fixtures, and equipment, including the tables, chairs, linens, glassware, crockery, kitchen utensils, bar, back bar, and chattels.

3. The entire stock of wines, liquors, groceries, and food supplies.

4. All the right, title, and interest of the assignee in the liquor license.

The property will be offered as follows:

(a) in bulk, (b) in parcels in the manner stated, and (c) in single lots. Any bid or combination of bids which will produce the largest amount will be accepted. Said property will be open for inspection every day between the hours of 10:30 A. M. and 4 P. M.

Dated New York, September 17th, 1914.

MAURICE P. DAVIDSON, Assignee.
ALFRED YANKAUER, Attorney for Assignee, 261 Broadway, New York City.

GONDORF GUILTY OF WIRE-TAPPING

Convicted of Defrauding Eugene Adams Out of $4,600 by Wireless Swindling Scheme.

ESCAPED IN OTHER TRIALS

Boasted of Immunity Because of Payment to Police and Influence with Political Leaders.

Charles Gondorf, reputed head of a band of "wire-tapping" swindlers, was convicted of grand larceny yesterday before Judge Swann in General Sessions and was sent to the Tombs for sentence on Monday. He was charged with swindling Eugene Adams, an Englishman, out of $4,600 in July.

Gondorf, who has been arrested many times in many different places, but who had never faced a jury up to the trial which ended yesterday, was plainly surprised at the verdict. So confident was he of a fevorable result that he did not even offer a defense. The trial lasted two days and a half and the verdict was reached in ten minutes. Assistant District Attorneys McCormick and Minton conducted the prosecution and George Gordon Battle appeared for Gondorf.

Following the announcement of the verdict, Charles Carbonell and Joseph Cohen, who were indicted with Gondorf on the same transaction and who had been outside of the courtroom during the trial, were committed to the Tombs. They have been out under $25,000 bail each. Carbonell and Cohen will be placed on trial next week.

In every previous case against Gondorf the complainant has failed to appear to press the charge. This time a trap was set for Gondorf, and he was caught in the act of passing money to Adams in an effort to get him to go to Canada. Adams testified at Wednesday's session that Gondorf told him that it would be useless to complain, as he paid the police 15 per cent. of the proceeds of his swindles, and boasted that he had as friends political leaders who could fix the District Attorneys and even the Judges.

Adams came over on the St. Louis with a steamer companion, and when they arrived in New York the companion introduced Adams in a café to a men who he said was a betting commissioner for the Vanderbilts and the Astors. With this man, who later turned out to be Gondorf, Adams visited a fake "Jockey Club" in West Forty-ninth Street, where he saw large sums of money changing hands, apparently on racing bets.

The Englishman went to the "Jockey Club" several times, but the members of the Gondorf crowd failed to persuade him to put up his money. Finally Gondorf announced that he had won $100,000 and asked Adams to display some money for him to show his good faith. Adams testified that Gondorf told him that the money need not pass out of his hands. No sooner did Adams display the money than a number of men burst into the room and told every one present, including Adams, that they were under arrest. Adams's money was taken from him by the alleged "detectives," who proved to be members of the Gondorf gang.

When Adams went to Police Headquarters and described the men who took part in the swindle, the police recognized members of the Gondorf gang. Carbonell and Cohen were arrested a few days later and for three weeks detectives searched the town for Gondorf. He was finally lured into a trap through Adams, whom, as the police predicted, he tried to buy off.

Gondorf described himself yesterday as a clerk, 46 years old, of 11 Manhattan Avenue. There was no record of convictions against him, although he had been arrested several times for grand larceny, receiving stolen goods, assault, and robbery. There are charges pending against him in Chicago and in Canada, the police say. He may be sentenced to from five to ten years in Sing Sing.

Among the cases in which Gondorf was implicated was that of William F. Walker, absconding cashier of the New Britain (Conn.) Savings Bank, in 1907. Gondorf was arrested in 1907 on the charge of having in his possession part of the $565,000 worth of cash and bonds stolen by Walker, who became interested in Gondorf's ventures.

In 1912 he was picked out of a line at Police Headquarters by Kirby Cleveland Sidbury, an attorney of Wilmington, N. C., and accused of being associated with a gang of wire-tappers who got $22,000 from Sidbury. In September, 1913, the Chief of Police of Toronto wrote that the original of a photograph of Gondorf, which he sent, was arrested in Canada after he and another man, representing themselves as promoters, had sold 2,200 shares in a fictitious "reinforced boat" company.

Dr. Bumpus Heads Tufts College.

MEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 17.—By unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Herman C. Bumpus of Wisconsin University was elected President of Tufts College today. It is expected he will assume office on Jan. 1, 1915.

SEEK BUDGET INCREASES.

City Departments Want Larger Appropriations for Next Year.

Some increases have been asked by the city departments in the appropriations for the forthcoming budget. Thus the President of Queens asks the Board of Estimate to allow him $2,517,525, or $450,817 more than he had for this year. Of this increase $276,744 is to increase the pay of present employes, including increases in the salaries of his bureau chiefs by $1,000 each, and for additions to his force. The other $174,072 will be needed for services other than personal.

The Queens office of audits and accounts asks for an increase of $8,000, the Bureau of Highways $25,325 for its executive staff, and $120,083 more for the maintenance of the streets. Then the Bureau of Sewers needs an increase of $14,050 for its executive staff, the Bureau of Street Cleaning has increased its estimate by $7,750, and the Bureau of Public Buildings by $14,458. The Building Department believes that its work will cost $8,720 more than in 1914, the engineering bureau $42,898, and the Topographical Bureau $12,869.

The Staten Island Association of Arts and Sciences, which received $9,038 this year, is asking for $9,878, an increase of $840, but the Examining Board of Plumbers finds it can cut its estimate by $25 from $3,839 to $3,814.

District Attorney Whitman has asked for an increase of $32,450, which would bring his appropriation to $502,260. This is largely accounted for by the creation of an additional part of General Sessions, which has made it necessary to increase the force in the District Attorney's office at a cost of $23,700. Then Mr. Whitman proposes to abolish the $3,800 job of private secretary and to create a new $5,000 post of secretary to the District Attorney's office.

The Board of Assessors sees its way to save $5.16 and is asking for next year $42,083, and the New York Public Library wants $837,483, or $105,573 more than for the present year. This is accounted for partly by the opening of two branch libraries and the establishment of the Municipal Reference Library.

PATRIOT MUST PAY ALIMONY

Fighting for France No Relief from Duties Imposed by Court.

L. C. Oldmixon, attorney for Edward L. Hermes, explained to Supreme Court Justice Platzek yesterday that his client could not pay back alimony to his wife, Alice Hermes, because he is a French subject and is at present in France fighting for his country. Therefore the court was asked to relieve him from all responsibility under the court order requiring him to pay.

L. Mathot, counsel for Mrs. Hermes, objected to any relief. He suggested that Hermes be held in contempt for leaving the jurisdiction of the court without permission. Mr. Mathot also said that Mrs. Hermes has a small child, and that she sorely needs the money awarded to her by the court. Justice Platzek denied the motion to relieve Mr. Hermes from paying. If Hermes survives the war and returns to this city he must pay the alimony or go to jail. He is connected with the jewelry firm of Arthur Hermes & Co.

Salvation Army's Charity Funds.

The Salvation Army, at its national headquarters at 120 West Fourteenth Street, denies what it characterizes as a most serious misstatement of fact relating to the action of the Charities Commission of Los Angeles, Cal., in endeavoring to curtail its work. The Army officials refer to a statement by a firm of chartered accountants which, they say, proves that not one cent of the $13,818 contributed for charity was sent outside the City of Los Angeles. It had been asserted that money collected in Los Angeles was used in other parts of the country.

IN NEW JERSEY.

HOBOKEN.—Firemen of Engine Company 5 rescued a horse belonging to the Kerns Express Company of Jersey City yesterday after it had fallen into a receiving basin at Clinton and First Streets.

NEWARK.—Charles McKinley, a salesman, fifty years old, fell from the rear porch at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ellen Dougherty, 70 Nelson Place, Newark, early yesterday morning and died in the City Hospital from a fractured skull.

NEWARK.—Eluding nurses in the psychopathic ward in the City Hospital yesterday, Harry Kelly, forty-four years old, a patient, who was under observation, sneaked into the pantry in the ward and killed himself by cutting his throat with a bread knife. J. S. Whitridge, Vice President of the Buckeye Steel Castings Company, of 50 Church Street, Manhattan, a brother-in-law, was notified of Kelly's death.

PASSAIC.—Katherine Babbitt, three years old, fell from a window of her home on the third floor at 27 Asten Street yesterday and was instantly killed.

PATERSON.—William Russell, a bartender of New York, and Morris Dolan were caught trying to steal $5,000 worth of diamonds in the jewelry store of L. A. Piaget & Co. yesterday and were arrested by Detective Capt. William Tracey and Detective Sergt. Lord. At the station house the diamonds were found on the men.

BRANCHVILLE.—Charles H. Chrisman, manager of the electric light company here; Lee Norman of Paterson, John Doty of Branchville, Christopher Ashworth of Paterson, and Frank E. McNeillie of Branchville were hurt yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned.

FLEMINGTON.—The Hunterdon County Grand Jury yesterday indicted Frank Burd for the murder of Manning Riley at Califon seven years ago. Burd is now in the State prison for carrying concealed weapons. John E. Schuyler, who was arrested immediately following the murder, was convicted of the crime in May, 1907, and is now serving a life sentence.

SHOT VANDERBILT'S TRAINER

C. H. Wilson Wounded at Horse Show by Private Detective.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—There was excitement at the White Plains horse show today when it became known that an attempt had been made to shoot Charles H. Wilson, manager of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's stable. Wilson was fired at five times by Fred Shultz, a private detective, who says he has a grievance against Wilson.

The life of the horse trainer was saved by the quick action of Walter Kelly, manager of the stable of Felix Warburg, the banker, who knocked the revolver from Shultz's hand as he was about to fire a sixth shot. Mr. Wilson received a bullet wound in the left foot, but it was only a glancing shot.

Reginald Vanderbilt, who was at the show ring, had Wilson sent to the White Plains Hospital, where the wound was dressed. Shultz, before he was taken to the White Plains jail by Sheriff Doyle, told reporters that he had sought revenge on Wilson because of his treatment of the late Miss Florence Schenck, the Southern beauty, who was linked with Wilson's name in London as well as in this country.

Wilson declined to talk about the shooting except to say he thought his assailant was irresponsible. Shultz said after his arrest: "I didn't mean to kill Wilson. I only wanted to scare him. I also want to say that he drew a gun on me. Florence Schenck always told me he carried a Derringer, and that is the reason I shot."

TRAIN SHOOTER TO PRISON.

Parnell, Who Shot Three and Killed One, May Die in Sing Sing.

Charles S. Parnell, the young Brooklyn man who ran through three cars of the Boston Express on the New Haven Railroad on July 26, while intoxicated, firing a revolver, and wounded three persons, one of whom died, was sentenced to Sing Sing for from twenty years to life yesterday by Judge Gibbs, in the Bronx County Court. Parnell pleaded guilty to an indictment charging manslaughter in the second degree.

With a bandage over his face, Parnell went through the train firing a revolver indiscriminately. Austin Dyce, a sailor of [illegible] South Street, died from a bullet [illegible] a few days after the shooting. N. R. Shea, a brakeman of Bridgeport, and Mrs. Bessie Thornton of West New Brighton, S. I., were also wounded. Parnell is 25 years old and lives at 264 Twelfth Street, Brooklyn.
